Alvin Thrush Seriously Hurt by Falling Block.

Alvin Thrush, employed on the Higgins' ranch where J. E. Fitzgerald met with such a horrible accident last Tuesday morning, was brought to town in almost the same predicament yesterday noon. Though Thrush's injuries are not so serious as were those of his employer, it is a remarkable coincidence that they are of exactly the same nature and that the accident occured at the very spot which marks the scene of the other, not yet a week old.

When Mr. Fitzgerald was hurt he fell from the top of his barn where he was putting up a pulley to be used in hauling hay into the loft. when Thrush was injured he was at work putting the hay into the loft and stood at the very spot where Fitzgerald had fallen. The same pulley which Fitzgerald was hanging is the pulley which dropped with such disastrous results to Mr Thrush yesterday afternoon.

Just how either accident occurred is not exactly known. It is simply known that the block fell striking Mr. Thrush upon the head inflicting a very ugly scalp wound and denting the skull. He was brought to town late yesterday evening and is now at the hospital where his wounds have been dressed and he is under the care of Dr. Horsfall.—Coast Mail.

Snow Drift Flour at Denholm's.

G. W. Bashford, of Medford, Oregon, was in Bandon this week.

The Bandon Oil Company are still prosecuting work on their well near Dairyville, with fair prospect of success. This company says little but saws wood, and are deserving of credit for their efforts to develop the resources of the country.

Port Orford Tribune:—The railroad survey has now reached a point south of John Fromm's residence, having passed to the east of Humbug mountain. The present survey will, in all probability, connect with the survey heretofore made from Humboldt north to Chetco, in southern Curry. This will make a complete coast line survey from the S. P. railroad at Drain, in Douglass County, to San Francisco. The road will evidently be built in due course of time, probably within the next five or six years.

The Woolen Mills.

The Woolen Mills proposition is still on, and at present seems to have a better outlook than usual. R. E. L. Bedillion has gone to San Francisco on business presumably connected with the venture, and we look forward to a successful termination of the proposition.

SEC. VI. It shall be the duty of the Marshal of the Town of Bandon to provide a suitable place to keep all live stock or animals taken for impoundment under the provisions of this ordinance, such place to be known as the Pound, and he shall put all such live stock or animals therein, and provide proper and suitable food for same.

SEC. VII. Any animal put in the pound under the provisions of this ordinance shall be kept therein for the period of five days (unless called for by the owner or person having the same in charge, and the fine for same and the expense of keeping paid, as herein provided for), after which time the Recorder of the Town of Bandon may, by written order signed by him with the seal of the Town of Bandon affixed, order the Marshal of the Town of Bandon to sell the same in like manner as provided by Laws of Oregon (after issue of execution) for Constable's sales of personal property.
