PORTLAND FIRM'S

is other inflow of ground water at different points on the system. Furthermore, the present method of operation of flush tanks, which are numerous in the city, puts a heavy excessive load on the system.

"Economy points to the necessity of reducing the sewage flow by repairing and correcting the serious flaws in the system and improving the efficiency of its operation. The sewage disposal plant should properly be designed to take care of the normal needs of a city having the size of Pendleton and conditions similar thereto, with additions to take care of unavoidable waste only.

"We would recommend for the city of Pendleton a sewage disposal plant to handle approximately 1,000,000 gallons per day normally, with liberal proportions to carry possible overload, and provision for future doubling of this capacity. Needless to say, with this capacity of plant efforts must be made to reduce existing water waste and excessive rates of flow."

Upkeep Would Be Slight

The services of one man would be sufficient to take care of the plant, and the engineers make the statement that it would not require all of the time of one man for this one service. He could devote some time to other municipal work under the direction of the city engineer.

The Imhoff tanks will be two in number and will be built of reinforced concrete in such a way that it will be practicable to add another pair when future requirements demand it.

Longer!

There seems to be no doubt left that Paris has "rung down the curtain" on short gowns. A tendency toward grandmother fashions certainly couldn't be carried out with the recent short editions. The taffeta gown shown here, which was worn by a debutante at the French races is of taffeta with a modified hoop skirt.
