KELLY OUSTED.

John Kelly is no longer comptroller of the city of New York—no great chief in the Tammany organization The reason given for his removal is that he sold, in the last presidential election, the State to the republicans, by doing which he became the Irish democratic bull in the democratic "China shop," defeating the party and politically killing Tilden and Hancock. If he sold New York, for so large a State he must have received a million or so; the State was worth that much to the office seekers and to the "ins" and "outs." If Kelly made a good bargain the chances are quite favorable that while he has lost the comptrollership, he has sufficient to keep him in comfort against any number of rainy days. But Kelly is, perhaps, no worse than the majority of politicians on either side of the question at issue. It is a fact that those who would accept office for the honor and glory there should be in it, are crowded from the field, and stand no chance for election whatever. They are crowded off the track by men who adopt politics and become politicians "for the money there is in the business." We need not particularize persons in proof of the assertion; it is a fact well known. And if Kelly did sell himself he did no more than has many of those who now hold up their hands in holy horror, and simply because they were not like Kelly, "high-priced sons-of-guns." In saying this much we do not propose to defend Kelly in his perfidy. It is almost certain he grew too fast for his breeches; and his downfall must hereafter serve as another illustration of how far impudence may go and be successful, and how politicians generally feather their nests. In our opinion it is almost a certainty that Kelly cared little for principle but much for pelf, and that, like other politicians, he made money out of what was with him a simple matter of business. It is a consolation, however, to know that one more of that class has shut up shop.

A SUGGESTION.

Why cannot our various coal companies pool interests, and money to develop at least good mine? They can do we believe, since it is almost ain we have extensive coal lds. If we can once prove that r coal fields are extensive and profitable by the development of one good mine, then it will be an easy matter to secure the aid of the capital necessary to develop all the mines we have. Capital only needs proof of the value of an enterprise to offer its helping hand. What do you think of the suggestion?

The Sacramento Bee is enthusiastic over the good moral effects produced by the establishment of a chain-gang in that city for the purpose of compelling prisoners to earn their board by work on the streets. Where formerly the twenty or thirty comfortable cells in the county jail were constantly filled by petty offenders, now but four or five candidates can be found for admission to the bracelet brigade. Even Chicamen have quit stealing chickens, the mongolians asserting that they would rather run the chances of starvation than serve one day on the streets, and thus be disgraced in the eyes of their countrymen.

A Jersey recently made application for a divorce from his wife. When asked on what ground he demanded a divorce, he explained as follows: "De ground of dis occasion is sufficient enough. When I rented ten acres and worked one mule I married a woman suitable for de occasion. Now I rent sixty acres of land and work five mules. My wife is a good ten-acre wife, but she don't suit de occasion ob my sixty acres. I needs a woman to fit de spread."

THE IRISH.

England is beginning to realize how wrong has been her policy toward the people of Ireland. Not a dispatch is flashed over the cables but it contains an announcement of a fresh outbreak upon the overtaxed Irishman, or that troops are being sent to a certain point to guard against public disturbance in Irish quarters. England's policy has been to treat the Irishman rather as a serf than a subject, and his wants have never been considered as worthy of a thought when they have come up in conflict with the interests of the land owner since the victory of William of Orange. It is true that there is a wild and reckless element in the Irish character; but it is also true that he loves the same place in the world as is enjoyed by those surrounding him with whom he justly demands an equality. England has forgotten this, or knowing it all the time, has failed to win the Irish heart in her favor. She has broken down no prejudice by words of kindness and great acts of benevolence. Her attitude to Ireland has been that of the master who suspects the servant of wrong, and who lets him know of his suspicions. Suspect a man of ill intentions and that moment friendship is lost. This rule will apply in the government of factions of a nation, and it is proven by the turbulence in Ireland at the present writing, and the strong efforts resorted to by the English government to keep order by preventing riots or perhaps more serious outbreaks. We are afraid the time will come, without there is a change in policy, when England will sincerely regret her shortsightedness on the Irish question.

KILL THEM OFF.

There is one paper in Southern Oregon that yet asserts that the Democratic party is "alive, alert and active." We admire the courage of our brother of the pencil. He has probably read our article favoring the killing of the party leaders before the commencement of another campaign, and has heard that John Kelly is supposed to be dead in New York. But the Jacksonville Times should remember that there are many worse leaders inside the councils of the party besides the defunct of New York, and even the New York dead may yet prove to be a lively ghost in the play for power in the time to come, since Tammany stands yet for its dethroned favorite. Perhaps the Times has taken its cue from the result of the last June election, and finds satisfaction in the thought that there is to the Democratic party a silent power bent on the assassination of Prim, Kelly & Co., who led the party to its Waterloo in June, and gave the State to Garfield in November. Well, kill, politically, Prim, Kelly & Co. and who knows but what the people, after the party has been ridden of such incubus of fraud, will have an opportunity of seeing some virtue in it. When such men are put in the front ranks how can any one see anything or anybody behind?

The German papers state that a new light has been discovered by M. Kordig, of the polytechnic association of St. Petersburg. The substance is composed of naptha, by a secret process, and is pertumed. The new light is said to have the remarkable property of being perfectly safe, and the experiments which were made by the inventor before a large company were really astounding. Mr. Kordig besmeared his coat with the preparation and setting fire to it, walked like a pillar of fire through the room without the slightest injury to himself or damage to his garment. Several members of the association repeated the experiment with a like result. The substance is reported to be equally safe in casks when a certain quantity of air is allowed. The Voss Zeitung states that it is burned in lamps of very simple construction; the bottom is lined with a porous substance. The lamp can be held in any position and the light will not be extinguished by the wind. The light itself is very pure and white. What will the kerosene demon do, if all this is true?

One million, one hundred and eleven thousand hogs were received in Chicago during November, the largest receipts ever known for a month, with a value of $12,250,000. The clearings of the Chicago clearing-house for November were $182,000,000, the largest ever recorded.

The Jacksonville Times very sensibly attacks the last legislature in its failure to amend the game laws of Oregon. Without a single doubt the members might have left other matters alone and took up the protection of game question with profit to the people.

There are now forty vessels in San Francisco loading with grain, and twenty more are daily expected. Last month fifty odd wheat laden ships sailed from that port for Europe, being the largest number within the same space of time for many years.

Henry Bergh, the sworn enemy of cruelty, advocates a short shift for the murderers, and the lash for other criminals. His experience has taught him the truth of the Scriptural declaration that "the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel."

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

WASTING DISEASES.

Such as Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation Chronic Diarrhea, Dyspepsia or

Loss of Nervous Power,

Are positively cured by FELLOWS COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOSPHITES.

As phosphorus enters so largely into the animal economy, it becomes par excellence the best vehicle with which to associate the other vitalizing ingredients of healthy tissue—namely the ingredients of healthy Blood, Nerve and Muscle. In Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites are combined all the substance found necessary to insure robust health, and whereas it was invented with a view to supply every deficiency, it certainly has performed some wonderful cures.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 12, 1880.
MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS:

Dear Sir—I wish to acknowledge the great benefit I have received from the use of "Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites." I have been an invalid for nearly two years, with a bronchial affection that had become chronic. In the Fall of 1878 I had a physician eighty days in succession, besides the counsel of several others. They gave me but little encouragement, some of them none. Last July I was advised to give your remedy a trial. I did so, and in less than one week there was a marked improvement for the better. I have continued its use from that time until the present, improving all the time, and I can truthfully say I am more than a hundred per cent. better than when I commenced its use. I have increased in weight about fifteen pounds, and my cough, which was fearful, has nearly disappeared. I believe had it not been for your Syrup, I should ere this have been beyond the cares of life. Very truly yours,

ALBERT STORY.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this, under any circumstances.

1. "Jane Eyre," the celebrated novel which made Charlotte Bronte's fame.
2. "The Days of Pompeii," Bulwer's historical romance of universal popularity, the most fascinating of his productions.
3. "John Halifax, Gentleman," Miss Mulock's masterpiece; a story of the sorrows and triumphs associated with low birth and iron fortune.
4. "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," the work that gave Charles Dickens his celebrity; the most humorous and always the most popular of his works.
5. "The History of a Crime." by Victor Hugo. The terrible narrative by the great French poet, novelist and historian of the crime of Louis Napoleon in strangling the liberties of his country.
6. "Henry Esmond." A novel. By Wm. Thackeray—the most artistic, popular and characteristic of the works of the wisest novelist of this time.
7. "Steffien." By Alexander William Kinglake. One of the most charming narratives ever written; full of pen-pictures of life in the East, including admirable accounts of personal experiences in Egypt and the Holy Land.
8. "Journal of the Plague in London." By Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." The true history, by one of the most distinguished writers in our language, of the mysterious and awful visitation of the Plague to England.
9. "Poems of Wordsworth." Chosen and edited by Matthew Arnold. The most popular and select edition of the works of one of England's greatest poets, whose writings owe their celebrity largely to the excellent understanding they display of the sentiment and scenery of country life.
10. Three volumes "English Men of Letters" (in one). 1. Robert Burns. 2. Oliver Goldsmith. 3. John Bunyan. Of these volumes the first is by Principal Shairp, the second by William Black, the brilliant novelist, and the third by James A. Froude, the distinguished historian.
