Editorial Comment.

The national Democratic machine will use Standard oil as a lubricant this year.

❧ ❧ ❧

David B. Hill has perpetrated his second great joke. His first was a national reputation: "I am a Democrat." The second was let loose on an unsuspecting public last week. "I am going to retire from politics." David will soon rank as the modern Joe Miller.

❧ ❧ ❧

If Gassaway Davis fails of election as Vice President, there are other avenues in which he can earn an honest living. His speech of acceptance is a model in diction, and shows an acquaintance with ancient history certainly possessed by no other man in the country. If we should create a chair in our college combining grammar with ancient history, it should be offered to Henry. The Washington Star reports his words while speaking on the subject of "Imperialism" as follows: "Don't I pray you do as Caesar and Pompeii done. Don't let this country go as Rome done." Mr. Davis need not despair. The people of United States will never let it go as Rome "done." Perhaps, after he got to be a professor he might enlighten the world as to what Pompeii's old chum Herculaneum also "done." That is one of the unsolved riddles of antiquity.

❧ ❧ ❧

A fiend in human shape, who had been making himself obnoxious by treating his step-children shamefully, in a hop yard near Oregon City, resented the interference of another workman in the field by firing two shots from a 38-calibre pistol at him. One shot took effect, passing through the left hand and lodging in the shoulder. The wounds are not serious. The would-be murderer made his escape on a bicycle, and was captured in Washougal, Washington. He had been guilty of inhuman treatment of the children, one a 13-year-old girl having been severely beaten and another, a mere infant, having been tied to a hop pole and exposed to the sun until it became ill from the effects of the heat. The name of the man shot was Ed Wollman, while the brute who shot him is the Rev. S. D. Martin, a member of the Christian or Campbellite church, who resides at Vancouver. The name was first reported as Martini, and he was spoken of by the Oregonian as an Italian clergyman. He rushes to the newspapers and demands to be vindicated from the foul charge; not that he was falsely reported as beating his children, or shooting a man for interfering with his pleasures, but that his name was spelled Martini and he was called a "Dago." There are depths of degradation to which even Rev. Martin refuses to sink.

Must Connect.

Sewer connections must now be made where the property is served with laterals. This is the action taken by the city council at its last regular session. An ordinance is now in effect making the neglect or refusal to make such connections an offense, punishable by a fine of $5 to $50. This applies particularly to house drains and water closets which the council in a special investigation found to be in a deplorable state of neglect. The city has gone to the expense of nearly $16,000 putting in sewers and it now insists that the people use them.

Strong-Shafer Wedding.

A beautiful wedding ceremony was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strong of this city Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, the occasion being the marriage of their son, Frank, to Miss Jessie Shafer, of Philomath. Among the 40 or more guests assembled to witness Rev. Frank L. Moore tie the nuptial knot were a large number of young people of the Epworth League. The bride and groom who looked very attractive in their wedding apparel, were congratulated after the ceremony by their many friends.

The decorations were beautiful, consisting of a large variety of flowers mingled with fern. Refreshments consisting of choice fruit cake and ice cream were served to the assembled guests, the lawn, made beautiful with a large number of Japanese lanterns, being used for the occasion.

The groom is the enterprising son of E. W. Strong of this city and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs Shafer of Philomath. A large number of presents were received by the couple. The best wishes of a host of friends follow them as they start on their journey of wedded life. They will reside in Corvallis.

Corvallis Men Honored.

The Western Academy of Music, Elocution, Oratory and Dramatic Art opened for study Monday, Sept. 5th, with a large enrollment in all departments. On Monday evening, September 12th, the opening social and musical event was given the new members of the faculty by J. Adrian Epping and William M. Rasmus. The attendance was large and the event one of the happiest of the season. An informal program, comprising many rich selections was rendered to the delight of all.

Among those who were presented to the public on the occasion, and who are recognized artists, are Ruthyn Turney, a pupil of the famous Norwegian violinist, Herr August Aamold; Mordaunt A. Goodnough, pianist, and G. Lester Paul, actor and dramatic reader.

The yellow flag was taken down from the Vidito home Tuesday. It was put up thinking that the rash with which one of the children was breaking out might be smallpox, but as nothing further developed the flag was removed.
