

FAT JOB FOR ONLY

Mormon Bishop Gets Political Reward.

CAUSES A BIG STIR IN IDAHO

Appointment to Superintendent of Boise Assay Office Upon Senator Heyburn's Recommendation May Arouse Agitation.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 31.—(Special).—The appointment of a Mormon bishop, H. S. Wooly, to a fat Federal office here is giving the Democrats of Idaho much joy. Indeed, some of the more enthusiastic openly express their intention of making the next state campaign on the anti-Mormon issue, and the issue may be well taken. Political and church circles here were much disturbed over the request which recently came from Washington, D. C., to J. W. Cunningham, superintendent of the assay office here, stating that his resignation would be acceptable. The disturbance was increased by the announcement that the United States senator, William B. Stanford, had commended the appointment of H. S. Wooly, a prominent Mormon bishop, to the place.

It is felt in church circles that the Mormons are displaying much activity, and all the non-Mormon element is somewhat uneasy over what the preachers allege to be the undue political influence of the latter in the southern districts.

Cunningham was appointed by President McKinley in 1896 and his administration of the office has not been questioned. He is a consistent Republican, and his contributions to the success of the war were made to make his position secure. His friends point out that his removal is in direct opposition to Roosevelt's public announcements that he would not remove efficient public servants. Cunningham himself has published a letter written to him by Senator Heyburn in which the senator indicated that he had a high opinion of Cunningham and would neither urge nor acquiesce in his removal.

It is now openly charged that the senator's change of front is due to a trust which he made for Mormon votes, and the history of Idaho's last Senatorial election is referred to in confirmation of the charge.

In this election there were four candidates for the top—ex-United States Senator Shoup; D. W. Standford, a National committeeman; W. E. Borah and W. B. Heyburn. It early developed that Shoup and Borah were the favorites, and Heyburn, Standford, who had the active support of State Chairman Gooding, threw his forces to Heyburn and elected him.

Wooly's father, a prominent Republican, was one of the most active Mormon politicians in the state, and Wooly himself, who was active in holding in line those of Standford's supporters who manifested a desire to go over into the Borah camp.

After the election Wooly announced that he had saved the day for Heyburn and would be rewarded with a good appointment. Another fact which is said to show that Heyburn received the Mormon support is that in an interview published in Salt Lake City, Judge Alford Budge, a son of the Mormon president, said that Senator Budge would have a strong supporter in Heyburn.

Senator Heyburn himself, in a recent interview at Spokane, denied that Wooly is his candidate. He admitted that he had recommended him, but said that he did so at the request of National Committeeman Standford, State Chairman Gooding and Representative French, and that these men represent the Republican party.

Prominent Republicans throughout the state claim that the senator is merely retiring behind this statement as a subterfuge. They say that the Republican named represent only a minor faction of the party. However this may be, it is a fact that Standford and Gooding went into the late state convention and were prominently featured in the proceedings.

Later, in the Senatorial fight, they attempted to elect Standford, but were only able to defeat Borah by throwing their strength to Heyburn. In the state convention they had the support of the line by promises to Wooly. Falling there, it seems probable that they carried the promises into the Senatorial fight and negotiated with Heyburn to take care of the Mormon bishop, whose reward has now arrived.

CHURCHES MAY UNITE. Russian Orthodox and Anglican Demands Consider the Step.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 6.—The Novoe Vremya, in its issue of today, contains the following statement regarding the question of the union of the Orthodox and Anglican churches in the north.

"On the 6th of August the Rev. Dr. Dawling, Canon of the Anglican Church at Jerusalem, paid a visit to Exarch Alexy of Georgia Caucasus, and stated to him that he had been working for many years to secure a favorable solution of the question of the union of the two churches. He said that a translation was now being made into Russian of the answers of the Anglican Church to the seven confessional questions proposed by the Greek Orthodox Church to the Anglicans, at the conference of 1893, at Constantinople. This document is a question of character. A translation of the Anglican prayer-book is also being made into the Greek language.

"Dr. Dawling said that in 1893 a great number of Orthodox Greeks were in Melbourne, Australia, without a priest, and that Gherasil, Patriarch of Jerusalem, authorized an Anglican priest to perform sacraments for the Greeks, baptisms, etc.; but that when this became known to the other patriarchs of the East they blamed the authorization given by Patriarch Gherasil, and a Greek priest arriving later at Melbourne, rebaptized those who already had been baptized by the Anglican priest.

"It would be extremely distasteful to us," concluded Dr. Dawling, "if rebaptism should be considered a condition sine qua non of union."

The Exarch reassured Dr. Dawling, telling him that the union of the two churches was not a difficult matter to agree about with the Greeks, and win them over.

CRITICISES "SMART SET."

New York Minister Talks of the Sins and Follies of Fashion.

Appointing to Superintendent of Boise Assay Office Upon Senator Heyburn's Recommendation May Arouse Agitation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—In a sermon at the Church of the Epiphany on "The Sins and Follies of Fashion," the Rev. Dean Richmond has made an appeal for Christian earnestness and dignity as a corrective to the abuses of fashion in various circles of society, and criticized severely many of the reported doings of the so-called "smart set" in America.

"I am more and more convinced," he said, "that we of the clergy must preach clearly, pointedly, as forcefully as possible, to the sins and follies of the times, dwell less on the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt and more on the exodus of Christian virtues from American life."

"Each one of us is the keeper of Christian morals and public opinion to the extent of our social abilities and influence, and it is just as necessary for each of us to carry out reforms in ourselves and neighborhoods as it is for the nation to reform the entire nation, which is impossible.

"There are many ways to look at the selfish, wasteful, indecorous, baseless and often insane class of the so-called 'smart set,' who seem to make a crusade to get their peculiar social antics in the news."

OREGON PIONEER DIES IN PENNSYLVANIA.

A recent letter announces the death of David Crawford, one of Oregon's early pioneers, at his home near Altoona, Pa., on Friday, August 20, after a short illness. Mr. Crawford was prominently identified with the early history of the North Pacific Coast. He was born in Blair County, Pennsylvania, in 1820, crossed the plains with the immigration of 1844, and was with Colonel M. J. Simmes' first immigrant exploring expedition to the Puget Sound country, in 1848. He took up a land claim, on which he made considerable improvement, but returned in 1846 to the Willamette Valley, where he lived for many years as neighbor, comrade and friend of the Oregon pioneers.

WANT NO CHANGE OF RULE

Danish West Indies Board Finds the People Are Well Satisfied.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The National Zeitung says the Danish West Indian Commission is said to have reported as follows to Finance Minister Hagemann: "The population of the islands is satisfied to remain under Danish rule. The whites hope from the newly awakened interest of Denmark in the island an improvement of economic conditions and the fostering of civilizing influences. The negroes, on the greater part, are indifferent, and know but little about Denmark. The administration of the islands was found to be unpractical and expensive and the hygienic conditions entirely unsatisfactory."

TO BE REPRESENTED.

Secretary of Board of Water Study Will Attend Irrigation Congress.

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 21.—The headquarters of the National Irrigation Congress in this city today received a letter from the French Embassy at Washington stating that France would be represented at the coming irrigation congress in this city by M. Max Coupey de la Forest, secretary of the French Commission of Water Study.

Another letter received at headquarters was from Senator Depew, of New York. The senator writes that he is a firm believer in Governmental assistance for the reclamation of arid lands, and that he hopes to be of practical assistance to the irrigators at Washington.

The display of irrigation-grown fruits, for which many valuable prizes are offered, promises to be the finest exhibit of the kind ever shown.

Idaho fruitgrowers are to make a strenuous effort to capture the prize for fruit, and the announcement was made today that that state will send an exhibit showing 30 varieties of fruit grown under irrigation.

A Little Girl's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Majel, the three months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blue, of Richland, Oregon, was ill with cholera, and so ill in fact that the local physician had given her up. Mr. and Mrs. Westley Saunders were at the house at the time when the doctor told them that their little daughter would not recover. Mr. Saunders told his wife that he knew Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy would cure the child, and he at once secured a bottle of it. The child was given of the remedy, and she was cured in a few hours.

Between us," said the Exarch, "we can easily arrive at an understanding, and will be glad to understand you. Deal with the problem with which we must deal."

J. L. Caples, who, together with other petitioners, has filed a petition with the County Court to remove Robert Catlin as administrator of the estate of James Johns, deceased, because of alleged irregularities, yesterday filed an amended petition. The petition, by explaining the interest of the petitioners, it says that James Johns, by the terms of his will, devised his property in trust for the promotion of the educational benefit of the big establishments of chance to get school or school.

Catlin is charged with having entered into a contract with Hartman, Thompson & Powers to obtain permission of the County Court to sell from the estate for $400 per block, worth $800 to $1200 per block, and he is also accused of destroying a brick building on the property which could have been repaired and allowed an orchard to go to waste.

The charge is also made that he permitted the County Court to sign orders of course of the instruments go to buyers in the city. Mrs. Van Deussen, of North Seventeenth street, secured an elegant Kimball in fancy walnut case. SELLING LOTS FOR TAXES.

County Usually Gets Amount Due, and Many Owners Buy In.

The sale of property bid in by Multnomah County at old delinquent tax sales, dating back as far as the year 1883, is still in progress. Beginning on Monday, September 14, the sale will actively proceed to a finish.

Thus far every piece of property put up by the Sheriff has found a purchaser, with the exception of one case, where it was discovered that there had been a double assessment, and that the owner had accepted for the taxes advertised, amount realized in every instance has equaled the amount of the taxes due, together with costs and penalties. A great many owners against whom the cheap tax liens are being sold, have not the cash to pay them, and the county clerk has taken pains to inform them of the fact, and to locate all the owners, and will continue so doing, as the idea is to save the owner if possible. A great many persons are unaware that tax liens exist against their property, and this may be ascertained in the fact that the tax lien dates back to a time previous to the present ownership.

There are tax liens against Portland property to the amount of $100,000, and $100 to $1000. The County Clerk cannot find all these owners. One reason is that there are many non-resident taxpayers. Another is that women who own property are absent in initial letters are difficult to designate.

This list, which was recently published in the Evening Telegram, includes all suburban additions and considerable acreage. The tax claims against some of the small suburban lots, covering a period of years, aggregate more than the lots are worth. This property probably will not sell very well.

Contests Title to a Woodlawn Lot. Margaret Schumacher has sued Theodore Anderson in the State Circuit Court to prevent him from selling lot 7, block 24, Woodlawn, of which she avers she is the legal owner. Mrs. Schumacher cannot find her complaint that she received a deed to the property from Samuel Swanson on March 4, 1903, and Swanson held title by virtue of a deed of conveyance from Charles E. Ashman, dated March 2, 1902. The last mentioned deed was, however, not recorded until August 12, 1903. In the meantime, in May, 1903, Theodore Anderson brought suit against both Ashman and Swanson in the State Circuit Court for Columbia County and obtained judgment against Ashman for $998. Supporting Anderson's claim was the fact that Woodlawn, Anderson caused the judgment to be transferred to Multnomah County, and directed Sheriff Storey to sell the property on execution. To this Margaret Schumacher now comes into court and objects. She asks the court to restrain the Sheriff from selling the lot, and to quiet her title to the same.

Will Decide Tax Suits. Judge Cleland will announce decisions this morning as follows: Multnomah County vs. Title Guarantee & Trust Company, demurrer to complaint at n. l. same. Multnomah County vs. E. Shannon, same. These are tax compromise suits except in the case of Shannon, where it is contended that the tax roll was doctored.

Simply Humbling

A Score of Happy Purchasers of Fine Pianos.

Yesterday a Record-Breaker at Eilers Piano House—A List of Buyers and Their Instruments, Among Them Three Pianos Valued at $2500.

The news of the great alteration sale at Eilers Piano House has traveled far and wide. Telegrams and letters from every direction yesterday brought orders. The store was crowded every hour of the day and evening and few of the employees of the big establishments of chance to get lunch. Dr. Walker, of Grant's Pass, telephoned for one of the Knabe uprights, a beautiful Chickering, together with a Pianola, was secured by a prominent banker in the city. The instruments are intended for a surprise, the name of the purchaser is withheld here.

Two of the most costly pianos ever sold by Eilers Piano House, and two of the most valuable pianos in the country, were selected by Professor I. J. Cogswell, of Moscow, Idaho. One is a superb concert grand Weber piano, the purchase of which was authorized by the last Idaho Legislature for the university, and when Professor Cogswell came to Portland to select this instrument he was so thoroughly captivated by the superiority and beauty of the Weber piano that he immediately purchased a most superb parlor grand (the famous "C" art style) for himself. Professor Henderson, of the same university, also recently secured a fine piano at Eilers Piano House, making three fine pianos, to the value of nearly $2500, to go to the university.

Of course most of the instruments go to buyers in the city. Mrs. Van Deussen, of North Seventeenth street, secured an elegant Kimball in fancy walnut case. Mr. Flummer bought a fine mahogany piano, a very choice Kimball upright, in fancy rosewood case was secured by Mr. Thomas Holmann, street Kimball, and one of the elegant new Victor pianos goes to Mr. Albert Swanson, of University Park, was selected by Mr. L.
