Ben Simpson, a pioneer of 1842, father of Sam L. Simpson, deceased, famed poet, and at one time Joint Senator from Polk, Marion, Clackamas and Benton counties, is celebrating his 92d birthday at the home of daughter, Mrs. William Killingsworth, in Portland today.

Store Changes Hand.

L. D. Daniel this afternoon purchased the crockery store of E. B. Rutherford in the Collins building on Main Street. It is reported that Mr. Daniel will at once move his stock of musical goods and notions to the new location. The store has been successfully managed by Mrs. D. M. Metzger for the last several months.

Votes Sewer Bonds.

Following closely on the heels of the High School election in which $20,000 was voted for a new school building, the sewer bonding proposition was carried in Independence yesterday by the decisive vote of 167 to 20. Construction of a complete sewer system will be commenced at once. The council is now planning to build five or six blocks of smooth pavement in the business district. That's the way to do business.

Educational Rally at Pedee.

The school officers,' parents' and teachers' meeting held in the Pedee schoolhouse Saturday was highly successful in every way. The house was crowded to its capacity and all present took great interest in the meeting. An excellent program, prepared by the various schools of the district, was appreciated by every visitor. Every school, save one, in the district was represented. This being the first school rally ever held in that part of the county, much good is expected to result.

RAILROAD TO QUARRY

SURVEYORS START PRELIMINARY SURVEY FROM DALLAS TODAY.

Portland Cement Company Is Behind New Project to Transport Polk County Rock to Oswego.

A crew of surveyors in the employ of the Portland cement company, which is building a cement factory at Oswego, came to Dallas yesterday noon and early this morning began a preliminary survey for a railroad from Dallas to the Oakdale rock quarries.

From all the information at hand, it is the purpose of the company to survey two lines—one from the quarries direct to Dallas, and the other from the quarries to Bridgeport to connect with the main line of the Salem, Dallas & Falls City railroad. After the surveys have been completed, the company will then decide which route is the more feasible.

The company expects to have the road ready for operation by November 1, at which time a sufficient force of men will be employed at the quarry to get out 500 tons of rock daily. This industry will give Polk County a payroll amounting to several thousand dollars a year.

Experts who have examined the Oakdale rock do not hesitate to pronounce it the best cement rock in the United States. These reports caused the promoters of the Oswego plant to purchase several hundred acres of hill land in that vicinity, where the supply is practically inexhausible.

It is only to be regretted that the promoters of the proposed cement factory could not see their way clear to establish their factory in Polk County, but it is said that the freight rates to Portland made such a plan impracticable. The charge for hauling the rock is but a mere fraction of the rate demanded for transporting cement, and for this reason the company decided to build the plant at Portland and haul the rock from Dallas. Even as it is, the new industry will be of great importance, and will add to the wealth and commercial growth of Polk County for all time to come.

PASSES TO HIS REST

Jasper E. Coad Dies at Home of His Mother in Dallas.

After a long illness of pulmonary tuberculosis, Jasper E. Coad passed to his final rest at the home of his mother, Mrs. Anna Coad, in this city last Friday night, March 25, 1910, aged 22 years, 6 months and 21 days.

He was a native son of Polk County and was born in Dallas, September 3, 1877. He spent his boyhood in this city and then went to Portland, where he continued to reside until a few weeks ago. For many years he had been in delicate health, but is was only a few weeks ago that he gave up his work and returned to his mother's home in Dallas.

He is survived by his mother and one brother, George Coad; two half brothers, F. J. Coad and C. G. Coad, of this city, and one half sister, Mrs. J. B. Stump, of Monmouth.

The funeral service was held at the home Sunday afternoon and was conducted by the Rev. M. E. Spahr, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Many friends of the sorrowing family were present, and the wealth of beautiful floral offerings bore testimony of the esteem in which the young man had been held by his friends and acquaintances. Burial took place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.

Cancer Causes Death.

Mrs. Lottie Ann Cox died at the family home at noon yesterday from cancer of the stomach. Burial took place in the old Dallas cemetery today. Mrs. Cox had been an invalid for several years. She left a husband and four children.

REED MEETINGS END

All Expenses Met and Evangelist Given Free-Will Offering.

The Reed evangelistic campaign in Dallas came to a close Sunday night. On that day, three services were held in the tabernacle, all of them union services of all the churches. The Sunday schools met as usual at 10 o'clock, and in most of the churches appropriate Easter exercises were given by the members of the schools.

At 11 o'clock, a large congregation in the tabernacle listened to a most impressive and touching sermon by Mr. Reed on "Dealing Kindly With Jesus." At 3 o'clock, Mr. Reed again spoke on "The Life Giving Word." In the evening, for the closing service of the series, the tabernacle was filled. The song service was ably conducted by Professor Grant, whose solo work has won all hearts. Mr. Reed's closing message was "The Unpardonable Sin." The speaker clearly and forcefully disclosed the effect of a persistent disregard of spiritual realities, and made an impressive appeal for a more earnest response on the part of every resident of Dallas to the claims of religion.

The net result of great value from these meetings to our city cannot be fairly questioned. Mr. Reed has fearlessly exposed all forms of sin and wrong-doing, and his plea for a cleaner, purer life in thought, word and action must mean much good. About 150 professed conversions were divided in preference among the churches of the city. All expenses of the meetings are met, and a substantial free-will offering was given Mr. Reed as an expression of appreciation of his services. Praise meetings were held in all of the churches of Dallas last night.

Mr. Reed and his fellow workers left yesterday afternoon for Chico, California, where an evangelistic series will begin tomorrow night.

CARRY LARGE STOCKS

Dallas Implement Dealers Buy Goods in Carload Lots.

While Dallas has made rapid strides in all lines of business progress and development in the last few years, perhaps no branch of trade shows a more marked awakening than the machinery and implement business. A few years ago there was not an implement store in the town worthy of the name. Now, there are three well equipped stores, selling goods all over the county and carrying stocks that would be creditable to any town in the state. Where a few years ago the merchant kept a wholesaler's catalogue and ordered a wagon, buggy or implement shipped to any chance customer that happened along, the live dealers of today think nothing of placing orders for stock in carload lots.

The result of this enterprise is shown in the fact that Dallas is today an important center of the machinery and implement trade in the Willamette Valley. Not only are thousands of dollars worth of implements sold at the warehouses and salesrooms each month, but large quantities of machinery and farmers' supplies are shipped out to all parts of the county.

The land in the immediate neighborhood of Dallas being best adapted to fruit raising, the principal sales in this immediate vicinity are of plows, harrows, cultivators and orchard tools. Out in the valley country proper, the demand is greatest for mowers, binders, threshing outfits and other grain harvesting machinery. The two lines of industry combine to make Dallas one of the live implement and farm machinery centers of the Northwest, and it is pleasing to note that the merchants appreciate these conditions and are sparing no effort to supply the demand.

We have some of the finest and cheapest city property in Dallas. See Hughes & Bird Land Company.

WAS PIONEER OF 1847

Frank M. Smith Dies in Salem, Aged 78 Years.

Frank M. Smith, an Oregon pioneer of 1847 and a nephew of the late Perry Smith, died in Salem yesterday morning, aged 78 years.

He was born in Platte County, Missouri, in 1832, and crossed the plains in 1847 with the Browns of Dallas, and other prominent pioneer families. His father died on Platte River, and the lad came through with his mother and an elder brother. The family spent the winter on the North Yamhill, and later located a claim in the Waldo Hills.

Mr. Smith was for twenty years engaged in the livery business in Salem with the Durbin brothers, his mother being a sister of the Durbins. Mrs. H. P. Shriver, of this city, was a niece of Mr. Smith.

The funeral will be held from the home of Frank W. Durbin in Salem tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Burial will be beside his mother and brother at Rocky Point cemetery in the Waldo Hills.

Good Words for Polk County.

A. H. Scholes, who will be remembered by many Dallas people as a visitor in this city for several months last summer, writing from Granby, Missouri, to renew his subscription, says: "I believe after reading your paper for six months as a sample, I would better take a full dose, so you will find inclosed a check for $1.50 to pay for one year. The Observer is very much like a home paper. It keeps me informed of the coming and going of many of my friends in Dallas, and tells of the business progress of Polk County as well. Am glad to note the improvement going on in Dallas, for I expect to make that town my home some day. Only for my mining and hardware business, I would be right there now. Please give my regards to all inquiring friends."

Former Dallas Girl Married.

Mrs. Jennie Conner, of Saratoga, California, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Nellie Conner to Mr. Marco Polo Smith. The wedding took place at Mrs. Conner's home in Saratoga on Wednesday, March 22, 1910.
