EUREKA IS GREAT

New Copper Camp of Wal-Iowa Will Beat Butte.

DEVELOPING ON GRAND SCALE

Eastern Company Erecting Mills and Smelter, Builds Road Over Rugged Mountains and Meamer to Ply Hiver-Copper Centiful,

As yet a mere hamlet, but perhaps des o become the great copper camp of orld—such is Eureka, in Wallowa , where the Imnaha flows into Filver. Vast evidences of copper wealth in a region so rugged and hard of access that prospector and capitalist have feared to search its stupendous beights and plunging slopes—of such is the tale from the lips of J. N. Williamson. Oregon's Representative to Congress. The earth has opened up a marvel there and a new town is on the road to fame, perhaps another rival of Butte.

Mr. Williamson has just returned from Wallowa County. Yesterday he stayed over in Portland on his way to Astoria. "It's a tremendous enterprise at Eureka," eaid he. "The company, backed by Chicago capital, has secured a mineral property worth 11,00,000. It is spending half a million dollars in machinery and develop ealth in a region so rugged and har-

It is building a stamp mill and smelter to cost $100,000, and has constructed a steamboar at a cost of $10,000, and eight miles of road at a cost of $10,000, down a mountain which drops $000 feet before reaching Snake River. The company is putting in two sawmills, and has an electric plant with which it drills eight or ten feet daily, working night and day." or ten feet daily, working night and day," enable me to gather information about the region. I must confess that I was informed in ways I had no idea of. And most other citizens of the state, I think, will find as many things to marvel at as I did. Wallowa County is developing tremendously fast. It's remarkable, wonderful, the pace at which the county is settling. Oregon as a whole realizes only faintly what Wallowa is doing.

"Thousands and thousands of acres of land are being made tillable by private irrigation projects near Batesprise and irrigation projects near Enterprise and Joseph. Many miles of canal are being dug. One man, Jennings, I believe, is his name, is preparing to irrigate his ranch of 1000 acres. This irrigation work has been under way for about two years, I understand and its feather will soon acres. under way for about two years, I under-stand, and its fruits will seen appear. I must say that Wallowa Valley can no-where be surpassed for its beauty and fertility. Even beautiful Grand Ronde cannot outdo Wallowa's charms."

Mr. Williamson then described the fer-tility of Wallowa lands for the various products of agriculture. He did not forget to mention the livestock industry, which is attaining large proportions, nor the peerless hogs for which that industry is purticularly noted. The wheat-fed hogs of Wallowa have no superior anywhere on earth, not even in the corn-fed regions

Part of Mr. Williamson's mission was look after the establishment of mail rvice between Euroka and Joseph. This rvice will soon be instituted. Up to a few weeks ago all the supplies to look after the establish

This steam out is worked hard, and is unable to anaport all the freight that is in wait She has conveyed large quantities of machinery and lumber up to Eureka Trade between the two places is growing rapidly," said Mr. Williamson. Mr. Shelby is one of many railroad men who have branched out from railroading to make a success of mining. J. D. Farrell, president of the Pacific Coast Company, resigned the office of general superintendent of the Great Northern to operate mines in the Slocan district of British Columbia, by which he made a comfortable fortune. D. C. Corbin, the builder of the Spokans Falls & Northern, and E. J. Röberta, formerly chief engineer of that road, also invested largely in the Trail Croek and Boundary Croek districts of British Columbia and came out ahead.

A H. Metcalf, of the East Side, owns a ranch of & acres on Derry Creek, and while there Sunday a valuable horse committed suicide by knocking his brains out against the ground, rather than work. Mr. Metcalf, who has handled horses all his life, says it was the most remarkable case he ever saw or heard of.

"The horse," he said, "had been worked before and nover given trouble. I hitched the animal up to have a little drive, but when I tried to start the horse he refused to budge. I went to his head and caught hold of the bridle intending to lead the animal a little way. I started to pull on the bridle gently, when the horse

It was done so quickly that I could hardly tell how it happened. The horse fell over in the harness. I then started to remove the harness, but before I had finished the animal was stone dead. It all occurred in a few minutes. On examination I found that the skuil of the horse had been crushed. I looked for a rock or something hard on which the horse could have struck his head, but found nothing. The animal had simply struck his head. The animal had simply struck his head against the ground with such force as to crush his skull."

ILLUSTRATION NO. 12. PORTLAND TRUST COMPANY OF OREGON.

Incorporated April 22, 1887.

Last year there was a very prudent and thrifty reverend gentleman living in Southern Oregon. He produced from as two of our certificates of deposit, payable on 30 days' call, with interest at 4 per cent per annum. A short time ago one of these certificates came back to us from New York City. The reverend gentleman had made an investment, and he found that his certificate was as good as cash to make payment for the same.

It is always good to have your money drawing interest until you find a permanent lavestment. Call on us and let us give you further examples of how these certificates work.
