Diplomatic Boycott Fails to Dampen Their Ardor.

RULER APPEARS SAD AND TIRED

He Shakes Hands With Many, but Utters Few Words—Chief of the Assassins Is Out in Full Uniform.

BELGRADE, June 24.—Although the entry of King Peter into Belgrade today was distinguished by a diplomatic boycott, his reception by the people was everywhere marked by heartiness which approached genuine enthusiasm, in which all classes participated.

He Shakes Hands With Many, but Utters Few Words—Chief of the Assassins Is Out in Full Uniform.

The King arrived at 10 o'clock. The Ministers, government officials, judges, military and naval authorities and leading citizens were assembled on the platform of the railroad station, which was profusely decorated. The only foreign representatives who participated in the reception were the Russian Minister, M. Tscharkoff, and the Austrian Minister, Herr Dumba, with the members of their respective legations.

King's Answer to Welcome.

The King, who wore the uniform of a Serbian General, with a grave and almost morose look descended from his car amid a fanfare of trumpets. He shook hands with Premier Avakumovic, who ended a powerful speech of welcome with calling for cheers for the good of the kingdom. He responded with great enthusiasm.

Assassins in Full Uniform.

The presentation of the Ministers followed. Colonel Manchin wore full uniform and all his decorations. King Peter throughout was extremely grave. He did not speak a word, but simply shook hands with those who were presented to him. The introductions were followed by the traditional picturesque ceremony of offering of bread and salt by the Mayor of Belgrade.

At the Cathedral.

The ceremony at the cathedral lasted half an hour. The building was crowded. Just previous to the arrival of the King the doors of the cathedral were closed and not a single priest was visible. Suddenly from outside the cathedral came the sound of cheering, signaling the approach of the King. The doors of the cathedral were then opened and a procession of gorgeously robed priests and members of the choir emerged, preceded by incense-bearers and followed by the venerable metropolitan in brilliant apparel. The procession halted at the main entrance of the cathedral, where the soldiers at a word of command greeted the King with loud cheers.

POWERS WILL PRESS CHINA.

Means Are Being Considered to Break Deadlock on Trade Treaty. WASHINGTON, June 24.—The negotiations with China for a trade treaty have reached a critical phase, the growing out of the members of the House of Representatives and Japan for the opening of ports in Manchuria. The Russian Government has professed to entertain no opposition to the demand, but has insisted that the powers mentioned will be opened to foreign trade in the future when trade necessities require it. Therefore they propose to leave this matter in abeyance and conclude the trade convention without this section. The United States refuses to accept this suggestion. Japan takes the same position. The English negotiators are deadlocked, pending the contrivance of some means by the powers named to bring some pressure upon China.

gracefully acquired, and Roosevelt's nomination was unanimous.

The probabilities are that if Hanna had voted for Quay, which would have seated them together instead of at cross purposes. When Quay was in the Senate before Hanna time, he held much of the position that Hanna holds now. His defeat for re-election and failure to be seated on the Governor's appointment put him in the running for a number of committees, and in several ways gave him a back seat. Hanna quickly succeeded to the political place that Quay had held, and Quay has apparently been resentful ever since.

Year ago Quay was early in the field with an indorsement of Roosevelt for re-election, and Pennsylvania, acting under his direction, declared for the re-election of Roosevelt. Hanna did not like it at the time, especially as Pennsylvania's action was followed by indorsements from other states. Quay has also taken a considerable delight in assuming a position antagonistic to Hanna in the Senate, and upon the whole has made the Ohio Senator feel that the vote against the seating of Quay was rather expensive.
