THURSDAY, May 25.....1911

The rains of yesterday and today would seem to assure a bumper crop for Morrow county. Now for the warm sunshine to make everything grow.

Portland people are making their plans for the annual Rose Festival, June 5-10, and the whole city is looking forward eagerly to the event. It will be bigger and better than ever this year and the latch string to the whole city will be out. Residents of other Oregon cities will be given a warm welcome.

At the request of Senator Bourne, the Forest Service has sent to each County Clerk in Oregon a copy of the "Use Book" and the "National Forest Grazing Manual." These books are to be kept on file by County Clerks for the use of any person who may be interested in grazing or other privileges in forest reserves.

Oregon pioneers will hold their annual reunion and banquet at the Masonic Temple in Portland on June 21. Arrangements are now being made for this gathering by the Oregon Pioneer Association. Secretary George H. Himes is arranging a program of unusual interest and a large number of the sturdy pioneers who laid the foundations of our state will meet and recall the incidents of the past. Indian War Veterans will meet in Portland on June 20.

Are you reading the articles in the Gazette on diversified farming? If you are not, you are missing a good thing. The writer, J. Garfield Crawford, of Fort Worth, Texas, has been in a splendid position for the past two years to study up these subjects, and he has given them a great deal of attention. He has been privileged to visit, at his pleasure, the Texas Experimental Station, and has also traveled extensively over Texas and Oklahoma, studying the soil, plant and climatic conditions, and his experience of a number of years in Morrow county makes it easy for him to point out what is needed here. The things suggested in these articles are being put to practical test in Texas and are proving very successful.

It has rained some in Morrow county and other portions of Eastern Oregon, but much more is needed to assure the best crop outlook. As the years roll by it is more and more impressed upon our people that the methods of farming in this country should be radically changed, and every method adopted that looks to the proper conserving of the moisture, and the retention of the natural mineral salts and plant producing elements of the soil. The greater number of our farmers are attempting to farm too much land. These farms should be cut up, more people placed on them and more thorough farming done. The aim should be to get more from each acre of land farmed and not try to put in such large acreages. The idea, also, of diversifying, is beginning to take hold, and this should become more general. Another thing, also, that should be curtailed, is the system of credit now extended by our merchants. If this could be done away with and all be required to come to a cash basis, it would not be long until our farming community would be very prosperous. This would result in every farmer bringing something to town to trade for his groceries and supplies, instead of buying many articles and going in debt for them when he can produce all he needs and have a surplus. The sooner this condition can be brought about and this extensive system of credit done away with, the sooner will our prosperity set in. The farmers' union of the country is taking up this proposition, and they will no doubt earnestly labor to bring about its early consummation.
