OYSTER BAY IS OUT IN FORCE. Great Crowd Gathers to Bid the President Farewell.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 28.—President Roosevelt's summer sojourn at Sagamore Hill was concluded today, when at 1:30 o'clock he boarded a train en route to Washington. He has been absent from the capital for 13 weeks and two days and returned in the expectation of remaining there practically uninterrupted until next June.

When the President, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and their children, Ethel, Archie and Quentin, arrived at the Oyster Bay station he was greeted by cheering from a great crowd of townfolk who were gathered to say farewell. The President acknowledged the greeting by tipping his hat and bowing as he proceeded across the platform of his train, a special of two cars. The President and his family occupied the private car of President Baldwin of the Long Island Railroad. In addition he was accompanied and family the party included Secretary and Mrs. Loebe, members of the executive staff, representatives of the press association and secret service officers.

As the train pulled out at 5:30 it was followed by the cheers of the crowd, while the President stood on the rear platform of his car, bowing his acknowledgments. It is the President's present intention to return to Oyster Bay early next summer. In the event of his nomination for the Presidency he will remain here throughout the summer and autumn, until after the November elections. As yet he has perfected no plans for the Presidential campaign. He has no intention of participating actively in it. It is likely, however, that he will deliver some addresses.

OREGON IS CHANGING

Forestry Officials Find Reserves Are Now Wanted.

ALL INTERESTS FALLING IN LINE

H. D. Langille Returns to Washington From a Summer's Work in Oregon, and Will Probably Recommend Withdrawals.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 28.—"Contrary to what appears to be a popular belief, there is a steadily growing sentiment among the people of Oregon in favor of forest reserves," said H. D. Langille, the Oregon man who is now Forest Inspector in the Bureau of Forestry, and who has just returned from a Summer spent in examining lands that have been withdrawn in that state.

"It spent a large part of the Summer conferring with people living in the vicinity of various withdrawals," he continued, "and I find that generally where the reserve policy, and want more reserves established in Oregon. I talked to farmers, to lumbermen, to stockmen, and, in fact, to all classes, and the overwhelming sentiment favorable to the reserve policy was very gratifying."

Mr. Langille spent several weeks in the Rogue River country and the remainder of the season in the vicinity of the other withdrawals in Oregon, says that in the Blue Mountains, which he visited a year ago. In southwestern Oregon he found the people divided, half favoring a reserve, half opposing. In Eastern Oregon, the sentiment was strongly in favor of new reserves at all localities where withdrawals have been made.

He believes the examinations made this year by the various representatives of the Bureau of Forestry who have been in Oregon will furnish sufficient data to guide the Secretary of the Interior in marking the boundaries of the proposed new reserves.

Langille is known for the creation of the Blue Mountain reserve, substantially along the lines of the withdrawal, after excluding a number of tracts evidently entered for speculative purposes. He is also believed to favor a carefully established reserve in the Rogue River district, and no doubt at all other places in Eastern Oregon where withdrawals have been made. However, he declined to discuss his forthcoming reports as to details or conclusions.

He justified the large withdrawals that have been made pending examinations, explaining that they have been the means of shutting off countless speculative entries that would have been made this Summer in the hope of securing fee base when reserves were created. He says he himself was approached scores of times by land speculators who sought to obtain information that would assist them in locating on lands likely to be reserved, and other representatives of the department were constantly beset in a similar manner by the land sharks, who are not alone confining their operations to timber entries, but are even making homesteads and desert entries where they believe they can profit in the end.

ALMOST SURE TO BE DEBARRED.

Wood Was Right When He Said Moody Had Been After Him.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 28.—As a result of charges that were recently lodged against him by pension examiners, T. A. Wood, of Portland, grand commander of the Indian War Veterans, will undoubtedly be debarred from practice before the Interior Department, as soon as full reports of the examiners are received in Washington. There is no need of hasty action, however, for while Wood is under bond he cannot proceed with these cases. That the charges will be sustained little doubt is felt in the Pension Office. Deputy Commissioner Davenport says the best examiners in the service have been at work on the Wood case, and it is well known that the Government does not ask for a man's arrest until there is sufficient evidence to make it reasonably certain that conviction will follow.

Wood's arrest is the result of a long and systematic effort that has been made to run down charges that he was pursuing illegal practices in Indian War cases. He has been shrewd enough to cover up his trail, and it is said that his has been one of the most difficult cases handled in some time.

There was manifest concern at the Pension Office early in August at the application in the Oregonian of a Washington dispatch telling of the investigation into the practices of Wood, as it was feared the premature announcement might interfere with the examiners' work. Some officials were afraid Wood might take the hint and disappear. The spy to defraud the Postal Department, counsel for McGiehan and Huntington announced after consultation with the Assistant United States District Attorney, that his clients would appear before United States Commissioner Hitchcock next Friday and waive further examination in New York, furnishing bail for their appearance in Washington, D. C. The hearing was adjourned until Friday.

The hearing of Morris Runkell, the New York merchant, who was indicted in Washington for alleged complicity in the postal frauds, was adjourned until next Monday, owing to the absence from the city of Mr. Runkell's counsel.

Stockholders Desire to Prevent a Forced Sale of the Property.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 28.—John G. Carruth, of Philadelphia, president of the International Trust, Title & Savings Company, was today appointed receiver for the Consolidated Lake Superior Company by Judge Platteau in the United States District Court. His bond was placed at $10,000. Judge Lynde Garrison, of this city, counsel for the company, said the company consented to the appointment of the receiver. The application for the receivership was presented by attorneys for certain stockholders of the company. It was said in the application that the directors of the company had failed to take up the loan of $5,000 of Speyer & Co., of New York; that the actual value of the plant, as expressed in the amount expended in building, less the value of other properties, falls far in excess of the amount of the loan; that the stockholders fear if a forced sale were allowed they would lose the entire amount of the investment. A receiver was, therefore, asked for, and also a temporary injunction to prevent the sale of the property under foreclosure proceedings.

Sale Will Not Be Postponed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Concerning the appointment of John Carruth, president of the Industrial Title & Savings Company of Philadelphia, as a receiver for the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, Charles H. Tweed, of Speyer & Co., said: "The action of the Connecticut court will not interfere with the sale of the securities of the Consolidated Company October 1. The appointment of a receiver places the affairs of the company in the hands of an individual. No arrangements have been made for postponing the sale, and I know nothing of the report that Mr. Clergue has raised the $5,000 cash needed to satisfy our claim."

HAS SEEN PARTS OF THREE CENTURIES

MRS. MARY RAMSAY WOOD.

HILLSBORO, Or., Sept. 28.—(Special.)—There is no longer any doubt as to the exact age of Mary Ramsay Wood, of this city. The old family Bible, dating back into the 18th century, and it contains the registry of the birth of Mary Ramsay. Mrs. Wood was born in Knoxville, Tenn., May 29, 1787, making her age 116 years 4 months and 5 days. Her father, Richard Ramsay, was one of Knoxville's first brick masons. In 1833 she crossed the plains, riding a horse the greater part of the journey—and this at the advanced age of 66 years. Mrs. Wood is quite feeble, but occasionally grows reminiscent, and tells of the hardships of the early days in Tennessee. Many times she heard President Polk when he was campaigning as Congressman in her native state, and she was well acquainted with H. Rootstrom, who established the Knoxville Gazette in 1793. Speaking of President Polk, who was a great Walker tariff advocate, she said: "Polk was a fine talker, and had a splendid grasp of public affairs. When he was defeated for re-election as Governor of the state, you bet I was the sickest Democrat in Dixie. But I knew he would come out all right, and when he got the nomination for the Presidency we knew that Polk was just as good as elected." Grandma Wood lives with her daughter, Mrs. C. B. Reynolds, a young woman of 71 years. Every man, woman and child of pioneer families knows the old lady, and pioneers of the '50s say that she looks about like she did 50 years ago.

Miller, of New York, agents of the Brandt-Deit Automatic Cashier Company, charging them with participation in the postal frauds, was upheld in a decision handed down today by Judge Thomas in the United States District Court in Brooklyn. Driggs was charged with receiving money while a Congressman for furthering the interests of the Automatic Cashier Company, and Miller was accused of paying money to corrupt a Congressman.
