THE HAWAIIAN CABLE.

In a recent letter to the Chicago Times-Herald, Kate Field, writing from Honolulu, says:

"The first link needed to bind Hawaii to Anglo-Saxon civilization is a cable. England wanted to lay it several years ago. Looking to the United States for salvation, the republic of Hawaii refused to lease the rock called Necker Island, which was wanted to bring the proposed Australian cable within range of this country. As a savior the United States is incomprehensible. The longer I remain here the more exasperated I become at a policy that hurts the people here by keeping them in a feverish state of unrest, does our republic harm by prolonging the reign of Asiatic labor and makes us, secretly, the laughing stock of observing foreign diplomatists. In our place there isn't a European nation that wouldn't take possession of Hawaii tomorrow. As for Japan—well, a clever Japanese said a few days ago: 'You white people need not trouble about Japan for two years.' It will take this England of the Orient two years to recuperate from her war with China. Meanwhile she is creating a navy as fast as money and men can build it. One of her ambitions is to control the Pacific ocean. Why should she not begin with Hawaii, where thousands of her people already abide? She, too, talks about laying a cable, and already is arranging for a swift line of steamers to North America, touching in Hawaii. Can congress afford to ignore all these signs of the times? Self-preservation should make the passage of a cable bill as sure as was the support given to President Cleveland in his Venezuelan policy. The future of Hawaii is vastly more important to us than the extension of British possessions in South America. The Monroe doctrine properly interpreted means that no enemy to republican institutions can be allowed to approach our continent. The danger threatens Hawaii, and so far we refuse to heed the signal. Such madness is incredible. If you doubt my warning ask Admiral Walker, who was sent out here to President Cleveland to make a report. Has congress ever read that report? Has it ever been published? If not, now is the time to bring it before the public. Walter Wellman wrote recently in the Times-Herald that when he grew sick of selfish scheming at the capitol he went to the Army and Navy Club in Washington and regained his spirits by listening to the unselfish patriotism of soldiers and sailors. I find the best American citizens the best men of the navy. To them the nation is all. Travel has taught them the greatness of the country whose flag they love better than life. Let congress ask Admiral Walker to tell them what he knows about Hawaii."

With two Richmonds now in the field there seems to be a fair prospect of getting a cable laid between San Francisco and Hawaii. There is nothing like competition to bestir the human brain, and now that the Pacific Cable Company has a strong rival working away at Washington, there is a hope that congressmen from away back will receive some information concerning the Sandwich Island republic that ought to help them to become American citizens, of whom the capital it is to be feared has comparatively few. There are citizens of Virginia, citizens of Kentucky, citizens of Texas, citizens of Kansas, and citizens of other states. All glue their eyes to their own bailiwicks, and sneeze when their constituents take snuff; but there are not many politicians, outside of the Republican party, whose motto is "the nation." Statesmen know there can be no republic without consulting and respecting the greatest good of the greatest number. They realize that no part of the nation can long thrive at the expense of another. That is a Southern Democrat and Western Populist idea. What injures one section eventually injures all; what benefits the whole inures to the ultimate benefit of every hamlet. With England, and even Japan and future China bidding for the commerce of the world, it behooves the United States to strain every nerve, not only to hold fast what we already have, but to gain every possible foothold in every possible quarter. This is the true American policy of the immediate future. To ignore eight islands half way across the Pacific, capable of supporting a population of millions, islands that thanks to our past ignorance, are fast passing under the subjugation of the arrogant Japanese, is a crime for which the next generation of Americans will curse this century if persisted in much longer.

Mr. D. H. Welch's disingenuous statement in another column concerning his attitude toward the Scow Bay depot site, will not set him right in that important matter with those who understand all the circumstances of the depot location. If Mr. Welch really wishes to promote the selection of this site, and advance his own and the city's interests generally, by the settlement of the principal obstacle now in the way of Astoria's immediate prosperity, he well enough knows how to do it.

Mr. Hartman, a member of congress from Montana, who ought to know a great deal about the Populists, considering the state he hails from, lately gave his opinion about the platform of that party, in the course of a speech he was delivering in the house, as follows: "We know," he said, "that it contains fifteen different ways of restoring prosperity to the country, and I understand they are about to add three additional planks. One will recommend the preparation of honey bees by crossing them with lightning bugs, so that the bees can work at night; another is to cross centipedes with the genus hog, so that every hog will have 100 hams; and the third suggests grafting strawberries on milk weeds in order to raise strawberries and cream."

Of course it was too much to expect that any Democrat in the United States senate would have patriotism enough to vote with the Republicans to take up the tariff bill, and place even with the votes of the traitorous Caffery, Carlisle, Mantle, Dubois, and Teller the Republicans would have lacked four of having a majority. It is not the fault of the Republicans that, as Senator Morrill says, the tariff bill is dead.

Lincoln's birthday was celebrated this year in all sections of the country, and citizens of all parties joined in doing honor to the memory of a man whom a distinguished English writer recently characterized as "the marvel of history, and everything considered, the best product of the civilization of the new world."

An exchange says "England's course during the last year towards the governments of South and Central America is not calculated to increase British trade in that part of the world." As far as it has been developed, the Salisbury foreign policy is an illustration of the art of making enemies everywhere.

The farmers of the United States were just beginning to find an enlarged foreign market for their products under the reciprocity policy when a Democratic congress came along and smashed it. This great wrong will be rectified as soon as Republican rule is restored.

GROWTH OF CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Official Directory Shows How It Has Increased in This Country.

The official directory of the Catholic church in the United States has just been issued. It places the number of Catholics in the United States at 9,416,720, divided territorially into fourteen archdioceses and seventy-one dioceses, ruled by fourteen archbishops, including one cardinal and sixty-nine bishops. A few of the dioceses are without heads at present, but besides these prelates there are in this country three titular archbishops and three titular bishops.

There are 10,346 priests, of whom 7,796 are seculars and 2,587 regulars—that is, members of religious orders, such as Jesuits, Paulists, Dominicans, Franciscans, Redemptorists, etc. These priests are in charge of 8,301 churches, 582 of which have resident pastors and 1,649 are missions with churches—that is extra charges of the priests attached to nearby parishes. Besides these there are 5,326 other places of worship called stations and chapels.

The educational force of the Catholic church in this country consists of nine universities, twenty-six secular seminaries, with 1,993 students, eighty-two regular seminaries, with 1,711 students, 107 high schools for boys and 631 high schools for girls, and 3,583 parochial schools, which are attended by 786,348 children. The orphan asylums number 243, in which are 21,051 inmates, and there are 628 Catholic institutions, in which are 873,561 children.

New York is the premier archdiocese of the country, and, it is said, of the whole world. It comprises this city and the counties of Westchester, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, Rockland and Richmond and the Bahama islands and contains 535,000 Catholics. Next in order comes Boston and Chicago, each of which has 00,000 Catholics. Fourth on the list stands Brooklyn, with 800,000, and then follows Philadelphia, 615,000; New Orleans, 325,000; Hartford, 270,000; Cleveland, 250,000; Baltimore, 240,000; Newark, 235,000; San Francisco, 225,000; Pittsburg, 225,000; St. Paul, 200,000; Providence, Springfield (Mass.), Milwaukee and St. Louis, 200,000 each. The other dioceses range from this figure down to 1,000, the number of Catholics in Alaska, the largest Catholic ecclesiastical district in area, but the smallest in population.

A comparison of these statistics with those for 1895 shows there are now 352,000 more Catholic church members than there were last year.

PACIFIC LUMBER FOR CHINA.

Exchange.

An agent of the Chinese government is now on the Pacific coast to place an order for 50,000,000 feet of lumber. Most of the timber is intended for the construction and repair of the government buildings. The agent says indications are good for a healthy revival of the lumber trade throughout China and Japan this and next year.

MARVELOUS RESULTS.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Humphreys, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make the extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Hives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little intermission and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Charles Rogers drug store. Regular size, 50c and $1.

Progressive euchre prizes are now set forth at the silversmith's.
