The first installation of a pastor of a Congregational church which has ocerre'l in Oregon for 45 years took place esterday when the Rev. Edwin Lincoln use was installed as pastor of the First gregational Church,

The malary of Dr. House will be $3000 a year, with a vacation of four weeks, and the position is to be held by him indefinitely, the contract being terminable at the instance of either the congregation or himself by giving a notice of three months. Previous to the ceremony Dr. House was naked to state his religious belief, and the members of the congregation at the ecclesissical council which had been called together for the occasion were invited to ask the candidate any questions lecided to invite him to accept the position permanently. Upon his favorable in tonsideration of the proposal preparations were commenced for his official installation, and the following letter was the ent to all Congregational churches of this state, to some of those in Washington and California, and to a number of eminent pastors of the creed as individuals:

Dear Brethren: The great head of the hurch has kindly united us and the con-regation statedly worshiping with us in he choice of Rev. Edwin Lincoln House. 2. D., to be our partor and teacher, and is has accepted our invitation to that the choice of Rev. Edwin Lincoln House. D. D., to be our paster and teacher, and he has accepted our invitation to that office, subject to the advice of council; we, therefore, affectionately request your attendance, by your paster and a delegate, in ecclesiastical council, at our house of worship in this place on Thursday, the seventh day of May next, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., to examine the candidate, review our proceedings and advise us in reference to the same; and if judged expedient, to assist in the installation service. C. H. Gaylord, cierk of the church, thereupon read the resolution of the congregation, the letter from the church to the Free Evangelical Church, of Providence, R. I., expressing the highest appreciation of his work in that field and the keenest possible regret at being under the companies of the keenest possible regret at being un-able to offer him sufficient inducements to remain. Of his enthusiastic devotion to his pastoral duties the resolution spoke to his pastoral duties the resolution spoke in terms both lengthy and calogistic. Other papers, such as letters recommending him for membership in the Ministerial Association of Oregon and his ordination papers, were also presented. It was moved and carried that the credentials be accepted without further question. "It has been suggested," said the moderator, after some further discussion, "that the candidate make at this time a statement of his theological belief." And in response Dr. House detailed to the council his belief in the vital points of the creed of the church.

His Mind Recourive.

Defects of Other Theories. The matter with the larger number of the theories of the atonement is, not that they are wholly wrong, but that they are only partly right. But partly right they surely are; for they hold in them an ele-ment of truth indispensable to a clear and complete view of the significance of the cross.

REV. E. L. HOUSE

FORMALLY INSTALLED AS PASTOR OF THE FIRST CONGREGA. TIONAL CHURCH.

House, "I came under the influence of an unbeliever, a skeptic. Little by little I fell away from the Christian faith, until and to his creed which they might think advisable or necessary. The statement of his faith, however, which Dr. House made to the assemblage was so complete and exhaustive that when the moderator announced that any one who so desired might now question the candidate, no one arose, and Dr. House was not catechised.

"After the lucid explanation of his theological belief that Dr. House has made to us." said Dr. McLean "it seems all always partnership that was ofchised.

"After the lucid explanation of his theological belief that Dr. House has made to us." said Dr. McLean, "it seems alterwards refused to enter a business partnership that was offered to me, feeling that I was indeed alled to preach the gospe."

Information as to his creed."

For nearly a year Dr. House has been acting as paster of the First Church, one of the largest and wealthlest congregations in the city. His service proved most acceptable, and in January last it was greated to me, feeling that I was indeed called to preach the gospe."

In speaking of his creed, Dr. House said in part:

My theology starts with a deep and personal conviction of the reality of sin, if found that, as the first fact in my own heart, and as I had never committed any flagtant transgression, I could not but feel holy spirit.

My theology starts with a deep and personal conviction of the reality of sin. I found that, as the first fact in my own heart, and as I had never committed any fagrant transgression, I could not but feel that the sin which was so real to me must in the nature of the case occupy a similar position in the hearts of other men. Therefore, the conviction of universal sin is the starting point of my doctrinal views. So while I believe man was created in the image of God, he has, with entire freedom of will, in fact if not of necessity, sinned. "With this as my starting point, I naturally turn to the Bible for light. The Bible is the word of God, the only perfect rule of faith and practice. The credibility of the Bible is proven by various considerations, as its unity, fix lofty spirit harmonizing with the sublimity of its prophecies and their historic fulfillment; the candor and simplicity of its writers, their information as to facts, their faith in what they wrote—proven by the severest tests and the life-giving effects wrought in the words.

thereupon read the resolution of the congregation, the letter from the church to the society, or board of the creed in Oregon, asking that the approval of the church at large be given to this move, the letter extending the invitation to Dr. House, and his reply thereto, which latter was dated March 26.

The credentials of the pastor-elect were then called for, and Dr. House responded by handing to the scribe for public reading a set of resolutions adopted by

To a Christian people who believe in the fundamentals of religion, the doctrine of the holy spirit is the most important and vital theme that can be discussed. There are three persons in the trinity, the same in substance, equal in power and glory, yet but one God. The holy spirit in his special reliation to the Christian economy was not sent down until Pentecost. But as a person in the holy trinity he has been operating from the beginning. With Pentecost, however, begins the dispensation of the spirit.

The Kingdom of God.

The Kingdom of God. The Kingdom of God.

I also find that the Bible tells of a kingdom of God, not as a future event, but as a present fact unfolding here and now. Of this kingdom of God the church is the visible witness. It is the chief instrument by which the work of the kingdom is done on earth. I am sure that God has charged me to be his ambassador and witness to other men that he has made me a minister of the reconciliation between himself and sinners which be has accomplished. and sinners, which he has accomplished through his Son. I find myself moved through his Son. I find myself moved, therefore, by every motive of which a grateful heart is espable, to do what I can to make known the salvation of Christ to the world and to help men to come into the life of the kingdom and share in the work of the church which represents it. I believe that the mission of all who are members of the church is so far the same, and that we are set to press this issue and to help and hasten men to choose for Christ, and to Join his cause.

The Variety of Churches. I believe in the openess of believers, of whatever name, who are followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. I believe in the fellow-ship of men whose lives are renewed by the spirit, and who are striving to live under the conscious guidance of his indwelling.

While I recognize that there is room for

The Future Life.

I believe in a future life concerning which the Bible impresses me more by its reticeace than by its revelations. I believe in a resurrection and a judgment which will be righteous and mercitul.

I have no occasion to invent or conjecture "future probation." I have no authority from the word of God to judge those that are without; nor do I conceive that any man living has a right to sentence all the beathen world to dumnation. God is the God of the whole earth, and not any little patch or corner of it. For the heather, the unfortunate, the infant, I rest my soul on the question Abraham asked thousands of years ago, "Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right."

I have no fear of the so-called "higher criticism." Let it go on. If there are errors in scripture, let us see them. If we have believed too much or too little, let us readjust our creeds. We want the truth. Ignorance is not the mother of devotion—that is a heresy from the dark ages. We cannot build stone walls around the Bible. We cannot frighten scholarship away by saying, "Take your unsanctified hands off from the sacred oracles of God." Investigation will go on. Only one thing have we any right to demand—reverence and honesty. And I believe that the heart and mind of the best scholarship of our day can be trusted.

The heresy I fear is not that of the higher criticism, not that of probation after death, not that of evolution, and other kindred heresies, but that of the deliy, and atonement of Jesus, and the heresy of not loving men with all my mind, soul and strength, for their salvation.

In a word, then, my creed is Christ, moved and carried that the credentials be accepted without further question.

"It has been suggested," said the moderator, after some further discussion, it is the candidate make at this time a statement of his theological belief." And in response Dr. House detailed to the council his belief in the vital points of the creed of the church.

"I would not have you suppose," said Dr. House, as he faced the assemblage, "that I look upon the brief outline I shall make of my belief as its final form, for our creed must always be kept open for revision. There must be room for revision. There must be room for revision. There must always be in that attitude of intellectual hospitality which enables a growing soul to receive the fresh light which daily breaks forth from the word of God."

Dr. House prefaced his theological discourse by saying that he always felt that the suthering and keeping moral order and the importance has established and every commandment he has imposed, has a support in the nature of things, but even the time when, at the say of 2, his father, returning wounded from the Ctvil War, had dedicated him to the service of God."

"But in my early youth," said Dr.

Some objection was made to this, it being urged that those who wished to question Dr. House on doctrinal points should have an opportunity to do so. After much debate the motion was withdrawn and the moderator asked the assemblage if any person desired to catechise the candidate.

In the church there was a dead silence. Once more the moderator spoke.

"Is there any person here present who desires to ask a question of the candidate?" he asked. "Let him now speak or else forever after hold his pence."

Again there was no response, and it

Again there was no response, and it was moved that the council go into executive session. When they returned to the church, it was, announced that they had found Dr. House to be a satisfactory candidate in every respect, and that the ceremony of installation would be performed at the evening session. The ansemblage then adjourned until 3 P. M.

NEW PASTOR WELCOMED. Formal Installation Services at

First Congregational Church. The formal installation exercises com mencing at 8 o'clock in the evening opened with prayer by Rev. J. J. Staub, of Sunnyside Church. The minutes of the of Sunnyside Church. The minutes of the council were then read by Scribe C. E. Chase, of the council. A special hymn was then read by Rev. Cephas Clapp, of the Forest Grove church, after which Rev. Howard A. Bridgman, managing editor of the Congregationalist, of Boston, read a Scriptural passage. "The Lord is Mr. Light" Is My Light' was sung as a duet by Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer and W. H. Boyer. The installation sermon was preached by Dr. Charles R. Brown, of the First Con-gregational Church of Oakland, Cal. It was a masterly effort on the subject of the transfiguration, and he most touch-ingly referred to the ministerial duties of the paster as exemplified by the work of the pastor as exempined by the work of Christ. Professor Charles S. Nash, of the Pacific Theological Seminary, of Oakland, off-red the Installing prayer, after which Mr. Boyer sang "Beyond the Hille." The charge to the pastor was delivered by President John K. McLean, of the Pacific Theological Seminary. Dr. McLean, and McLean, McLean's remarks were practical and McLean's remarks were practical and pointed and the Lew pastor and his congregation were visibly affected. It was the part of Rev. William C. Kantner, of the First Congregational Church of Salem, to extend the fellowship of the church in Oregon to Dr. House. This he did in a most cordial hadress. The choir then rendered "The Choir Angelic," after which Dr. Amony H. Bradford, of Montcinir, N. J. of the National Congregational Coun-J., of the National Congregational Coun-cil, made the charge to the people, im-pressing especially the necessity of will-ing co-operation on the part of the congregation with the minister. The churches of Portland, through Rev. Edgar P. Hill, then extended a warm welcome to Dr. House. Rev. E. T. Ford, of Tacoma, offered the closing prayer, another hymn was sung and the benediction by the pas-tor ended the zervice. The lower portion of the church was crowded, and the genuineness of the formal welcome to his pastorate must have been very gratifying to Dr. House. At 6 o'clock in the evening the installation supper was served in the church pariors at which 150 persons, represent-ing the clergy and laity of the church, were served. Judge J. B. Cleland acted as toastmaster, toasts being responded to by Rev. C. H. Daniels, of Boston; Rev. E. T. Ford, of Tacoma; Rev. Horace Day, of Los Angeles; Rev. Mr. Singer, Rev. Walter Free, Rev. But Not So Hard As It Might Be Without Rubber Heels.

To be sure, when you hit the world—the world hits back.

"I do not feel," said Dr. Peterson, of New Bedford, Mass., "that I am giving my patients their due, or furnishing what the sicknoom requires, without O'Sullivan Rubber Heels on my shoes."

But he wears them mainly for the comfort he gets himself, prescribes them for muscular and nervous troubles, and has the courage to admit that relief is sometimes obtained without the aid of drugs.
