CITY'S NEED OF ARMORY

CAPTAIN WALTER L. TOOZE, JR., URGES PROMPT ACTION.

Other Oregon Towns Expect to Profit by the State's Appropriation.

The recent dedication at Albany of the fine new $40,000 state armory has served to arouse among the local militiamen a feeling that Dallas, too, should be provided with a similar building for the use of Company H, and for the accommodation of conventions and other gatherings that might be induced to come here.

"I was up to Albany last week," said Captain Walter L. Tooze, Jr., yesterday, "and I want to say that they have one of the finest buildings there in the state. It was dedicated while I was there. It is a large brick armory, and is well constructed. It has a large drill hall, which can be used as a convention or assembly room, and will seat about 2000 people. Besides this, there are a number of other well-arranged rooms. This building cost $28,000, of which amount the state of Oregon paid $14,000, the city of Albany $7000, and Linn County $7000. This money was advanced by the state under the law appropriating $40,000 for the construction of armories, the state giving equally as much as the county would give, or the county and city combined. Under this law, Albany got one armory; Salem has raised sufficient money to get a $40,000 armory, and Woodburn has raised enough to get a $20,000 armory, the city and the county giving half in each case, and the state the other half.

"At the next session of the Legislature, a bill will be presented asking an appropriation of $80,000 for the construction of armories upon the same plan. Many cities in the state where militia companies are located are working hard to take advantage of this law; for instance, Eugene, Ashland and Pendleton. Now, it seems to me that the city of Dallas, and Polk County, as wealthy public corporations as they are, should not overlook this opportunity of securing one of these fine buildings. If the county will put up $7500, and the city $7500, the state will put up $15,000, and we will have a $30,000 armory here—better than the Albany armory, which is one of the finest buildings of its kind in the country, and second in the state only to the Portland armory. We could raise this money by taxation. It would cost each person in the county but $1 each—a most insignificant sum, considering the end that will be accomplished. We need such a building here in Dallas. It will give Polk County a place for holding conventions, and we will be able to get large gatherings here, and hold large assemblages—something we cannot do now, because we have no place. Not only this, but such a building, being public, can be used for all public gatherings. And more than anything else, a magnificent structure like this in our county would speak well for the prosperity and 'go-forwardness' of our county, and the people of our county. Persons coming into this county from other states would be impressed by such a building with the prosperous conditions of this county. We could point to such a building with just pride.

"I tell you, it would be a fine thing for this county, and for Dallas. Of course, as Captain of Company H, stationed in this city, I am particularly interested in this movement, but I want you to understand that my interest is not entirely a selfish one, unless you take it that my interest in the up-building of Polk County and Dallas is a selfish one. I would be willing to donate $25 for such a building myself, and even more if I had to. We could get as good an armory as they have in Albany for about $25,000, with cost of lot included. Albany had to pay $6000 for the lot upon which to construct the armory.

"If Dallas and Polk County would take advantage of this law regarding armories, there is no time for delay, for just as sure as the law is passed it will be but a short time until enough other cities in the state will have taken the matter in hand and raised the necessary money, and the appropriation will be used up. There may be only $40,000 more appropriated. It seems to me that we should wake up over here, and get busy and land one of these fine buildings. Dallas and Polk County must get by the 'conservative' age, if they ever expect to progress and build up in numbers and in wealth. The only way to make money, is to spend money. Let me call your atttention to this proposition: In Portland, when they want to hold a large meeting, where do they always go? To the Armory, of course. Let us get busy, and see what we can do along this line."

FARMERS WILL CO-OPERATE

Better Transportation Facilities Will Be One Object Sought.

EUGENE, Or., Jan. 6.—In order to secure co-operation in the sale of farm products and the purchase of farm supplies, a number of farmers and dairymen along the lower Siuslaw have formed an organization known as the Farmers' Protective Association of the Lower Siuslaw.

The association will work toward securing better transporttation facilities, especially for butter, the present haul over the mountains to Junction City being long and expensive. Efforts will be made to secure a gasoline schooner to handle the butter shipments by the middle of January.

A warehouse is being planned at Acme for the storage of farm produce awaiting shipment, and for supplies for the members of the organization. A manager will be selected who will also act as custodian of the warehouse.—Oregonian.

Profitable Poultry.

EUGENE, Or., Jan. 7.—A net profit of $10 a month from 40 hens during the year 1910 is reported by Mrs. A. H. Smock, of this city. The number of eggs laid during the year was 7978, nearly 665 dozen, from which the income was $136.56. During the year 108 chickens were raised, and chickens were sold to the amount of $27.50. The expenditures were $42.45, divided as follows: For shell, $2.95; chop, $5; wheat, $34.50, making the net profit for the year, $121.66. The hens are Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks.—Oregonian.

The Hood River Apple Growers' Union paid $201,000 to orchardists during the three months commencing with September.

MONMOUTH PIONEER PASSES

William H. Savage Dies at Home of His Daughter.

William H. Savage died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Nelson, in Monmouth, January 3, 1911, after an illness of considerable duration, aged 79 years and 9 months.

Deceased was a native of Pennsylvania, from which state he came to Oregon in 1855. He was employed at the state capital for 18 years of his life and was in his more active days prominent in political life.

He leaves six children to mourn his decease, his wife having died some five years ago. The names of his surviving children are R. J. Savage and Mrs. Mary E. Nelson of Monmouth, H. Savage of Ashland, Oregon, Mrs. T. W. Caplinger of Waitsburg, Washington, and Mrs. John D. Peck, of Linn, Washington.

The remains were taken to Salem for interment yesterday.—Monmouth Herald.

Tired of False Economy.

(Tillamook Headlight.)

It is time to quit fooling with inferior gravel, dirt and plank crosswalks, with the expectation of making clean business streets. We are altogether behind the times in using that kind of material. Nothing short of paved business streets and cement sidewalks all over the city will do. It is false economy to keep on fooling with plank sidewalks and muddy business streets.
