POLICE COURT IS BUSY WITH PETTY CASES

Jess Eddy Arrested on Vagrancy Charge — Chief Kicks Dago Out of Town

The police court was pretty busy for awhile this morning, several cases coming up for disposal.

Jesse Edy, well-known about the city, was arrested this morning on a vagrancy charge. He was placed under bond for appearance later in the day to enter plea. The police say that Eddy has been selling bootleg booze for several months past and as it is hard to get evidence against him, it was thought best to arrest him as a vagrant.

Samuel Stiner paid a ten dollar fine on a drunk and disorderly charge and William Shearer will spend ten days in jail or working on the streets on a similar charge, not having the money with which to pay the fine.

Arthur Sears, a Portland chaffeur, was fined $5 for exceeding the automobile speed limit.

The dago who was arrested yesterday for stealing a workman's dinner pail, was brought into court this morning. He appeared not to understand English but when Judge Bryson instructed Chief of Police Farrington to escort him out of town or he would give him ninety days in jail, he was only too glad to go. The chief took him to the alley in the rear of the city hall and gave him three swift kicks on the rear of his pants. The fellow ran and was seen running as far as the S. P. depot.

Pursuant to a call published in The Guard, the Municipal League met last night in the city hall. President P. D. Newell presided and S. P. The most important matter of business transacted was the adoption of the constitution and by-laws, after due discussion.
