Legality of Ceremony Doubted—

Ex-King Carol of Romania Weds Dying Mme. Lupescu

RIO DE JANEIRO — (AP)—Former King Carol of Romania was disclosed Saturday to have sought to legalize his 23 years' companionship with the gravely ill Mme. Elena Lupescu, in a special "death bed" ceremony.

The ceremony, performed Thursday in Carol's luxurious suite at the Hotel Copacabana was requested by Mme. Lupescu under a Brazilian law which permits marriage to dying persons. There were some doubts, however, as to the legality of the action.

Two physicians were reported attending Mme. Lupescu. She had suffered for many months from a lingering illness, which earlier was described as lukemia and was now said to be pernicious anemia.

One witness to the bedside ceremony said he was unauthorized to give details, but that it was "a very sad occasion."

It was known, however, that the ceremony was attended by the necessary witnesses and public officials to make it legal under the civil law which permits marriage "in extremis."

Both Divorced

This dramatic climax to the long international romance, nevertheless, may fail to attain legality since both Carol and Mme. Lupescu are divorced under Romanian laws and Brazilian law does not permit divorce.

Carol, 53, and Mme. Lupescu, about 40, have been living in exile for about seven years. They left Romania in September, 1940 under a hail of bullets from Gen. Ion Antonescu's anti-semitic Iron Guard.

Carol, exiled twice from his country, left both times with Mme. Lupescu. He renounced the throne for her love in 1925. He took her with him when he fled in 1940.

Carol was married to Grecian Princess Helen in 1921, but she divorced him in 1928 because he preferred the auburn haired Mme. Lupescu, daughter of a moneylender and wife of an officer in the Romanian army.

"Uncrowned Queen"

She was sometimes known as "the uncrowned queen" of Romania, because of her reputed power in directing appointments in the government and the army. For the most part, however, during the early years she kept in the background and was referred to by Romanians in whispers as "Madame X," for the mention of her name in public carried the risk of arrest.

Later she took an active part in the social life of Bucharest. She not only attended many parties but entertained lavishly at her own mansion.
