Want to read the Siuslaw News? This one is on us.

Siuslaw News is the community newspaper for western Lane County. That means residents and visitors alike have been enjoying "news and views that define our community" for more than 130 years.

This edition is freely going out to the 9,000 households in our area through the United States Postal Service. Why? Because we want to remind you what you get when you pick up a copy of the Siuslaw News.

Our readers get comprehensive coverage on local boards and nonprofits, stories about schools and student sports, features about prominent citizens and stand-out neighbors, and so much more. Through our twice-weekly print edition, which gets published every Wednesday and Saturday, or our online edition at TheSiuslawNews.com, people get to read about the news happening here, in western Lane County.

Each edition of the Siuslaw News contains pages for Records, Community News and Opinion. These special pages allow community members to submit press releases, obituaries and opinion pieces. The Siuslaw News values each of these contributions, as well as the advertisers who make each edition possible.

Named for the Siuslaw River, the Siuslaw Region and the Siuslaw people and tribe, the Siuslaw News seeks to connect readers with stories that amplify local voices, draw attention to neighbors and community members, highlight youth and their accomplishments, detail health and safety concerns, boost economic drivers and spread the word about art, recreation, events and entertainment.

The Siuslaw News does this with an all-local team of publishers, editors, marketers, reporters, designers, delivery drivers, printers and office staff. Our local operations are all conducted within 90 miles, and our readership extends across the U.S.

Currently, Siuslaw News partners with 500 advertisers annually and prints more than 5,000 copies of each of our publications. That's a lot of readers it visits twice each week — and even more read online. The news is available in both print and online editions, as well as specialty tabloids, magazines and special sections.

Siuslaw News also has an active social media presence and is in line with current trends affecting online journalism.
