INDIANAPOLIS is not the only town in the country where a free-lunch would be enormously patronized, even if it was not run by a candidate for President.

WE are really surprised to see our Republican brethren using the American flag to wipe their noses on. Thurman never did that; he uses a red bandana handkerchief.

THE partner of Drexler, the San Francisco boss of the jute bag "combine," is Qwark Choy, a Chinaman. They plunder the farmers of the Coast of half a million a year, or so.

MOST of the employes in the woolen factories of California are Chinamen. They are all down on foreign pauper labor, and will vote for Harrison and Morton to a man—if they get a chance.

IN 1879, Mr. Ben Harrison said in an essay on "The Chinese in America," that "the Chinaman was likely to become as good an element as any other race." Chinaman, Irishman, German—all on a level, in his opinion.

FREE trade with Hawaii has added about $3,000,000 a year to the business of San Francisco alone, and caused the expenditure among workmen of that city of $500,000 annually. And Hawaii is only a little dot in the great ocean.

MR. HARRISON'S home organ, the Indianapolis Journal, alludes to the participants in a Democratic parade in that city as "beetle-browed, bottle-nosed slum bummers." They probably wore "cheap coats"—after paying an eighty per cent. tariff tax.

THE Oregonian, predicting the success of the high-taxation party, says that "self-interest, rather than sentiment, will win." Sentiment! Why not say self-interest instead of justice? It is self-interest and not justice that the Oregonian is supporting.

THE last issue of the San Francisco Bulletin (Republican organ) describes the landing at that port the day before of the steamship "City of Peking," containing nine hundred Chinamen; all who are not permitted to land will do so at Port Townsend, W. T. Yet the "Chinese Question" is "settled" in this country.

UMATILLA COUNTY will probably raise two million bushels of wheat this year, requiring a million sacks, costing $100,000. Of this about $40,000 is a tariff tax. The Democratic party proposes to reduce it twenty per cent., or to save $20,000 for the farmers of Umatilla county alone on the one item of jute sacks. The Republicans propose to give them free whisky.

"TIME will soon bring Eternity, and then you will have to quit this foolishness," is a sentence in an exchange which is a whole sermon. Men and women are fools indeed to squander any part of the little time of life in "foolishness" of any sort. Every day's record should show as much of good, and as little of evil, as possible, and no "foolishness."

THE decisions of Federal judges of California have over-ridden and nullified the Democratic Chinese-restriction legislation, so that Chinese are coming into San Francisco and other Pacific Coast ports at the rate of several thousand every month. Yet Dolph and Scott say the Chinese question is quite lifeless. We say it is a very lively question—or ought to be.

THE two great parties have always had radically different views on the public land question. Every Republican may well be proud of the policy of encouraging railroad construction in advance of settlement by liberal grants of public land.—Chicago Inter-Ocean, (Rep.)

THIS boasting of the reckless donation of the people's land to corporations is an exhibition of "cheek" that is quite admirable. What a record to be "proud" of!

GENERAL SHERIDAN DEAD.

General Sheridan is dead. The news comes unexpectedly, notwithstanding his long illness, for it was supposed he was gradually improving, or at least not declining. Sheridan rose to a prominence second to but two or three other military commanders during the civil war; and as a cavalry leader he easily held the first place. His campaigns in the Shenandoah valley in 1864, and in aid of Grant's forces in the final struggle around Richmond in the spring of 1865, were an almost unexampled series of successes, won by extreme daring, yet guided by able generalship.

General Sheridan's character partook of the usual characteristics of the Celtic race. He was impetuous, brave, and shrewd, and deserved the military laurels that were awarded to him. His death will be sincerely mourned by all the country as a national loss, and the memory of his splendid military career will be kept fresh through many a changing year.

MR. SCHULZE KICKS, OF COURSE.

Mr. Paul Schulze has had another tantrum. He is virtuously, righteously, and most intensely indignant at Secretary Vilas' decision in favor of the many hundreds of settlers on land in Oregon and Washington, which has heretofore been clouded by the Paw of the railroad, claiming what does not by law or right belong to it.

The Guilford Miller case is celebrated. It nominally involved only a quarter section of land, but really a large number of sections which, under the corrupt and corporation-favoring decisions of the Interior Department, then in fashion, were successfully "claimed" by the railroad. But the case was finally taken to President Cleveland himself, who thoroughly investigated it and practically reversed the decision of the Secretary of the Interior, and an opinion of the Attorney-General. In a memorable letter, he declared that the rights of the settlers should be protected against the rapacity of the railroad. By his interference Mr. Miller retains his home, and not only he, but hundreds of other settlers.

Mr. Schulze was very angry at Mr. Cleveland then; and he is very angry at Mr. Vilas now. He threatens that they will be reversed by the U. S. Supreme Court. Possibly. But we doubt it. But even if they are, that will not destroy the fact that the President and Mr. Vilas have decided on the side of right and justice.

WHY don't the Democratic newspapers copy some of the complimentary articles of the English press concerning their principles and prospects?—Salem Statesman.

Because they are mostly manufactured by Republican editors in the interest of their party of monopolies. But if the Democratic policy is beneficial to England, it must necessarily be a benefit also to the people of America, since trade confers mutual benefits.

A CHEAP coat indicates a cheap man, says Mr. Harrison. That is precisely Mr. Harrison's idea of a man; unless he is dressed in broadcloth and wears kid gloves, he is a cheap creature—about on a level with mules. It was some of these "cheap men" that Mr. Harrison was disposed to shoot down in 1877 for daring to assert their rights, and resist the oppression of the railroad corporation, of which Mr. Harrison was attorney. But cheap men have votes.

A COUNTY exchange speaks of seeing the "jolly form" of a visitor in its town. What particular sort of "form" is a "jolly" one is what we don't know.

TEXAS has 4,500,000 sheep, which yield annually 26,000,000 pounds of wool. Yet we heard a man assert the other day that no wool was raised in the South.

EVEN the pig-tailed coolies may be seen wiping their noses on the stars and stripes. Shame, shame!
