WHEREAS, the City of Ashland has caused extensive sidewalk, curb and gutter improvements to be made in what is designated as Sidewalk, Curb and Gutter District No. 3, and,

WHEREAS, there is a considerable amount of excavation and grading work which should be done immediately to place the streets so improved in proper condition, and,

THREE A MEMBERS SHOW INTEREST IN AUTOMOBILE LAWS

...Definite assurance of the unusually active motor touring season of 1926 is found in the keen interest displayed by local motorists in legislative activities in other States bearing upon motor questions, according to George O. Bradenburg, Secretary of the Oregon State Motor Association.

The club this summer has supplied more information on outside activities than at any time in its history, he declares, pointing out that local motorists are accordingly interested to know what experiences they will encounter during the touring season in the way of additional gas taxes, new regulations or any modifications of these.

"Other motor clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association report a similar condition in their respective territories," Mr. Brandenburg says. "Never before have motorists been happening outside of their own states.

"Their interest is obviously because of their desire to know what they will encounter on their summer and fall trips, and this interest is its high pitch is another of many indications that motordom is passing through an unusually active touring season.

"Through the close affiliation of A. A. A. clubs it has been possible to keep all club members posted on all legislative activities throughout the country. In addition, this dissemination of information has resulted in greater support for car owners of any one state in their efforts to pass or defeat any particular bill.

"More and more the motor tourist is finding it of value to pave his way by lending a hand to those motorists who are located in the states he will pass through. An unreasonable gas tax in some other state used to be the other fellow's worry, but not so in modern touring. Everybody's working together for national as well as for local improvements."
