THINKS VALLEY ADAPTED TO ORCHARD FOSTERAGE

President of Chamber Points to Advantages

WALNUT GROWERS COMING

Western Association Members to Be Here Thursday to Look Over Possibilities of Lane

Proof that the growing of filberts and walnuts in this part of the Willamette valley has passed the experimental stage is that next Thursday, August 24, members of the Western Walnut Growers' association will come here for the first time to inspect the orchards, believes L. L. Ray, president of the Eugene chamber of commerce. Mr. Ray is an enthusiastic believer in the future of the filbert industry in Lane county. People who are interested in either the walnut or filbert industry are urged to get in touch with the caravan of orchard men when they visit this vicinity.

The members of the association will gather at Salem tomorrow, Wednesday, August 23, and on the 24th come here for an all-day visit. Their tour to this part of the valley will close with a visit to the planting of George A. Harris, pioneer filbert man of the state, where a careful study will be made of the propagation and pollination work.

Valley Suitable for Shrubs

Concerning the new industry and the visit of the walnut growers, Mr. Ray has this to say:

"The development of Lane county's latent agricultural possibilities rests primarily upon covering the greater portion of the main floor of the Willamette valley with food producing trees and shrubs. Trees and shrubs not only make possible a greater return upon investment and produce more wealth per acre than crops requiring annual planting, but they also permit of cultivation that will hold moisture in the ground during such seasons as the present. Irrigation of our valley land would be expensive because of the short time that water is needed and because the soil is not of such nature as to yield itself readily to such treatment.

"During the past two years many hundreds of acres of Lane county has been planted to prunes by men who realize that Lane county soil and climate is adaptable to the raising of fruit in competition with the world. When these orchards come into bearing they will not only bring thousands of dollars of additional wealth into the county, but if successfully cultivated and marketed will be the cause of inducing others to enter the fruit raising business here.

Would Increase Acreage

"But Lane county need not put all of its fruit in one basket. The growing of Walnuts and filberts has passed the experimental stage here both from the standpoint of profit and the quality of the nuts. Nevertheless the acreage that is being planted with these trees is not as great as the experience of the present nut growers would seem to warrant. This may be largely attributed to the lack of knowledge of the possible returns from nut groves as well as the methods of cultivating and harvesting the crop. The tour of the nut groves of the county that is to be made next Thursday will furnish all interested parties an opportunity to learn at first hand just what their neighbors are doing with these trees. Any one who is considering extending his tree plantings or setting out new orchards is earnestly requested to make the tour."

New Record Is Made in Night Flying

Lieutenant Clayton Bissell, of the United States air service, has just completed the first airplane night flight across country. He started from Bolling field, near Washington, at 9:30 p. m., and, being compelled by storms to fly in a roundabout route, arrived over New York at midnight. He used directional wireless to find his way, but on the return laid a straight compass course for the capital, reaching there at 2 o'clock in the morning.

HARDING LAUDS ACTION TO BARE HERRIN CRIMES

ILLINOIS CHAMBER SEEKS FUND TO BRING GUILTY TO BOOK

President in Letter Expresses Pleasure Over News That Justice May Prevail in the End

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—President Harding in a letter received tonight by the Illinois chamber of commerce, expressed gratification at the organization's state-wide campaign for a fund to bring about the detection and prosecution of those guilty of the recent Herrin mine massacre.

The letter was in reply to a telegram from the chamber of commerce following the chief executive's speech before congress in which he censured Illinois for its failure to see justice done. It read in part:

"I note with genuine interest the activities of your association to see that justice is done in Williamson county. I am not aware of the activities which are under way to reestablish justice in that community. I had only the public view of the Herrin crime, which has thus far been ignored. It is a gratifying thing to know that there is a determination that justice shall be done. It was extremely necessary to refer to the affair in my address to the congress, because the general public did not seem to know that the federal government was powerless to act in the matter and it was unbearable to have a widespread impression that the federal government was willingly or purposely ignoring the inexcusable crime."

DOG SUPPLANTED AS PET

MONKEY AND OTHER CREATURES CODDLED BY WOMEN

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The place long held by the dog as a family pet and street companion threatens to be usurped by the monkey and other exotic creatures. Women are seen carrying marmosets, mongooses, foxes and parrots.

People also are getting accustomed to the woman with a young white fox on a string, another with three cats and the chimpanzee that rides in a motor car.

But the most startling innovation in family pets was observed at a lawn party where a guest carried what appeared to be a sunshade with a highly decorative handle. Closer inspection revealed the "handle" to be a beautifully marked snake, perfectly motionless and carlessly twined over its fair owner's arm and around her sunshade.

NO TRACE OF FLYING BOAT

CRAFT CARRIED PILOT, MECHANICIAN AND PASSENGER

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Seaplanes continued to search the waters surrounding the Fire Island lightship early today for the missing flying boat carrying a pilot, mechanician, and one passenger, that left here early yesterday for a sight-seeing flight to that point and failed to return.

Radio stations broadcasting to ships both in and out bound, to keep a watch for the plane, believed to have suffered some mishap in the vicinity of the lightship.

The sight-seeing plane left its moorings in the Hudson for a trip with a passenger who had telephoned and made arrangements for a flight. The machine was last seen crossing over the Battery on its way to the sea and was due back before noon.

When it failed to appear another flying boat put out and circled the lightship but was unable to locate the missing craft.

GERMAN PLANES SUPERIOR

GLIDING AND FLYING TESTS ARE MADE IN FRANCE

PARIS, Aug. 21.—The superiority of the Germans in "gliding"—flying motorless planes—is emphasized by the results of the international contests at Clermont Parrand, which closed yesterday. The best accomplishment was that of a Farman biplane which in two weeks' flying was in the air a total of 49 minutes, 59 seconds.

Edmund Allen, the American entry, was given seventh place. His flights totaled 12 minutes, 27 seconds, before his machine was put out of competition by accident.

General classification tests from the top of the 4,000 foot mountain, Puy-de-dome, are to begin tomorrow.

In gliding tests at Gersfield, Germany, last Saturday, Herr Hentzen, a student of the Hanover technical school, kept a machine in the air two hours and ten seconds on a single flight, breaking all records.

FUNDS NOT AVAILABLE TO IRISH REPUBLICAN CAUSE

Court Enjoins New York Banks From Paying Out Moneys

ORDER TIES UP $2,300,000

Ruling Is Handed Down on Application of Attorneys for Michael Collins and Others

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—A temporary injunction restraining local banks in which are deposited moneys collected for the Irish republican cause from releasing them to Eamonn De Valera or any of his agents was signed late today by Supreme Court Justice Burr on application of attorneys representing Michael Collins and other officers of the Irish free state forces.

It was anounced that approximately $2,300,000 was tied up by the order. Service complaint on De Valera and the other defendants was ordered to be made through the insertion of advertisements in papers in England and Ireland. Most of the funds involved are said to be deposited with the Guaranty Trust company and the Harrison National bank.

The main contention argued against the De Valera custody of the Irish funds, the application for an injunction read, was that Ireland is now a nation; that De Valera is against the present government and is a fugitive and that he is not entitled to the money.

Would Finance Revolution

If De Valera or his forces were granted the funds in American banks, the free state representatives contend it would be devoted to the carrying on of further revolution against the present government and prolong needless and unjustifiable war in a country which has expressed by the ballot a preference for free state form of government. It is further stated in the application that the Irish free state is prepared to make good the bonds of that nation and that the quickest way to end the present revolt is to deprive De Valera and his aides of funds from this country.

All checks on these funds were deposited in the local banks in De Valera's name up to the time of the signing of the Irish peace treaty, it was said today. The money was under the jurisdiction of three trustees Archbishop Fogarty, Michael Fogarty, Irish prelate, Stephen O'Mara, mayor of Limerick and De Valera. They in turn were responsible to the dail eireann.

Funds Were Drawn Upon

Opponents of De Valera charged that, in spite of their protests, not less than $250,000 was withdrawn from the Irish funds in this city during the early part of the year. There was begun some time ago a series of inquiries concern the exact situs of the funds. Those who opposed De Valera charged they could obtain no information from him and that legal proceedings were necessitated.

The firm of attorneys representing the Irish free state officials today deposited with the county clerk a bond of $50,000 guaranteeing the good faith of the applicants. The funds involved are representd by $1,500,000 in securities and $800,000 in cash.

"To the City, Eugene," the original march written by Charles W. Hawley and featured in the concert program yesterday at the Rex, was well received. That it might well bear the signature of Sousa, was the opinion of many who gave audience to last evening's program. By reason of the place of origin, Mr. Hawley dedicated his effort to the city. The other numbers of the Rex organ concert are "Salut d'Amour" (Love's Greeting), by Elgar, and Leo Delibe's "Pizzicato," from "Sylvia Ballet."

Axmen to Spare Tree

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 21. — After much impassioned oratory from citizens of Salem tonight the city council rescinded an order of two weeks ago which condemned to the ax an old redwood tree that stands in Summer street. It was brought from California 75 years ago by Daniel Waldo, a pioneer, when he returned from the California gold mones. One alderman tonight declared it is the only tree left standing squarely in a public highway between the Canadian boundary and Tia Juana.
