The travelling public as well as the business men of Astoria would be greatly convenienced if the Portland boats were allowed to land their passengers and freight at the lower docks first, and afterwards return to the cannery docks for such work as they have to do there.

Genuine signs of the revival of business continue to multiply everywhere. There is increased demand for labor and increased trade, closed mills are reopening with increased frequency and everything indicates the good time coming which it was expected that a republican administration would inaugurate.

British Columbia was about to pass a bill preventing American citizens from securing mine licenses there, but when it was discovered that it was Americans who were developing the mining industries, and that such a bill would kill nearly all mining industry in British Columbia, the bill was promptly killed. The Americans are really the benefactors of the country.

The democratic attack on the Dingley tariff might have some force if the democrats had ever shown any ability in constructing tariff measures themselves. The full measure of their capabilities in this direction was revealed by the "perfidity and dishonor" tariff which President Cleveland denounced, which he refused to sign, and which, getting on the statute book by the expiration of the time limit, has proved to be worthless for either revenue or protection.

Patrons of the public schools can see no sense in a policy which removes a teacher from a grade which she has just learned how to reach from a year's experience, and puts her in charge of a grade requiring an entirely new course of study, and with pupils who have to be governed by a different method of discipline. Such a course, it is believed, is not followed in any other city in the country, but the extensive experience and vast capabilities of the Astoria board may find some justification for it which is not obvious to ordinary people.

There is one thing the journals that jeshe us to hours to a colonial condition in our commerce—we mean the British free traders—do not explain, says the Standard-Union, why is it that the French, English, Canadians, Germans and others are so interested in our tariff? If the import duties are, as the free traders say, merely taxes that we levy on ourselves, and pay, what is the row abroad about? What business is it of foreigners how we tax ourselves? We have sought in vain for some years past a little bit of explanation of this phenomenal foreign interest in our domestic affairs, and got no satisfaction, even from the Sunday protectors, who had cast off the free tax of the free traders and everything like it, for a century. We are inclined to say it is sad.

It might have been poor business policy for Hammond to put ten or twelve thousand dollars in depot improvements before he had any assurance from the city authorities that a street would be extended so as to make them available, but it is neither fair nor manly to twit him with it at this time. He was nagged into building the depot long before he had any occasion to use it, in order that the people might have "ocular demonstration" that he intended to keep faith with them. The depot has been finished since early in the winter, and while the council is now proceeding as rapidly as possible with the tedious legal routine which the obstinacy of William Welch and other obstructionists has forced it to pursue, it is no credit to the council or the city that these proceedings have been so long delayed. It is to be feared the the history of the depot building may be the history of the railroad—Hammond will have the latter ready a long time before the people of Astoria are ready for it.

Let each citizen of Astoria, as soon as he sees this item, go to his grocery-man and buy a pound of tea, and carefully note the price that he pays for it, and compare that price with what he paid for the same grade of goods, say three months ago. If the result of his investigation does not conclusively prove to him that the consumer pays the tariff, then he must be very dull in his powers of comprehension. Yet editors of reputable newspapers have the audacity to claim that an increase in tariff rates falls upon the manufacturer and importer, and not upon the consumer. One of two things must be true—such men are densely ignorant or intensely dishonest.—Astoria Evening News.

Will the editor of the Evening News inform the consumers of tea in Astoria what the difference is between the tariff on tea today and three months ago? Or, to put the question in a little different form, is it dense ignorance or intentional dishonesty which induces him to imply that there is now or was three months ago any tariff at all on tea?

The unspeakable Turk was originally a Tartar, with a nose as flat as that of the Hun, so dreaded by Western Europeans in the fourth century, a receding chin and squint eyes, but amalgamation with the nations he has conquered has elevated his nose, straightened his eyes and brought his chin into a prominence somewhat more becoming than it was before. The Seljuk Turks first appeared in history as a tribe of Tartars about A. D. 750, when they conquered a part of Armenia, ever since called from them Turcomania. They had emigrated from Turkestan, being pressed forward by savage tribes in their rear. After their occupation of Armenia their encroachments on Asia Minor began and steadily continued for several hundred years. They first came into Europe in 1080, a large force of Turks crossing the Bosporus as mercenaries employed by the Emperor Botoniates, to assist him in a contest with a rival for the throne. From that time until the close of the seventeenth century their advance into Europe was steady. After their repulse before the walls of Vienna in 1683 by John Sobieski, of Poland, the wave of Turkish aggression began to recede and since then the Turkish power has been on the decline.

Loose clothes and downy cushions bring only a negative sort of comfort to the woman who is suffering with some disease or derangement of the organs distinctly feminine. Some clothes and some positions make the pain and the discomfort seem less. Perhaps the nerves are most affected and this in turn disturbs the digestion. Nothing will ever completely relieve but a radical cure. The start of so-called "female complaints" may be a very slight thing indeed. It may be that in the beginning some small hygienic measures would stop the trouble. Certainly at this time, a little bit of the right medicine would stop it. When the trouble becomes worse, it is harder to cure, but still it can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will positively cure any trouble of this character. It may be absolutely relied upon. It affords lasting relief to a woman whose natural modesty has kept her from consulting a physician.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register.

Mr. James Rowland, of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr. Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies it whenever she feels an ache or a pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. THE OBJECTION NOT GOOD.

There are people who have objections to advertising matter in the columns of a newspaper. The ground of objection is that they do not want to read advertisements. Now this objection is not good, for oftentimes these advertisements convey valuable information. For instance, how else would the traveling public learn of the excellent dining car service of the Wisconsin Central lines between St. Paul and Chicago, or the general comfort of traveling over this popular line.
