Daily Mountaineer.

The editor of the Salt Lake Vedette has received a letter written in blood—or red ink—which reads —☞ Skedadlee. It is the "red hand" of the Destroying Angels, and threatening assassination. The editor is not much frightened by the order, but says:

"Well, we shall keep the document, and leave our readers to judge whether we are much frightened. If these miserable hounds and cut throats think they can intimidate the Vedette, why they are simply mistaken. We have spoken plainly in the past, and we shall speak still more plainly in the future, holding ourselves accountable only to God, our conscience, and the laws of the land."

The following day the editor received another warning, of which he says:

We stop the press to give place to the following: "Now," as the lark said to the young ones, "it is time for us to leave!" We could stand the "bloody hand," and the "skedadlee" of the other warnings' but the following gets us. Just count us out!

SALT LAKE CITY, April 9th, 1866.

MR EDITOR VIDETTE: If you don't quit abusing Stenhouse and the Mormons, we'll come and marry you. We don't "mean blood," but we won't stand to have Stenhouse maligned; so you look out.

☞ 27 MORMON WOMEN.

We weaken on the turn. Will some one take our place? "27 Mormon women" P-h-e-w! We apologize. We don't edit the Vedette—Stenhouse is a good fellow—a brave man—and he can look a dog in the face! Besides, he never did borrow a pair of brass knuckles. "27 M—,'—O Lord have mercy upon us miserable sinners!" Dont shoot this way! We are not the man! 27 wives! We'll go!

THE LAST MOMENTS OF SENATOR FOOT.—The Washington correspondent of the Alta California thus depicts the scene at the death-bed of Senator Foot of Vermont.

His illness was of about six weeks' duration, but up to a week ago, hopes were entertained of his recovery. His death-bed was that of a nobleman and a Christian. At about 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning, as if admonished by some invisible attendant that his moments were few, he signified his desire to see once more the light of the sun in heaven, and the capital on which it shone, and where he had so long served the people of his State and country, and where his associates would soon again assemble. They lifted him up, but his eyes were already dim, and he sank back upon his pillow. Seeing his time was at hand, the words of the 23d Psalm were read, and a solemn prayer went up from the lips of one, the dearest to him on earth. He called her to his side, folded her in his arms for a moment, then, as his breathing became choked, he said: "What! can this be death? Is it come already?" Then, lying a few moments longer, with eyes all full of celestial radiance, he lifted his hands and looked up exclaiming: "I see it! I see it! The gates are wide open! beautiful!" and without a movement or pang, immediately expired. His death has cast a gloom over Congress, and this community, where he was held in high estimation for his many admirable traits of character.
