ONCE IN A WHILE.

Once in a while the sun shines out,
And the arching skies are a perfect blue;
Once in a while mid clouds of doubt
Hope's bright stars come peeping through.
Our paths lead down by the meadows fair,
Where the sweetest blossoms nod and smile,
And we lay aside our cross of care,
Once in a while.
Once in a while within our own
We clasp the hand of a steadfast friend,
Once in a while we hear a tone
Of love with the heart's own voice to blend
And the dearest of all our dreams come true,
And on life's way is a golden mile;
Each thirsting flower is kissed with dew
Once in a while.

Once in a while in the desert sand
We find a spot of the fairest green;
Once in a while, from where we stand
The hills of paradise are seen;
And a perfect joy in our hearts we hold,
A joy that the world cannot defile;
We trade earth's dross for the purest gold
Once in a while.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE CITIES

Discussing the organized publicity work of Spokane and the vast amount of free advertising given by the newspapers there, the Traverse City, Mich., Evening Record says:

"Carping and criticizing are sometimes much easier than praising and commending. Hence the newspapers that radiate cheerfulness and hope and trust and faith in the city and its welfare and continually bring forth its good points must be published in a city where such things are worth while."

The same paper declares that municipal advertising brings results, "and these results would become apparent were the local papers to take to hammering the city."

And the Spokesman-Review says: "Of course it pays. No one ever goes into a new city or growing town who has not previously heard of it. Publicity in some form or other is as necessary to the settling up of new lands and the building up of young towns and cities as the planting of seed is necessary to the harvesting of crops."

"People who think that publicity work is not needed for the fuller development of a new country cannot have given the subject consideration. Advertising has built every city in this broad Western country."

The Guard agrees with these editorial opinions, but inclines to the belief that Oregon is becoming very thoroughly advertised and people are coming here by the thousand from the East. What we need to do now is to turn our attention specifically to the development of the country in order to take care of these homeseekers, providing homes and employment for them. To do this it will be necessary to cut up the large ranches into small places, devoted to fruit-growing and intensified farming. And this can only be done by the building of electric railways which will place the markets at the very doors of the farmer. Small farming will not pay when carried on at a considerable distance from the railroad town which is relied upon for a market.

The country systematically developed along the lines suggested will bring factories with their attendant payrolls by creating a demand for the products they turn out. Dense population, engaged in prosperous pursuits, will in turn make large cities where there will be plenty of employment for workingmen.

Western Oregon has reached a stage where railroad development seems an absolute necessity, and to that end it seems to us the greatest energies of our boosting organizations should be directed.

This is the way the Albany Democrat discusses boosting and boosters: "A big crowd of boosters are at Eugene today talking over the best boosting methods, with a view of a general promotion for the entire state regardless of locality, a forward movement all along the line, under modern methods. Perhaps nowhere in the world are there better professional boosters than in Oregon. Tom Richardson ranks at the head, and there are others. Hartog, of Eugene, is a regular publicity fiend, a man who does things with a brass band on every corner and everybody shouting, from the youngest kid to the oldest maid in town for the place he is paid to boost. It is an era of advertising, and publicity is the watchword. Albany will continue to be in the swim."

Portland papers complain because Harriman is building new railroads to drain the Oregon territory to San Francisco. Then why do not the capitalists and businessmen of the Oregon metropolis wake up and do something to assist in the development of their territory? The Eugene-Sinslaw railway, Roseburg & Coos Bay road, and various other projected lines, which would materially increase Portland's trade, have never received a particle of encouragement from that city, and yet there is ample capital there to insure the building of such roads if Portland desired to see them constructed. What right have they to expect Harriman to help them when they refuse to invest a dollar to help themselves?

Great Britain is also having trouble with navy knockers, who have forced an investigation of defects alleged to affect the fighting efficiency of her warships. Such things may be aggravating, but they serve a good purpose in waking up sleepy officials.

Senators Daniel and Beveridge, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, are both pushing propositions to tax the receipts of corporations, and senators of both parties have expressed opposition thereto. Can you guess the answer?

Russia has put the "undesirable" brand on the Salvation army, which wanted to liven up things in a religious way in the realm of the czar. Keeping things quiet is a Russian specialty, not stirring them up.

Should Senator Aldrich ever lose his job and go broke, he ought to be able to make a good living as an expert mathematician. Few men can do more with figures.

It will be hard to convince the boys on the farm that this Indiana man's scheme to make it daylight all the time wasn't got up to extend their working hours.

What can they do to recruit the circus menageries if Teddy keeps up his deadly work in the jungles for a few days more?

Senator Borah, of Idaho, must have it in for the newspaper men. He wants the large incomes of the country taxed.

NEW LINE TO FEED SAN FRANCISCO

Harriman Announces Service That Will Drain Central Oregon to Benefit California

On June 1 the Harriman lines announce trains will be running over the California & Northeastern into Klamath Falls. This line connects Klamath with the main line of the Southern Pacific at Weed and brings the greater part of Southern Oregon tributary to San Francisco, says the Portland Journal.

Announcemnt is also made by the Harriman lines that contracts have been let to the Utah Construction Company for a 29 mile extension of the Minidoka & Southwestern from Twin Falls, Idaho, southwest towards Wells, Nev., on the Southern Pacific. This line will bring to San Francisco the trade of southwestern and central Idaho, a country on a water grade level with Portland.

The Southern Pacific expects to have the Sacramento Southern completed from Sacramento to Freeport and in operation by June 1.

The Short Line from San Francisco to Santa Cruz, through the Santa Clara valley, will, it is announced, be opened by June 1.

No announcement is made, however, as to how soon work on the Deschutes line in Oregon is to begin, or when work will be recommenced on the Coos Bay line in western Oregon.

The Klamath Falls line is at present completed to Holland, in the center of Lower Klamath lake and connection is made with Klamath Falls by steamer. As soon as trains are operated into the city of Klamath Falls the traffic of that part of Oregon contiguous to Klamath will be hauled directly to San Francisco.

Work has been authorized on a line to run from Klamath line to Alturas, on the Nevada, California & Oregon. This will also be a feeder for the Frisco line of the Southern Pacific.

The line from Twin Falls, Idaho, to Wells, Nev., work upon which is to begin at once, is through a country compared to which the eastern Oregon "desert" is a blooming paradise. No proposition for the citizens of southern Idaho and northern Nevada to guarantee the line as a money maker has been put up by Harriman, however.

According to engineers of the government reclamation service, the exercise of the slightest diligence of the powerful agents of Harriman in Washington should bring about the approval o f the 100 miles of government land for right of way which is the last mountain in the path of the construction of the Deschutes line. Whether it is that the Harriman representatives fear to bring about the disapproval of the employes of the land office by asking them to hurry or whether they are merely fencing for time in which to complete the California, Nevada, Utah, and other lines is a question that has not yet been answered.

COLONEL HOLABIRD REPORTS TO HARRIMAN.

Marshfield, Or., May 4.—That the people of Coos Bay and vicinity are justified in the tenacity of purpose which has characterized their fight for a railroad from the interior to the southwestern Oregon seaport is shown in the report submitted to E. H. Harriman by Colonel William H. Holabird, who, while acting in the capacity of agent for the railroad czar, made exhaustive investigation into the physical, agricultural and commercial assets of the country lying between Drain, Or., and Marshfield.

The report sites some significant facts.

"Over 200 motor boats are in daily use on Coos Bay and its tributaries. Fruit, milk and other farm products are moved quickly and economically to the factory and roads are not used at all.

"Land along the streams, on the slopes and mountains is very fertile, producing superior grasses of all kinds as well as vegetables in abundance."

"The cedar is as unique a product as the redwood in California, inasmuch as it grows in the region of Coos Bay and nowhere else on earth.

"Fifteen hundred acres of coal lands mean an enormous tonnage. One acre of Coos Bay coal is equal to 18,750 cords of wood.

"Country is too rich in latent resources to be kept down."

UNCLE SAM WANTS LIVING SKELETON

Washington, D. C., May 5.—Uncle Sam wants a thin man—the thinner the better—at a salary warranted to keep him thin, to assist in operating refrigerating machinery in a special government railway car designed for the pre-cooling of fruits. To supply the need a civil service examination was held today. Since the museum business is not very profitable these days it was expected that no difficulty would be encountered in finding a living skeleton willing to accept the job at a salary of $900 to $2100 a year.

All the incumbent will be required to do to earn his money will be to remain as thin as the salary demands, squeeze himself into odd nooks and corners of the car, when occasion arises, to insure the pre-cooling of fruit swedgel in remote recesses, and demonstrate that he has an intimate knowledge of refrigerating machinery.

THE VALUE OF PROPRIETARY MEDICINES.

is proven by the very large percentage of physician's prescriptions for the same remedies found in every drug store in America, but as they are written in Latin, few patients realize this fact.

The old standard proprietary medicines like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that have stood the test of time, deserve a place in every family medicine chest, and it is most certain they would not be prescribed by physicians if they were able to devise a formula equally as efficacious.
