INSTRUMENT FILED YESTERDAY

Had Heard Fraudulent Paners, Purporting to Bear His Signature, Were in Existence and Would Be Produced After Denth.

The will of Lewis Love, deceased, is a unique document. Because several years ago Captain Love discovered that fraudulent deeds had been executed covering much of his valuable property, which he had declared void and forged in the courts, he recites in his final instrument a list of all the deeds which he ever signed, and also the fact that if any other deeds are extant bearing his name, as he has heard, they are forgeries, and not to be recog-

Captain Love in his will protects his daughter, Mary C. Stafford, from any disposition she may have to share her por-tion with her husband, and also has taken oure that the wives of his sons, Fred D. and Green C. Love, do not obtain control of the property left to their husbands.

The estate is large, valued at $500,000 and has a speculative value of probably twice that sum. The will was filed yesterday, and a copy of the principal parts of the document is as follows:

I, Lewis Love, of Portland, being of the age of 80 years, and of sound and disposing mind and memory, do make and declare this as my last will and testament, in manner and form ing. That is to say: I make, constitute spoint T. T. Struble, Philo Holbrook and Breeden executors, and request and direct that no bond or undertaking be required of them as such, nor of them as trustees to hold my estate to a certain time as herein

In order that my purpose and ownership o property shall be clearly understood, I hereby preface my devises and bequests as follows: I have made no deed to any person or persons to any real or personal property, to take effect at or after my death. I made five deeds to children and grandchildren September 21, my children and grandchildren September 21, 1894, which were executed and acknowledged before T. T. Struble. I made eight deeds to my children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, December 28, 1898, which were also acknowledged before T. T. Struble, notary public. Other than these mentioned deeds, I have made none since the first-mentioned ones of date September 21, 1894. I am the owner absolute of the following real property in the city lute of the following real property in the city of Portland: Lot 142, block 117, city; lot 4, block 116, city; lot 3, block 10, city; N, ty lot 2, block 10, city; lot 8, block 111, city; B. ½ lot 2, block 4; city; the E. 75 feet of S. ½ lot 4, block 3, city; N. ½ of lot 4, block 3, city; S. ½ of lot 6,

I have never made a deed to any person or persons of any part or piece of this property

A portion of the land is outside and a por-tion inside the city limits of Portland. I have tion inside the city limits of Portland. I have made no deed to any of this acreage to any person or persons at any time, excepting for Columbia cemetery. It is my purpose to will at this time all of my property, personal, real and mixed, to my legal heirs in the same proportion as the law would convey the same to them in the absence of any will by ms, reserving only the final place where my wife is now buried, and a strip of land two feet in width adjacent thereto on west, north and east of said burial spot, and I hereby set aside said burial place and said two feet of land adjacent thereto, forever as a resting place or burial spot for my wife and myself. Said burial place adjoins Columbia cemetery. My will is, and I direct that my estate be divided into six shares or parts of equal value, to be disposed of in the following manner: First, to my son, Fred D. Love, one of said part.

To my son, Lewis P. Love, one of said shares

To my grandson, William King, son of de-ceased daughter, Melinda J. Shepherd, one-mento street, said the boy in telling the third part of said shares or parts. To Matilda Shepherd, daughter of Melinda J. Shep-berd, one-third part of one share or part. To Hazel King, a great-granddaughter of Albion King, deceased, who was a son of Metinda Shepherd, one-third of one share or

To my daughter, Mary C. Stafford, one of mid shares or paris.

I give, devise and bequeath to the children of my depeased son, William Love, one of said shares or parts to be divided among the chil-dren as follows: Lewis W., John A., Ulysses be kept intact and not distributed to my devisees until January 1, 1807.

I direct that my executors shall proceed to administer upon my estate at once after my death, and having closed up my estate as ex-soutors that then my estate shall pass to the scutors that then my estate shall pass to them as trustees, to be held in trust for my said devisees until January 1, 1907.

I direct that my trustees, T. T. Struble, Philo Holbrook and H. C. Breeden, from time to time, as the receipts of the estate may exceed the expenditures, to distribute such portion as can, in their judgment, be safely distributed among the devisees not more than twice a year.

The final distribution is to be made, if it can be agreed upon, by a distribution of the property; otherwise according to shares. The personal property is to be sold and become a part of the estate. The trustees are empowered to manage the proporty, collect rents, etc.

In conclusion the will provides: Reference to the fact in this will that I am the owner of and have made no deed to certain properties is because I have been informed re-liably of one fraudulent deed to certain valuable property purporting to have been made by me, and also have heard rumors of the ex-lestence of another frauduent deed. I pro-mounce and deciare any and all such deed or deed as fraudulent, and all claims or any per-son or persons of having genuine deeds or title to any of the property hereinbefore described as false and villianous, and I hereby instruct my executors and trustees to content any such claims to the uttermost, that my property may be kept intact and saved for my lawful helrs

The will is dated January 5, 1899, and was witnessed by O. P. S. Plummer and Edward Holman. There is a codicil attached to the will which provides:

I hereby decree and declare that the devise or legacy to my daughter, Mary C. Stafford, in my last will shall only be a life estate, and shall be for her sole and separate use, independent of her husband at all times during her life, and that at her death the said device or legacy to her shall go to her children, share and share allks.

Clause No. 2 of the codicil provides that the legacy to Fred D. Love shall be for his lifetime only, and independent of his wife at all times during his life, and at his death go to his children, share and

Clause No. 3 of the codicil provides that the legacy to Green C. Love shall be for his lifetime only, and separate and inde-pendent of his wife, and in case of his death without issue living at the time of his death, the legacy will go to the remaining devisees in proportion as they hold of the shares or parts under the

CAREER CUT SHORT.

Collector for Grocery Store Arrested for Embesslement. All that money could make him was Louis Hannold, aged 20 years, for one night, but his career as a man of money was short. Yesterday he was arrested in Kalama on a charge of embezziement, and during the day was brought to Portland and locked in the city jall.

Hannold was in the employ of Thumann & Glenger, proprietors of the University Park grocery store. He had been with them but Il days, but was so attentive to business, and such an all-round good man that the firm reposed great confidence in him. A few days ago he was sent out with a number of bills to collect, and proved to be a good collector. He col-lected bills that other men had failed to get a cent from, and they thought he was a man of great value. Their confidence in him did not last long, however, for on Tuesday night he did not show up after his day of collecting was over. The mem-bers of the firm made inquiry, not doubting their trusted agent, but fearing that he might have met with some accident. Great was their surprise to learn that he had planned to leave the country, and was spending their money right and left getting ready for a trip. He had been heard of in St. Johns that night, and the two proprietors of the store rushed to St. Juhns just in time to learn that he had left, saying that he was going to Linnton.

The grocerymen came to Portland and reported the matter at the police station, and Captain Moore decided to have him landed before he could get out of the was then II o'clock, and the offices were closed. He finally managed to raise them, however. examination. A few days before the ap-pointments were to be made the Chief visited my home, professedly to advise

"Yes," they said, "the boy has been here during the evening. He was waiting for the train, and was spending his money freely. The train has just gone, and he went with it."

Kalama was the next place that the Captain thought of, and he hurriedly called up Kalama. Fortune favored him again, and he got an answer just as the operator was leaving. A Deputy Sheriff was called and given a description of the boy. He met the train, but did not find the prisoner. Hannold had suspected that there might be a search party out after him, and decided that Goble was a better place to stop, anyway. At Goble, how-ever, he was unable to get accommodations, and went on to Kalama, arriving there in the morning. He was promptly placed under arrest and word wired to Portland. Detective Hartman was sent

"I would have been safe in another day," he said to the officer as they came back to Portland. "Today I would have taken the train for Astoria, and from there I would have gone on a ship to San Fran-

When searched he had $40 on his pe son. The members of the firm say that they have already found where $75 was collected and not turned in, and they do not know how much more he may have embezzled. The entire amount was spent in one night of revelry.

SMALL BOY SHOT.

Sammie Lind Wounded by Careless

"I'm shot," cried little Sammie Lind, aged 14, and a resident of Albina, as he rushed into the police station yesterday. He had been shot through the arm, and, contrary to the ways of most grown peo-ple, he was more concerned in finding the careless boy who had discharged the shot than he was in dressing his wound. Captain Gritsmacher at once examined the wound and found that it was not serious. The bullet had entered the flesh of his forearm below the elbow, and had made only a flesh wound. Dr. Zan was summoned to dress the injury, and position of the large of summoned to dress the injury, and po-licemen were sent out to find the boy who had been so careless as to discharge story, "when I heard a shot, and suddenly became conscious of a pain in my arm, I looked down and it was bleeding. I got off the wheel and rolled up my sleeve to find that I had been hit by the builet. It was a 22-callber and had lodged under the skin, after piercing my arm. I dug it out," and he produced the leaden missile as evidence of his statement.

"I have not the least suspicion as to who fired the shot," said he. "I thought at once that it was fortunate some one G., Charles W. and Frank P. Love, one-dish had not been killed by such carelessness, each. The police were yesterday unable to find who had discharged the shot, but were of the opinion that it had been acci-dental. The boy said that he knew of no one that would want to shoot at him.

> DROWNED IN COLUMBIA. Dairyman Who Could Not Swin Taken With Cramps.

While bathing in the Columbia yesterday Adolph Shoense, who has been renting the dairy farm of F. S. Scott, near Woodlawn, was taken with a cramp and drowned. The only man that saw him was a Swede, who could not speak the English language, and little could be learned of the accident. Until late last night the body had not been recovered, but a vigorous search was being made.

Shoense was a man about 10 years of age, and was well known in this community. He had rented the farm from Scott for some time, and was doing well in the milk business. Yesterday afternoon he and one of his countrymen decided that it was too warm to work, and went to the river for a bath. Neither could swim, and while he was in water nearly to his neck Shoense was taken with a cramp and could not stand on his feet. He drowned before the eyes of his companion, who was powerless to save him. Coroner Finley was called to the scene, but was unable to find the body. Hugh Grady, the grappler, was called about midnight and a sys tematic search was started.

ACCUSES THE CHIEF

Captain Parker Says Hunt Deceived Him.

HIS PROMISES FULL OF GUILE

"I'm Your Friend," Said Chief to Parker-"He's Incompetent," Was His Boost to Police Com-

Chief of Police Hunt is charged with duplicity by E. E. Parker, who re-cently passed the civil service examina-tions for Captain, but was not ap-

"The Chief professed that he was my friend, and would help me to get the appointment," said Mr. Parker, "but only used the professed friendship as a means to find out what I was doing and thwart my plans. He is dishonest and has played me a trick that no man of character would resort to. I think that people who come in contact with him should know his character and be able to look out for themselves." Captain Parker then related the details of his campaign for the appointment as "I have a number of friends who in terviewed members of the Executive Board in my behalf. In no case did they country. He experienced some difficulty find any opposition and I felt sure that in getting Linnton over the 'phone, for it I would be retained if I could pass the me as to the course I should take, but as I have since learned, for the purpose of ingratiating himself into the confidence of my wife, to learn if possible my pians and be able to meet them. "He talked to my wife for some time, telling her that he had made me a police officer and had made me a Captain. He told her that he was my friend and that he would stand by me until the last. My wife told him that she did not know what I had done, and he asked her to call me from my sleep so that he could have a talk with me. He said he did not want to leave anything undone, and wished to find out what steps I had taken.

"When I came into the room he repeated the story of friendship, and asked me what I had done to assure my appointment. He said that he would give me his support and advised me to visit the members of the Board personally. I told him that I already had their promises and did not have any reason to doubt them. The last words that he said when he left my house were, 'You can count on my friendship. We have been friends for years and I will do all that I can to help you.

"I have since learned that it was through the Chief that I was defeated. He told the members of the Board that I was not competent to fill the position and made a strong talk against me." "Are you sure that this is the case?"

the Captain was asked.
"I have found out in a way that cannot be mistaken," remarked Captain Parker. "I was very much surprised to know that I had not been appointed, after the assurance of the members of the Board, and as I felt, the strong support of the Chief. I knew that it was over, but wanted to know how it happened that I was dropped. With a friend I interviewed Mr. Sichel and asked him why he had opposed me. He assured me that he had not opposed me and asked me how I stood with the Chief. I told him of the Chief's assurance of friendship. He then said that it was through the Chief and him alone that did not command the respect of your men. He said that you had not the good judgment in cases of emergency that a captain of the police should have. The members of the Board were feverable to members of the Board were favorable to you as far, as I know, but we thought that the Chief ought to know those of his men who are competent and those who are not."

"I do not hesitate to tell of this to the public," said Captain Parker, as he finished his narrative. "Such dishonesty and duplicity are not in the character of a 'man' and I think that people should know what sort of a man is at the head of the police department."

Policeman Fones Reinstated. Policeman L. C. Fones, who was suspended from duty about ten days ago for being implicated in the robbery of the P. Johnson Milling Company, and for giving his attention to the plant to the neglect of his other duties, was yes-terday reinstated, but Chief of Police Hunt was instructed to reprimand him for his actions.

"In looking into the case," read the report of the board, "we are of the opin-ion that the officer had no criminal intent in taking the dishes, and that he did not neglect his duty knowingly. Gross ignor-ance of the duties and liberties of a police officer were displayed by him, and we recommend that he be reprimanded and lose his pay for the time that he was
