What's New on the Market

By REX STEWART

Retail prices quoted by some stores on new potatoes is extremely high. The wholesale market price is 3 and 3½ cents a pound, the retail price is 5 and 6 cents a pound, leaving a good big round profit after allowing for a possible 5 per cent shrinkage.

Cucumbers are a little cheaper. The same grade that was selling two for 35 cents are 15 cents each. Home grown bunched beets and turnips are plentiful on the market and in good condition, but retain their former price of 10 cents a bunch or three for a quarter.

Extra fancy Florida grapefruit can be obtained for 25 cents each. They are excellent and very large, but the housewife would do better if she would pick them out herself.

The consumer cannot complain of fish prices for tomorrow or the lack of variety offered. Salmon is selling for 25 cents a pound; halibut, 20; ling cod, 12½; black cod, 15; and shad thre pounds for 25 15; and shad three pounds for 25 port and excellent quality.

Work is progressing rapidly at the Roseburg Country club grounds and the golf links will soon be finished.
