HAVE YOU A COLD in the head which does not get better? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages which either must be blown from the nose or drop back behind the palate, or hawked or snuffed backward to the throat? Are you troubled by hacking, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, ringing or roaring in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dullness or dizziness of the head, dryness or heat of nose? Have you lost all sense of smell? Have you a hacking cough? Have you dyspepsia? Is your breath foul? If so you have the CATARRH. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. The leading symptom of ordinary catarrh is increased secretion of mucus of yellow or greenish colored matter.

Foul breath is caused by the decomposing secretions exuded from festering ulcers far back in the head; sometimes the membrane covering the bones is eaten away and the bones themselves gradually decay. Such cases are indeed objects of pity, as stench from corroding sores taints the corruption within.

THE ONLY—GUARANTEED CURE FOR CATARRH

ABIETINE MED. CO. OROVILLE CAL.

As every breath drawn into the lungs must pass over and become polluted by the secretions in the nasal passages, it must necessarily follow that poisoning of the whole system gradually takes place, while the morbid matter that is swallowed during the sleep passes into the stomach, enfeebles digestion, and often produces dyspepsia, and finally great debility, nervousness and consumption.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

If you have experienced any of the above symptoms do not delay, but try CALIFORNIA CAT-R-CURE at once. We positively guarantee a few applications to relieve, and a thorough treatment to cure. Six months treatment for $1, postpaid by mail $1.50.

GENERAL NEWS.

A Fierce Battle Between Officers and Strikers in Ohio.

CONGRESS AFTER THE STRIKERS.

A Crazy Mother's Fearful Deed—A Riot in Pennsylvania Ends in Bloodshed—News from the East and Old World.

The HERALD Special Dispatches.]

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 3.—Nearly three hundred employes at the carbon quarry in Limestone county, of which John A. Logan, Jr., is general manager and part owner, went on a strike yesterday because of a reduction of wages. About fifty men went to work and the strikers attempted to drive them out, but the sheriff of the county and his son, who had been telegraphed for, had arrived on the scene, and together with young Logan planted themselves in the path of the strikers, and the mob was told to disperse. They stopped instantly and then rushed forward, but Logan and the two officers remained in their position and opened fire point blank. An Italian named Nozaro tumbled over on the ground with a bullet in his knee. This stampeded the mob, which became thoroughly frightened and fled. Ten were captured and locked up. All is quiet at the quarries to-day.

A SHOCKING TRAGEDY.

A Crazy Mother Throws Her Child from a Fourth-Story Window.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Mrs. Lillie Sipp, aged 35 years, while in a state of insanity this morning, threw her twelve year old son out of a window in the fourth story of a building at 169, east 122 street. She jumped after the child and both were seriously injured and will probably die. The husband of the woman is a baker and was not at home at the time.

Another Repeal.

BALTIMORE, April 3.—Late last night the legislature of Maryland repealed the charter of Baltimore, and the railroad employes relief association which takes effect April 1st 1889. This action meets with the approval of the officers of the railroad company.

Funeral of a Californian.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Jacob Greenbaum, a well known California auctioneer who died at the Windsor hotel Friday, was buried this morning in the Cypress Hill cemetery. He was on his way to Europe on a visit when taken ill.

Congress Will Take Action.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Washington house commissary committee has ordered a favorable report on the resolutions presented for congressional inquiry into the engineers' strike in the West.

A Drop in Oil.

NEW YORK, April 3.—A drop of six cents occurred in oil to day. The market is completely demoralized.

Preiler's Murder Must Hang.

ST. LOUIS, April 3.—A dispatch has been received here by the attorney of Maxwell, the murderer of Preiler, stating that the United States supreme court had refused a re-hearing of the case. Maxwell will be sentenced at once by the United States supreme court.

The Queen Will Travel.

LONDON, April 3.—The Queen leaves Florence on Monday week and will travel on to Cherbough, if she comes home at once, embarking at that port on the morning of April the 18th, and reaching Windsor castle in the evening. There is a probability that the queen may return through Germany, as she is anxious to pay a visit to the Emperor Fredrick and Empress Victoria.

The Emperor's Health.

BERLIN, April 3.—The emperor had trouble coughing last night more than usual.

A Fatal Affray.

CHICAGO, April 3.—At Lima, Ohio, last night Patrick Hughes, Dave Gallagher and James Stockey were stabbed to death in a fight with Dave Crowder and Wm. Goins, colored. The most intense excitement was caused by the murder and the police were unable to keep the streets clear of the mob formed. The police stations and county were visited but the murders were not found. The police had them in hiding, fearing the violence of the mob.

A Riot With Miners.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 3.—The Polanders here yesterday became involved in a drunken riot. The whole police force was called out. One policeman was badly injured and four Polanders fatally wounded.

Ruby Lips and Single Blossoms.

Brooklyn Eagle.

A lad has taken possession of the ultra fashionable young ladies of Brooklyn. On Friday a man encountered no less than eight of that city's fairest daughters wearing single blossoms in their mouths. A strikingly handsome brunette carried a beautiful red rose between lips that beat the rose in color, and two demure, brown-haired maidens had violets of different shades between their white teeth. Roses and violets were the favorites, though carnations, heliotrope and a single daisy were noticed. Aside from the score of economy, no more striking way could be devised for displaying the beauties of nature, both in rose and maiden.

EXPRESSIONS TABOOED.

Some Phrases That Have Crept Into Our Everyday English.

Buffalo Advertiser.

Our clever friend, "The Listener," of the Boston Transcript, caught a wigging the other day from a hypercritical Boston person for using the expression. "It goes without saying." The correspondent said in effect that he could have no respect for or dealing with a writer who could be guilty of using that dreadful imported phrase. The Listener pleaded guilty, and was so crushed by the sudden attack that he promised never to use the expression again. Another correspondent, not relishing this meek submission to the arrogant remark of number, writes that if we are too rigid in our censorship of expressive phrases of one sort or another, we shall have to part company with a good many idiomatic sayings which we are now innocent enough to think are expressive and useful. There is, for instance, that very contradictory phrase, "I am mistaken." We don't at all mean that we are mistaken when we say that; we mean that we mistake. But we continue to say "we are mistaken," and may with perfect propriety say it, because usage has transformed and crystallized the sentence into the opposite meaning. Then there is the "begging the question." Every body knows what it means, but what is it, when one examines the phrase, to beg a question? "For the sake of the argument" is an intrinsically bothersome phrase, but a very useful one. "Poor health" is a term tabooed by a good many liberal people, who think that they either have health or do not have it, and that if they have health it is good. Of words, there is a long list of contradictory ones. If you look in the dictionary for the definition of the word "ravel" you will find it set down as meaning "to unravel," and if you look for "unravel," you will find it means "to ravel." Madness lies in the direction of verbal scrupulousness—or scrupulosity, as Charles Sumner would have it.

THE WAY TO FALL DOWN.

Why Drunken Men and Children are so Often Unhurt.

Philadelphia Call

"The special provinces that seems to hover over drunken men and children has something of an explanation," said a well-known and eminent medical man to a reporter, "in the fact of the main cause of the breakage of the bones from falls being from a resistance of the tendons more often than from the violence of the shock incident to the actual fall. A child or an intoxicated person will rarely endeavor with any great effort to recover their balance when they slip or toppel over. Hence no special resisting force is experienced and they sink into a collapsed heap without serious injury. When an adult in possession of his sound senses undertakes, with endless convolutions and gyrations to save himself from going down, he draws every muscle and sinew taut, and if the wrench is too severe the bone breaks. There is no way of definitely proving it, but it is asserted, and I believe with some show of truth, that some, at least, of the fractures resulting from fall, especially from a height, happen before the actual shock with the substances one falls on occures. It's strange, but I guess it is the truth."

Celluloid Sheathing for Ships.

Annales Industrielles.

Among the various uses of celluloid it would appear to be a suitable sheathing for ships in place of copper. A French company now undertakes to supply the substances for this at nine francs per surface meter and per millimeter of thickness. In experiments by M. Butaine, plates of celluloid applied to various vessels in January, 1887, were removed five or six months after and found quite intact and free from marine vegetation, which was abundant on parts uncovered. The color of the substance is indestructible; the thickness may be reduced to 0.003 meter and the qualities of elasticity solidity, impermeablity, resistance to chemical action, etc., are all in favor of the use of celluloid.

PACIFIC COAST:

Huntington, Crocker and Towne Coming to Oregon.

THEIR LINES TO BE EXTENDED.

Pearl Page Pardoned, but Must Leave the State—Multnomah Prohibitionists Nominate a Full Ticket.

The HERALD'S Special Dispatches.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Messrs P. Huntington, Charles Crocker and A. N. Towne leave to-night for Portland. It is their intention to spend a week or ten days in Oregon looking over the state with a view of extending their lines. Mr. Huntington has never before been over the northern road and he wishes to make a close examination of it.

Multnomah Prohibitionists.

PORTLAND, April 3.—To-day the Multnomah county prohibition convention met here. The convention will endorsed the platform adopted by the state prohibition convention endorsed, and the full county ticket was placed in the field.

Trial of a Woman Murderer.

LOS ANGELES, April 3.—The jury was completed this morning in the case of Hattie Woolsteen charged with the murder of Dr. Harlan the dentist, and the trial commenced.

Smallpox in Mexico.

NOGALES, (A. T.), April 3.—Smallpox is raging terribly in the small town of Racoaeni Sonora, Mexico, in the Arespe district. The authorities have taken the matter in hand and will establish a complete quarantine about the town fearing that the disease will spread to the larger towns in that part of the state.

Subterranean Cauldron.

Yreka Union.

Some time ago, during a snow storm, two small boys were attracted by the sight of snow being thrown skyward from the ground on a hill about one mile south of Hornbrook. Supposing the commotion to be caused by some wild animals playing around, they cautiously approached the spot, only to find nothing in sight. Drawing nearer they discovered a volume of hot air issuing from a crevice in the ground. Half frightened at the strange phenomenon they hastened to the house of John Wagner, near by, and conducted him to the spot. Mr. Wagner, with another gentleman, a few days later made the opening larger and found the hot air issuing up a chimney of two perfectly smooth rock walls, and by sounding ascertained its depth to be 80 feet. It still continues to flow and is a source of much wonder to those who have visited it.

A Maker of Gods.

Boston Herald.

A queer story told of a man named John Concord, who left Sanford Me., many years ago and was stranded on one of the Sandwich Islands. Not knowing what to do for a living there, he set up in business as the maker of gods for the ignorant class of natives, making his images from iron with tools picked up from the vessels wrecked on the coast. These images being indestructible gained the favor of the islanders, and Concord afterward married a native belle. One day in the streets of Honolulu Concord met a man who had been picked up from the wreck of a vessel a short time before, who claimed to hail from Maine, and on investigation Concord discovered that the stranger's home was in Sanford, and that he was his (Concords) old schoolmaster. Thompson brought Concord's four children to this country to be educated. All four afterward returned to Honolulu, while Concord after the death of his wife, returned to Maine and married again. One of his sons by the second marriage now is a leading druggist in Lynn, Mass.

Electricity as amotive Power.

We continually hear electricity spoken of as a motive power, and the prediction is freely made that it will soon take the place of a steam engine; that it will be employed to propel vessels across the Atlantic, and the like. But such a view of the matter is wholly without scientific basis. Electricity in its important applications to machinery, is never in itself a source of power. It is merely a convenient and easily manageable form of energy, by which mechanical power is tranferable from an ordinary prime motor, a steam engine or water wheel, to a secondary motor which is employed to do the work. It performs an office precisely analogous to that of a belt or line of shafting which, however useful in conveying power from one point to another, can, under no conceivable circumstance, be capable of originating it.
