TOWNS ARE RIVALS

La Grande and Union Want County Seat.

PEOPLE OF COUNTY TO DECIDE

La Grande Citizens Are Confident of Winning the Plum-Strong Petition for Removal.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 2.-(Special.)-The fight in the Legislature over relocation of the county seat of Union has been stayed by a truce. Both sides to the contest by a truce. Both sides to the contest have agreed upon a bill whereby, if 55 per cent of the electors of the county vote for La Grande at a special election, the county seat will be moved to that city from Union. Representatives of La Grande at the Capitol are confident that their city will win. They base their con-fidence on convincing evidence of the continent of the county and of the geosentiment of the county and of the geo-graphical and commercial and political relations of the two towns. J. W. Scriber and J. M. Church, who have been present-ing the La Grafide side of the argument at the Capitol, have met with a high degree of success, and it was mainly through their exposition of the case that the committee on counties of the House resolved to recommend the passage of the bill already mentioned.

The members of the Legislature from Union County, Senators Wade and Pierce and Representatives Murphy and Burleigh, have worked to carry out the wishes of the majority of the people of the county as expressed in the petition. The Union people readily assented to the bill, after they saw the sentiment of the committee and the inexpediency of further opposition. The measure will pass without any doubt. This means that La Grande has practically won the county seat, although that city still has to muster its forces in an election for final suc-

The separation of the "Panhandle" from Union County and the addition of that area to Baker County, done by the Legislature of 1901, has completely read-justed the conditions under which the struggle for relocation in Union County been waged heretofore. While the "Panhandle" was a part of Union County, the town of Union had a firm hold on the county seat because it was nearer the center of the county than was La Grande, and was, therefore, more convenient for residents of the "Panhandle" to reach. But the addition of the "Panhandle" to Baker County, reducing the area of Union County over one-third, has put La Grande more in the center of the county than is Union. The geographical rela tions of the two towns are now just re-versed. La Grande now lies at the convergence of the principal avenues of the county. Trade and business drift its way from all directions. It is a railroad center and the commercial, industrial and political headquarters of the county. Whereas to the town of Union, now over two-thirds is tributary to La Grande. La Grande is a rapidly-growing town of 6000 inhabitants. It has hotels and schools and other advantages superior to those of Union. Moreover La Grande is on the direct line of the railroad at the junction of the Eigin branch with the main line. This branch is an artery of La Grande's commercial resource. By this branch that town draws to itself the trade of the fertile valley of Grand Ronde River to the northward. The avenues of trade from the southward also lead to La Grande. That city is at the center of large agricultural, lumbering and stock-raiding interasts. It is meanly three times direct line of the railroad at the junction raising interests. It is nearly three times as large as the town of Union.

Mr. Scriber has presented a petition to the Legislature from citizens of Union County, asking for relocation of the coun-wrapper, which shall have the name of the manufacturer. The last mentioned provision is violently opposed by several Among the men who addressed the com-mittee were: N. H. Looney, of Jefferson, who drew up the present law; Dr. James Withycombe, of Corvallis; T. S. Town-send, of Portland; George Goodhue, and H. B. Thielsen, of Salem; W. W. Cotton, E. Burr, J. W. Bailey, W. H. Chopin, of Portland; William Schulmerich, president Oregon Dairy Association; E. J. Seely, of Albany; Richard Scott, of Milwaukie, and

FLAW IN CONSTITUTION. Revealed by Comparison of Copy Signed and the One Sent Congress. SALEM, Or., Feb. 2.-(Special)-It has been discovered that section 2 of article 17 of the Oregon constitution as it has always paper. been published in Oregon codes is incor-rect, and that the constitution as it was transmitted to Congress and approved by that body when the state was admitted is radically different. The copy of the constitution which is on file in the office of suitution which is on hie in the onice of the Secretary of State, and which purports to have been signed by the members of the convention, is also incorrect. The proper wording of that section of the constitution was discovered today by Messrs Ford, Kaiser and Slater, who procured a copy of the constitution as it was trans-mitted to Congress. The section as it appears in the constitution approved by Congress is as follows: When two or more amendments shall be sub mitted at the same time they shall be submitted in such manner that the electors shall yote for or against each of such amendments separately; and while an amendment or amendments which and while an amendment or amendments which shall have been agreed upon by one Legislative Assembly shall be awaiting the action of a Legislative Assembly or of the electors, no addi-tional amendments shall be proposed.

In the copy kept in Oregon and signed by the members of the Constitutional Con-vention the words "at the same time they shall be submitted" were left out, and in clerks in charge, will be established by the Sumpter Valley Railway between Baker City and Sumpter, a distance of f miles, beginning next Tuesday. PORTAGE GROWS IN FAVOR

THE MORNING OREGONIAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1903.

Matter is Discussed Before Railroad Committee-Attorney Cotton Says Improve Mouth of River.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 3.-(Special.)-The rallroad committees of the two houses this afternoon in joint meeting considered the bill for a portage railroad above The Dalles. Sentiment in favor of the bill is growing, and it is likely to have strong support. The chief argument in its favor is that action by the state is necessary, in order to break the railroad opposition to the proposed Government canal and locks. The advocates of the bill say that construction of the Cascade locks was hastened by the portage railway built by the state at that place. They argue that with the railroad opposi-tion broken influence which has defeated the Government project below Celilo will ate by Senator Johnston, and in the House by Mr. Johnson. In the Senate a bill calls for an appropriation of $200,000, and in the House for $165,000. Its advocates admit that the lesser sum will be suffi-cient to build the road. Huber and Maxwell, engineers, two years ago estimated the cost at the latter figure. The road The road Government already owns most of the right of way, which it acquired for the boat railway project. The Seufert inter-ests, it is said, would not oppose the project, nor would the O. JANGLE OVER FOOD BILL.

Cold Storage Men Don't Want

Label Tub Butter as Such. BALLEM, Or., Feb. 3.-(Special.)-The House committee on food and dairy prod-ucts, tonight met with representatives of the dairy, creamery and cold storage interests and there was a lively jangle. The trouble was chiefly about the pro-vision in the present law requiring tub vision in the present law requiring tub butter to be inbeled as such.

Cold storage men want the privilege of storing butter in tubs and selling it in squares without labeling it tub butter. They contend that the brand condemns the butter on account of the large quantity of inferior butter which goes into tubs insist that tub butter thus stored is of high creamery grade, in many case better than the fresh product, and in no case more than a degree inferior to the best. They contend that butter keeps setter in tubs than in squares, and that therefore a repeal of the present law is in the interest of the public. They do not maintain that they should be permitted to inbei tub butter freeh product, but that they should be absolved from injuring business by branding their butter a name that condemns it. answer to them was that butter

The uld be sold for just what it is and nothing else, whether it comes from tubs or not; that the public is entitled to know for what it is paying; that repeal of the clause in question would admit a great quantitiy of inferior butter to the state to the injury of the industry, and that the industry had prospered under the present law for four years and the Legislature should leave well enough alone. The new pure food bill introduced by Mr. Olwell was debated as to its butter regubations. It provides that every person who sells imitation or process butter shall keep a record of his sales for the inspection of the Datry Commissioner; that every square of butter shall bear a
