Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the throat and lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system, and wherever these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing consumption and to the head, causing catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness, allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lead to [illegible] Something is wrong with your throat, lungs or nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

You Cannot Afford.

At this season of the year to be without a good reliable diarrhoea balsam in the house, as cramps, colic, diarrhoea and all inflammation of the stomach and bowels are exceedingly dangerous if not attended to at once. One bottle of BEGGS' DIARRHOEA BALSAM will do more good in cases of this kind than any other medicine on earth. We guarantee it. G. L. Blackman, druggist.

SEATTLE IN ASHES.

The Entire Business Portion of the City Burned.

A LOSS OF TEN MILLIONS.

Nearly Forty Business Blocks Destroyed—The Principal Losers—The City in Ruins.

Special to the HERALD.]

SEATTLE, June 6, (4:30 P. M.)—A fire broke out at 2:30 P. M. in the Seattle building on Front street and is now raging over a district of five or six blocks with tremendous fury. The wind was from the north and the direction of the fire was along the water front and from the water front to the big brick between the Columbia and San Francisco stores. The indications are now that the whole business portion of the town, involving a loss of millions of dollars, will go. The magnificent San Francisco store and also other stores in the row are on fire and the whole big block will doubtless go. The firemen are helpless and have telegraphed in all directions for help. The Western Union office is about to be abandoned.

HOW THE FLAMES SPREAD.

SEATTLE, June 6, (5:30 P. M.)—The disastrous fire is now sweeping through the heart of the business part of the city. Two blocks have already been destroyed. Many other buildings are in flames and the conflagration has passed beyond the control of the fire department. To add to the city's peril a smart breeze is blowing off the bay fanning the flames, and about 1000 feet of hose has been burned. At present no idea of the extent of the loss can be found. The opera house block, the block opposite and the buildings at the foot of Columbia street, and also the frame buildings in the rear of the Post-Intelligencer are burning. The block occupied by the Western Union and Post Intelligencer is abandoned. At this writing the Western Union has one wire undisturbed, over which this dispatch is being sent.

THE NEWS IN PORTLAND.

PORTLAND, June 6.—The news of our sister city's peril excited profound interest and sympathy in this city. The fire department at once made ready an engine and a supply of hose to dispatch to Seattle, but unfortunately it was impossible to obtain a special train. Around the insurance offices groups of men discussed the situation and eagerly awaited the reception of additional news and rumor. Among the Portland firms who are said to be losers in the fire are Staver & Walker, Knapp, Burrell & Co., Whittier, Fuller & Co. and Palmer & Rey.

SEATTLE, June 6, (7 P. M.)—At this hour the fire is burning more fiercely than ever and it is evident that the entire business portion of the city will be destroyed. Huge bricks, supposed to be fire-proof, burned like wooden shells. The fire department was totally inadequate to cope with so fierce a conflagration.

A special train left Portland at 6:30 bearing fire apparatus and firemen, but they cannot arrive in time to be of service. This report is wired from a table erected in the middle of the street by the Postal Telegraph Co., both the Postal and Western Union offices being burned.

THE BUSINESS PORTION ALL GONE.

SEATTLE, June 6, (9 P. M.)—The fire has burned everything clean from the mud flats to the top of the hill on Front street and is practically under control, as there is nothing more in that portion of the city to burn. The Occidental and Arlington hotels are leveled to the ground. In all 30 or 40 blocks burned, the Denny, Yesler and opera blocks being the most prominent.

THE PRINCIPAL LOSERS.

Among the firms burned out are Staver & Walker, Schwabacher Bros., Harrington & Smith, Battin & Co., Rosenfeld, Smith & Co., H. Hershfeld & Son. A. Hanson, Palmer & Rey, Seattle Daily Times, Post-Intelligencer, Bigger & Co., Burthick & Cook, Avery, Kirk & Lansing and Schoenfeld & Heyman. The Safe Deposit building and land office and First National bank and Puget Sound bank are also burned, but the postoffice escaped with a severe scorching. The wharves and warehouses are also burned. In fact every building in the business portion of the city, with the exception of the Boston block, is in ashes.

A LOSS OF TEN MILLIONS.

The total loss will be fully ten millions. The amount of insurance cannot be told to-night, but it will not average a quarter of the loss. An offer of apparatus and men by Portland, Victoria, Tacoma, Snohomish, Salem and Port Townsend was in most cases accepted.

Thousands of people are without shelter, the hotels of the city being burned, and there is a great rush for accommodations in the suburb of Belltown. The fire has swept the very heart of the city, not leaving a hotel, restaurant or newspaper office, except in the suburbs. Fortunately little or no loss of life has occurred, but the loss of property is fearful, and cannot be given accurately in detail before to-morrow.

The Washington Girl's Wink.

Philadelphia Telegraph.

If a Washington girl looks at you at all on the street she is almost sure to shut one eye—rather, not exactly shut it, but squint it up. This is the reason for the Washington wink, or squint, as some call it: The two avenues that form the most popular promenades are at such an angle towards the northwest and west of northwest that the sun's rays in the afternoon, when all the promenading is done, strike one side of the face. Under the rule that requires pedestrians to keep to the right of the pavement, you must look towards the sun to see those coming towards you. The sun is responsible for the squint. The whole line of people going west appear to be winking at those going in the opposite direction. So much has this affected the habitual promenaders on the Avenue that many of them have a slight squint in the left eye at all times. The Avenue girl is known by her squint.

Why She Didn't Thank Him.

Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

"Why, of course I didn't thank him," said a young lady in a street car to a companion when a gentleman arose and gave her a seat. "He don't expect it, either. You see a gentleman knows a lady's thankful if he gives her a seat, and then a masher doesn't get a chance to try and scrape an acquaintance. We can't be expected to talk to a man because he does a thing like that. Of course a gentleman knows it. Did you ever see a person who wasn't thankful to get a seat in a crowded car?"

Disarming an Unseen Foe.

"This was sometime a paradox," as Hamlet says. Since, however, the people of America and other lands have been enabled to pit Hostetter's Stomach Bitters against that unseen foe, malaria, it is no longer a paradox, but an easy possibility. Whatever malaria evolves its misty venom to poison the air, and decaying unwholesome vegetation impregnates the water, there, in the very stronghold of miasma, is the auxiliary potent to disarm the foe and assure efficient protection. Fever and ague, bilious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, no matter how tenaciously they have fastened their clutch on the system, are first forced to relax their grasp and eventually to abandon it altogether. But it is preventive force that should chiefly recommend the Bitters to persons dwelling in malaria-cursed localities, for it is a certain buckler of defence against which the enemy is powerless. Cures, likewise, dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney and billious ailments.

It is no good to look at the thermometer this year to judge of winter. The only thing to guide you is Brownell & Stanard's prices, which are always down to zero.

OFF TO THE ARCTIC.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey to Determine Boundaries,

ALASKAN GOVERNMENT WORK

Two Surveying Parties With a Year's Hard Work and Cold Before Them in The Far North.

San Francisco Alta June 4.

In 1888 and 1889 Congress appropriated $25,000 and $20,000 respectively, to the use of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, to be used in establishing the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. The work has been [illegible] being fitted out to [illegible] under the command of J. E. McGrath and the other under J. H. Turner.

To an Alta reporter Mr. McGrath stated yesterday that both expeditions will start in about a week. The boundary of Alaska starts at the head of Portland Canal and runs west parallel with the coast for a distance of ten marine leagues inland to the 141st meridian; thence due north to the Arctic Ocean. The particular work of these expeditions is to determine the exact boundary between Mt. St. Elias and the Arctic.

Mr. McGrath takes one party composed of himself, one assistant, a physician and seven hands. He will go to the intersection of the 141st meridian with the Yukon River. There an astronomital station will be established to determine the latitude and longitude of the place.

The principal work will be to establish the longitude by means of chronometers and moon occultations and culminations, also to determine the constituents of the magnetic force. Topographical surveys of the vicinity of the station will be made, and the boundary traced as far north and south as possible. Mr. Turner's party will do the same work at his station, which will be at the intersection of the 141st meridian and the Porcupine river. His party will be the same in size as Mr. McGrath's. During the winter Mr. Turner proposes to go by dog sledges along the boundary to the Artic ocean. J. C. Russell of the United States Geological Survey will accompany the expedition at the invitation of the Superintendent of the U. S. Co. & G. Survey. He has not as yet decided which of the two parties he will accompany.

However, where he goes he will make scientific research, so as to be able to report on the geological formation of the country. He will also make a collection of specimens relating to natural history and ethnography, which he will present to the National Museum and Smithsonian Institute.

Both parties will depart on the steamer Bertha in about a week and land at Onnalaska. From there the steamer St. Paul will convey the outfit and explorers to St. Michaels. Both parties will remain in that settlement about a month, and during that time will determine the astronomical and astrological position of the place. The delay in St. Michaels will be on account of the construction of a small steamer that is to be put together there. The steamer has been built in this city, and will be put together as soon as possible. The next move of the two parties will be by the new steamer up the Yukon to their respective destinations. On the way up the river surveys and soundings will be made. A base station will be established at Fort Yukon, by which to verify their calculations on the return. The return will be made in whale boats and bateaux, and the river will be more carefully surveyed in order to determine astronomically the stations and traders' settlements along the banks. On arriving at the mouth of the Yukon, careful surveys and soundings will be made, as those made over twenty-five years ago are rather rough and incomplete. During their stay in the far north log cabins will be constructed by the surveyors.

If all goes well with both parties they will finish their work so as to return to this city by August, 1890. If one party should fail the other party will remain another year to complete the work.

The Verdict Unanimous

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at Foshay & Mason's Drugstore.

The Coming 4th of July.

Every family as well as the several committees should do everything in their power to make the coming celebration a grand success. Those wishing to treat their visiting friends and relations to something good to eat can do so by purchasing their groceries, vegetables and all kinds of delicacies at the Willamette Packing Co.'s.
