86 WICKED ONES IN SEPTEMBER ROUND-UP

September proved a banner month in police court annals with 86 cases tried and fines and forfeitures of $1282. Not for ten years has the total in fines been so high, although there were times, before the advent of prohibition, when the number of cases exceeded last month's total.

Forty-nine cases were listed under ordinance 404, which includes drunk, disorderly, immoral conduct and fighting. A large number of these were for drunkeness, however. The Round Up was only a small contributor to the total, however, the violations being well distributed throughout the month.

With a traffic officer on duty only part of the month, but 24 offenders were brought in. Most of these were for minor violations, such as parking improperly. Speeding is becoming less prevalent, the books show.

One cases tried included six for unlawful possession of liquor, four for having opium, two for riding horses on a sidewalk and one for driving a for-hire car without the proper licence.

Status Now Same as Before But Application Must be Made for License and Wave Length Limited 200 Meters.

All wartime restrictions on amateur and other private radio stations have been lifted by the navy department, and, beginning today, the status of these stations is the same as before the war.

The transmitter wave-length of amateur stations must not exceed 200 meters and before using such stations a license must be obtained from the radio inspector, department of commerce, L. C. Smith building, Seattle, by all prospective owners and operators in the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and the territory of Alaska.

Application by those intending to construct stations should be made to the radio inspector for forms upon which to apply for license. Licenses will not be issued to those whose antenna circuit length exceeds 115 feet, as it is a violation of present radio laws to emit a wave-length exceeding 200 meters.

Owners of radio apparatus confiscated during the war and held by public officials may apply to the district communication superintendent, navy yard, Bremerton, Wash., for its release, stating in every case where located. Its return will depend upon the conditions under which it was confiscated.

Went Home to Break Up a Cold
C. F. Cullen, 62 S. Lafayette St., Mobile, Ala., writes: "I was traveling in the interest of my business and contracted a severe cold in New Orleans. I tried to break it by means I had previously used, but—no, it got me in the left lung. I purchased two $1 bottles of——, I reached Meridian, Miss., no better. I tried a porous plaster and hot mustard foot baths. My cold got so bad I made for home. I saw your 'ad' and I took a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, discarding other medicines. I got relief. I got well. I thank you,—— and from now on Foley's Honey and Tar always will be in my home."

Foley's Honey and Tar has been used for more than thirty years in thousands of homes for relief from coughs, colds, spasmodic croup, tickling throat, hoarseness, whooping cough, bronchial coughs and the coughs that follow influenza or grip.
