2 SHIPS IN DISTRESS OFF COOS BAY BAR

STEAMERS SIGHTED, ONE TOWING THE OTHER; TUGS CAN'T APPROACH.

High Wind and Heavy Seas Make Hold Difficult; Mariners Think Both Will Be Able to Ride Safely.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Jan. 29.—After standing off Coos Bay since 11 this forenoon awaiting a tug to relieve her of a steam schooner with disabled engines, an unknown steam schooner is battling with a heavy storm of wind and rain to maintain her hold on the distressed vessel until aid can reach them.

The night closed down before any aid came in the vicinity, but one approached about 6 o'clock, supposed to be the G. C. Lindauer, bound from San Francisco to Coos Bay. Signals were heard passing between the craft and the Arago lighthouse. The disabled craft is believed to be the steam schooner Santa Monica, since she has the appearance of that craft. She has no cargo. The name on the schooner which has her in tow cannot be made out in full, but the first name is "John."

Vessels from Southwest.

The vessels came up to the bar from the southwest this morning shortly before 11 o'clock, and it was concluded by the coast guard and the lighthouse crews that the leading vessel commander was afraid to venture a passage and was probably a stranger to this port. The bar was smooth and passable even with a tow.

Captain O. P. Britt of the coast Guard at Charleston Bay, made out the signal on the vessels after a couple of hours and essayed to obtain the tug Gleanor from the Umpqua river but was informed the bar could not be passed. The Port of Bandon tug Killhyam was then sought, and word came back she would go out tonight and assist. Captain J. Dunson of the Arago lighthouse, was nearest to the vessels, but owing to rain and mist, the name of the disabled schooner could not be discerned, although they were nearly up to the bar at one time.

Park Board to Hooverize.

TACOMA, Jan. 29.—Part of the big zoological exhibit at Point Defiance Park will be abolished this winter by the city park board as a means of helping in the Hoover conservation program.

At today's session the board instructed Secretary Gower to communicate with eastern circuses and animal dealers and solicit offers for two big lions and other carnivorous animals at the park.

Meat bills for the animals at the park amount to $125 a month and the park also has to furnish heat for the cages in which the animals are housed.

Mysterious Tube Found.

ROSEBURG, Jan. 29.—A thorough investigation is being made by the district attorney and other officers into what is believed to have been an attempt to blow up a passenger train near Myrtle Creek, 18 miles south of this city, some time last night.

A glass tube eight inches long and about an inch and a quarter in diameter, with a small inner tube extending from one end of the glass to the other, one tube filled with what is supposed to be nitroglycerine and the other with some other explosive, was picked up near the end of the railroad bridge by two boys this morning, having rolled down the embankment a distance of a few feet.

Religious Census Taken.

CAMP LEWIS, Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 29.—Almost every creed under the sun is represented at Camp Lewis.

There are 36 infidels, six agnostics, nine Buddhists, 153 atheists, one fatalist, six holy rollers, 1114 Mormons, four Mohammedans, six Quakers, one Russian church member, one Yoki and 2616 non-sectarians among the thousands at camp according to a religious census just completed by Lieutenant Raymond, aide de camp.

There are 7599 Roman Catholics, 3453 Methodists, those churches having the largest number. A complete list is given.

Lumber Plant Purchased.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 29.—The Rose Lake Lumber Company, one of the largest independent lumber operators of the Inland Empire, is purchasing the plant and millsite of the defunct Stack-Gibbs Lumber Company at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Property and business interests which total $500,000 are involved in the transfer. The deal was practically closed after a week of negotiations. Final details are being settled today. The Stack-Gibbs property is being transferred to the Rose Lake interests by the Exchange National Bank of Spokane.

Blaze Due to Explosion.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 29.—An explosion in the engine-room caused the fire which destroyed the American motor schooner Portland off the South American coast recently, according to advices reaching here today. The cause of the explosion was not stated. Captain A. Markusson, master of the Portland, and his crew took to the boats when the fire broke out and reached Callao safely January 10. The Portland evidently went to the bottom, the advices said, as a search failed to locate her burned hulk. The boat was valued at $300,000 and carried a lumber cargo worth $15,000.

Forest Survey Makes Large Sale of Spruce In Southeast Alaska

PORTLAND, Jan. 28.—District Forester Geo. H. Cecil, Portland, announces that the sale of twenty-four million feet of Sitka spruce and one million feet of western hemlock on the Tongass National Forest, in southeastern Alaska, has been awarded to the Craig Lumber Company of Craig, Alaska, who was the highest bidder for the timber. The prices were $3.85 per thousand feet for spruce, and $1.00 per thousand for hemlock.

The area involved in this sale embraces six hundred acres located on Long Island and extends northward from Houkan Indian village for about three miles. Long Island lies just off the west coast of Prince of Wales Island. The spruce, which is of exceptionally fine quality for Alaska, will yield a good percentage of lumber suitable for airplane construction. The Craig Lumber company has recently enlarged its mill and is prepared to manufacture the timber rapidly. The company will commence logging operations on a large scale in the near future.
