CAVE OPENING TO BE A BIG DAY AT GRANTS PASS

CELEBRATION WILL BE ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND THIS SEASON

Barbacue Is Big Feature, Radio Will Be Installed to Give Concert Sunday Evening, Camp Fire Committee Appointed.

GRANTS PASS, June 21.—The celebration of the opening of the automobile highway to the Oregon Marble Caves, which is being staged by the chamber of commerce, is to be the big thing in the way of celebrations for the summer. The date, having been set ahead of the original plan, is making a lot of hot footwork in preparation. June 26, the date set, is less than a week away, and much work still remains to be done.

The general committee made a special trip to the Caves a few days ago to personally inspect each detail such as the connecting roads, the possibilities for handling the large number of people expected, and for entertaining them, in order that the affair will go off without a hitch.

The barbacue committee has made extensive arrangements to have this feature one of the real attractions. The men employed to barbacue the beef will be supplied by a rancher of the Illinois valley and will fully understand the finer points of their work. The barbacued meat, coffee and other trimmings will be furnished free of charge to everyone present.

The "Cave Men" say that they will put on some thrilling stunts and that arrangements are being made for them now by James Chinnock, the chairman of their committee. The other entertainment committees are planning some unique stunts that will be of interest to all.

While the main celebration is to be held Monday, June 26, many have made their plans to go out on Sunday. A camp fire committee, headed by E. H. MacDaniels, has been appointed, and this will have charge of the entertainment of Sunday evening. Another committee, headed by Bruce Olding, will provide a radio concert. This committee, with the aid of a few hundred feet of copper wire, will sift from the air the music which is there, and it is hoped a sermon may be heard from one of the prominent ministers of the coast. An effort will be made to have a short talk about the caves and the celebration from Portland or Seattle.

Living so close to this great natural wonder, the people of the valley fail to realize how important a scenic attraction there is at their doors, says the executive committee in urging that everyone take an active part in the celebration.

The local committee has been busy getting machines lined up and quite a few inquiries have been made as to facilities for reaching the Caves from Grants Pass by those who do not have machines of their own. Efforts are being made to provide all who care to go with full information in regard to conveniences that will be furnished at the Pass. Secretary Fuller of the chamber of commerce expects to go ahead on Sunday and make preparations to receive the Ashland delegation Monday.

The Grants Pass committee says that "anyone who does not attend the celebration is going to be mighty lonesome staying at home," so close shop and join the caravan. If you can't close up all day, take the afternoon off and join in the big celebration.

The celebration of the opening of the road to the Marble Caves of Oregon to be put on by the Grants Pass chamber of commerce, June 26, and held at the Caves, is a most important affair to the whole state of Oregon.

For years past the Grants Pass chamber of commerce, assisted by the Portland chamber of commerce and the state chamber of commerce and by people all over the state, has been strenuously working to secure an appropriation from the federal government for the building of this road. Something more than a year ago the appropriation was made by the government and the state highway commission, and the road is just now completed. Consequently, the celebration being put on is one in which the whole state is taking an active interest.

This road is a wonderful piece of engineering, extending eight miles up the mountainside, mostly through rock, to the mouth of the Caves. It is an easy and pleasant road to travel, having a maximum grade of only 7 per cent

PUPILS OF MADAME TRACY YOUNG IN CONCERT RECITAL

The advanced pupils of Madame Tracy Young gave a concert program last evening at the Armory, under her supervision, which has never been equaled in Ashland, or perhaps in the state, taking into consideration the fact that the average age of the pupils is less than 20 years.

While this was the first public appearance for a number of those taking part, the music could not have been excelled by professionals, and demonstrated the wonderful ability, technic and skill of the teacher. It would have been an herculean task for a critic to select the best number of the concert, so good were all the selections given.

The program began at 8 p. m., and continued until a few minutes after 11, being one of the longest concert programs ever held here, and thoroughly appreciated from beginning to end by the audience.

Madame Young has spent much time and energy preparing for the concert, both in coaching the pupils and in other details, and the people of Ashland are very much indebted to her for the fine program which they had the privilege of hearing, as the result of her efforts.

There was no admisison charge to the concert, but a collection was taken up between the first and second parts of the program, the total sum being donated by Madame Young to the Civic Clubhouse fund.

Madame Young, herself, is a celebrated concert artist, having studied under the best instructors in the world and gaining sufficient knowledge to be considered second only to the masters under whom she worked. She is well known in musical circles of Europe and has played before the crowned heads and the nobility of various countries. She has also made several concert tours in this country, stopping in Ashland while on tour several years ago and making this her home since that time.

Ashland people are indeed fortunate to have such a celebrated artist living in their midst, one who can give instruction on the piano, equal to if not surpassing any instructor in this country, and excelled by very few in Europe.

LONG DISTANCE RADIO BEING PERFECTED

BERLIN, June 21.—A 90 per cent efficient radio connection between Berlin and New York has just been put in operation. The new instantaneous method enables the great wireless stations to work 24 hours a day, each word requiring only a fraction of a moment to travel 3000 miles through the air. So powerful is the apparatus used that static conditions will seldom interfere with sending and receiving. Even if at this end or the other three or four words would arrive in a mutilated condition, the receiving station can at once ask the sending station for a correction, and get it within five minutes.

Until now the receiving and sending operations had to be kept apart, so that the stations worked 12 hours in receiving and 12 in sending. Now receivng and sending take place at the same time without interference. German radio experts expect soon to have 10 or 12 super-wireless stations working with all quarters of the globe at the same time, with no limit to the number of words which may be filed for transmission.

Dorothy Dalton is the featured player in this excellent George Melford production, while the leading man is Rudolph Valentino, star of "The Sheik."

The leading characters of this powerful picture are strikingly portrayed by these clever artists. Moran is a girl of the sea, and in physical strength, courage and the ability to fight is decidedly marked. But when she is conquered in a desperate fight by Ramon, he becomes her idol. Other characters are splendidly interpreted.

Phipps and Spencer were two of 20 students who achieved mention for high scholastic honors. Twenty students are picked each year from the senior class to receive these scholastic honors, and the fact that these three Ashland men all received honors in the various classifications is a signal honor for the Ashland contingent at the state university.

Harold Simpson, of this cty, was elected president of the senior class for next year. This honor was held during the past year by Leith Abbott, also of Ashland, who during his four years at the university has also served at editor of the Oregon Emerald, the university daily paper, and captain of the varsity track team. Abbott did not graduate this year, but will finish next year. He has taken a position as telegraph editor on the Eugene Guard during the summer.

Both were elected to Sigma Delta Chi, natonal honorary journalism fraternity, and were the only men to achieve this honor this spring. Anderson will be news editor of the Emerald next year, and Fraser a member of the sports staff. Anderson was president of the university orchestra during the past year.

ASKS AID OF TROOPS TO DISPEL MARAUDING GOATS

HONOLULU, T. H., June 21.—"They've got my goat, these —— —— goats," says Senator Robert Hind of the territorial house, writing to Governor W. R. Farrington to tell him that his (Hind's) ranch on the island of Hawaii is being overrun by between 8000 and 10,000 wild goats. Hind wants 100 enlisted men, crack shots from the United States army in Honolulu, to go up and assist in a "goat drive."

The territorial senator believes that it will be a good outing for the doughboys and will provide them with a lot of fun. He offers to pay their fare from Honolulu and back, board them and buy the ammunition. Further, he will see that the goats are skinned and the skins sold, and also much of the meat, the money therefrom going to the doughboys taking part in the drive.

Hind held a drive some time ago, with a handful of huntsmen, but the goats broke through the line and only about 2500 were killed. The governor has put the matter up to the commanding officer of the Hawaiian department.
