A burglary was committed at the Long Beach Life-Saving Station the other night, says the Pacific Journal. While those off duty were asleep, the thief entered the building and went through their clothes. One pair of pants he took with him. He obtained about two hundred dollars. Tracks of the thief were traced to Ocean Park, and a search warrant obtained to search a certain house, but nothing was discovered of either the money or the pants.

The Astorian received a dispatch last night from Portland, stating that Mrs. Taylor, the wife of Col. Jas. Taylor, died in that city yesterday morning. The hundreds of warm friends of Mrs. Taylor will deeply regret her death. The deceased was 76 years of age and had lived in this county for over forty years, being during the whole of that time a woman whose kindness and cheerful disposition have brightened many homes. She was just eight years younger than her husband, who will have the sympathy of the whole community in the loss of a wife who has been his helpmeet for fifty years. The funeral will take place in this city on Thursday.

Lovers of a good cigar can always find mild, fresh Belmonts at Chas. Olsen's.

Mothers-in-law are unmerciful at their detractors. Eugene Prescott, a farmer twelve miles from Colfax, was shot twice and seriously injured by his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. Sutton. One ball passed through the left shoulder and the other took effect in the left side. Some time ago Prescott had Mrs. Sutton arrested on a charge of insanity, but the charge was not sustained, and the court reprimanded Prescott severely for the accusations, which seemed to be the result of a plot to get the old lady's property. The two have been bitter enemies ever since. Just before the shooting Prescott started across Mrs. Sutton's field. She ordered him back, but he persisted, and she fired. She is a widow. Her husband was captain of an Ohio company all through the war.

The Salem Statesman says: "A man whose grandmother was a cousin of Duncan McDougall, one of the founders of Astoria, writes a Salem man that he has in his possession a diary of Duncan M'Dougal from September 1, 1810, to October 28, 1813. Mr. M'Dougall, [illegible] was one of the partners of John Jacob Astor for in the Pacific Fur Company, and was one of the parties who sailed from New York on the ship Tonquin [illegible] for the mouth of the Columbia and founded the City of Astoria. He was instructed by Mr. Astor to act as his proxy, and is frequently mentioned in Washington Irving's "Astoria." His ring and trunk he carried with him on the voyage and in possession of the living descendant. The diary gives an accident during the voyage from New York to the Columbia's mouth and also of all the events following the landing and founding in October, 1813."

The library party that was given in the Odd Fellows' hall on the 16th is considered a success by the promoters, and the liberal patronage of Astoria's people proves to that organization that there are many friends who are truly interested, and are willing to lend a helping hand to the cause. The cash receipts of $61.30 make the new catalogue system for the library almost a possibility. Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. E. Van Dusen, Mrs. J. T. Ross, Miss Alma Heilborn, and Mr. H. G. Smith for their beautiful songs, the success of the entertainment was largely due. To them and Mrs. Theo. Olsen as accompanist, the association extends its sincerest thanks, and the same are due Mrs. R. Carruthers and the young ladies and gentlemen who under that lady's management, displayed many beautiful and interesting tableaux. The rendition of the beautiful poem, to Mrs. Megler for the use of her piano, to Captain Reed for the hall, and to all others who so kindly assisted.

A [illegible] of R. of P. [illegible] at Heppner, Hon. J. W. Hare, P. M., at Astoria, Hon. W. T. Hume, of Portland, and Hon. Jeff. [illegible] Marion counties, are said to have made a great trio, sort of a cyclone. While there the W. C. T. U. gave a big supper. The three men and two ladies, Hume and Myers finished first and told the young lady waiter that Hare would settle the bill, which he did, at a cost of $2.00. Soon after Hare asked the privilege of auctioning off a couple of bouquets. A job was put up and one bouquet sold to Hume for $2.50, though he had not bid at all. He gave a $5 piece in payment, which Mr. Hare generously said was all right and no change was needed, as Hume would be a candidate for Congress. The other bouquet was sold in like manner to Myers for $3.00, and the bill footed. Thus the Astoria P. M. got ahead of the two Hon.'s, and a good cause was helped.

Here is [illegible] The Times-Mountaineer [illegible] adopted by fourth-class publications of boasting of their circulation that is absolutely nauseating to sensible men. By giving the paper to many, forcing it on them, and reducing the price to a mere [illegible] to the penurious some publishers manage to work off quite an edition and scatter it broadcast in the community; but the copies are rarely read, and are used for every conceivable purpose, except to furnish food for thought. Such newspapers must be classed with advertising "fakes," for if they had the circulation they claim, it would be known without heralding the fact in their columns. An honest, virtuous man or woman does not paste a placard on every street corner advertising the fact; but his and her acts and life speak for themselves. Only the shysters follow [illegible] mountebank. In journalism it is most despicable; because the space papers fill with their own laudation—betokening a weak and purile mind—is indisputable evidence that they are not patronized sufficiently, and their meagre circulation needs inflation which nobody will furnish but themselves."

[illegible] takes the lead in manufacturing boots and shoes. This week is first class and [illegible] Corner [illegible] streets.

Don't go to Portland to buy your tickets for the Old Country, and have your passage [illegible] same price at the Union Pacific office in this city, and thereby save your local fare to Portland.

The sermon [illegible] Sunday [illegible] cattle," was listened to by a very large congregation. The discourse went a long way out of the beaten track, was largely statistical, and very interesting throughout. Mr. Bushong dilated at length on the amount of money annually expended in this country on luxuries—horses, carriages, fashions, cigars, wine, and dogs, and then summed up the cost of the honorable adjuncts to the comfort of civilization—education, religion, churches and charities. By this means he proved conclusively that the people of the United States paid more money annually for the keep of their dogs, than they did for the maintenance of their ministers. Coming down to local applications, he showed how in Astoria $86,500 were spent on luxuries every year, and how $36,100 were provided for the propagation of the Christian religion and education, leaving over $50,000 wasted in this city every year on useless things. "You pay your eight ministers here about $8,000 a year," said the doctor, "and you spend for your dogs just about $7,000, so, in Astoria anyway, I am glad to see that the preachers are a little ahead of the dogs."

The girl that leads her school class at the New York Novelty Store will be presented with a manicure set. Every boy that gets his school books at the New York Novelty Store will get a nice memorandum book with mirror attached.

The true reason for the bad beating that Astoria received in Portland on Saturday became apparent yesterday on the arrival of the members of the team and their friends returned home. The game was lost by a young man named Gilham, who gave decisions that knocked all the heart out of the visiting club. He could say far more to the local men in the most barefaced manner. Up to a minute before half time Astoria had by far the best of the game, the ball being kept continually in the Portland's territory. Mr. Gilham distinguished himself by declaring an unfair foul against Astoria at a critical moment, and Portland secured its first goal in consequence. When the ball went between the sticks, the Portland team and their Umpire yelled, danced, and applauded louder than any boys we have heard. This decision so disgusted the boys that two of them walked off the ground and absolutely refused to play any longer, till Kilgore compelled them to return. In the second half the whole team were apathetic, and let their opponents do what they pleased. In acting in this manner they were wrong. They should have all [illegible] off at half time and kept off, or else played their hardest throughout. But the fact remains that Astoria was by no means any kind of a test of superiority between the two teams.

IMITATORS AND IMPOSTERS.

The unequalled success of Allcock's Porous Plasters as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous dealers to offer imitations which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of Allcock's. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretentions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority or equality with Allcock's a false assertion.

The united testimony of physicians and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring Allcock's Porous Plasters the best external remedy ever produced.

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by American compositions sold for Allcock's, and see that the genuine or explanatory pamphlet covering each substitute.
