AMONG THE EXCHANGES OF THE INLAND EMPIRE

Common Scene in Baker City.

Quietly, unostentatiously, mysteriously—as befits the labor of toting $20,000 plunks d'or in the form of bullion bars fresh from the clean up batteries and retort, General Manager Emil Melzer, of the celebrated North Pole mine, on Cracker Creek, came down from the Upper Sumpter last week, and alighting from the Sumpter Valley train, entered a waiting cab and was driven straight to the local bank, the doors of which had been left unlocked long past the regular closing hour, in pursuance it is believed to a telegraphic request from Sumpter.

Dismissing the cab at the bank entrance, Mr. Melzer, assisted by an officer, lugged a Gladstone traveling bag through the door, and the incident, so far as the general public was concerned, was closed.

When Mr. Melzer and the heavy traveling bag boarded the train at Sumpter, it required the services of two men to lift the mysterious grip to the car platform.

Obviously the grip weighed from 70 to 80 pounds, maybe 90. Estimating gold at 16 ounces to the pound, $20 to the ounce, the grip contained from $24,000 to $30,000 of yellow boys.—Baker City Democrat.

Gold by the Wagon Load.

One of the biggest clean-ups ever known in the history of Baker county mines was brought down one time two years ago from the famous Bonanza mine at Geiser. Not a soul knew of the treasure shipment outside of one or two mine officials and two deputy sheriffs who were sent from Baker City to guard General Manager Thatcher while making the lonely trip from the mine to the railway. The amount of gold carried at that time was $102,000. Frequently at later dates Mr. Thatcher, guarded by officers of the law, brought down clean-ups worth from $50,000 to $80,000.—Baker City Herald.

Filipino Lad From Walla Walla.

A letter form Antonio Salazar, from Manila, March 8, gives the impression that from his point of view Manila is no Mecca for the young man wanting work.

A recommendation from the United States, he says, has no weight with the business houses there. And to get a government position one must pass a civil service examination, which is hard. He thinks it would be better for him to be here carrying newspapers or picking fruit at the Blalock farm.

His grandmother is the only tie that binds him to the Philippines. She is old and very feeble and he considers it his duty to care for her while she lives. "Otherwise," he writes, "I would come back as soon as I could." One thing he realizes the necessity of attending school and to "continue my work in school," he says, "seems one of first importance."—Walla Walla Union.

Decadence of the Range.

In a recent bulletin published by the experiment station at the state agricultural bureau at Pullman valuable information is given concerning the range conditions in Eastern and Central Washington. Within recent years most of the former extensive range has been taken up, either as homesteads or as stock ranches, and the time is rapidly approaching when cattlemen will have to own their own ranges or else be forced out of the business.

Already the greater part of the available grazing land in the Columbia river basin and the eastern Cascade watershed has been taken up, and the Okanogan country is being forced to let greater demands be made upon its grazing lands. As yet it is not so badly depleted as the region of the south, but the settlement of many homesteads each year may soon place it on par with the other districts. Even now in the river valleys, where the soil is naturally lighter, the bunchgrass is disappearing and needle grass is taking its place.—Walla Walla Statesman.

Bloodless Bullfight.

Senor Robles, the Spanish bullfighter, has succeeded in securing five untamed steers and one vicious cow for his exhibitions on April 26 and 27 at Riverside park. By means of red flags he will taunt the animals into fighting mood and show how the toreadors conquer the bulls of Spain. There will be no bloodshed and no torture. Senor Robles uses to instruments of any kind. In addition to the main feature there will be a bucking contest with a prize of $25 for the best rider.—Boise Statesman.
