

GAME WAS THEIRS

Browns Should Have Won in a Romp.

OAKLANDERS TAKE IT, 7 TO 4

Big Jack Messerly, Once Discarded by Portland Team, Beats the Local Players When Victory Was Almost in Their Grasp.

Those brown-legged ball tossers of Fred Ely started to take the game away from Pete Lohman in a romp yesterday, but they blew up in the street and the Oaklanders won by the score of 7 to 4. The agony was prolonged for 12 innings, during which there were a couple of ties and enough fumbles and splendid ball playing to have been strung through three games. It was big Jack Messerly, that first baseman whom Van Buren, Vigneux and a few others thought could not deliver the goods when he guarded the initial cushion, that routed Portland of the game. His chance to rub it in came in the 11th inning, when Blake was knocking at the door with the winning run. Ike Francis drove one with cannon-ball speed to the right of first base. Messerly knocked it down in brilliant style and by a quick recovery relayed the ball to Graham. In the next inning Lohman's hospital corps jumped out and chased three runs over the pan, just two more than they actually needed to capture the opening game of the series.

The Browns, with three runs to the good, made in the first inning on one single, two sacrifices, an error and a wild pitch, looked as if they were about to win as they pleased. Graham, the Oak hand southpaw, got off badly and took a flight to the clouds, but when he did settle down he certainly pitched a grand article of ball. He allowed only six scattered hits during the 12 innings, and only in one inning, the 11th, did they come two in a bunch. In the ninth inning, when Francis was where a sweat would have scored a run, the home team led by two strikes on the third baseman, took off his hand and drove one over the plate so fast that it oozed the mighty Francis. It was really a brilliant piece of work, and the Oak serves credit for it. While the ball was not the choicest that could have been pitched, it was a nifty bit of work for Graham to do, to send it over the plate to man Ike Francis.

Ike Butler, while he was touched up for nine hits, was getting better the longer the game went, but a swift one driven by the hand-chucker in the 10th inning hit the big fellow on the tip of the third finger of his right hand and almost tore the end off. He was injured so badly that he was forced to retire, and Loukas was called to the grime line. Two men were out, but he was wild and walked Schwartz, who stole second and scored on Murdock's single. Buck Freeman, whose first appearance among the Browns is by no means any credit to him, for he was guilty of three errors, retrieved himself in the tenth by clouting out a sweet-scented two-bagger. Hollingsworth sacrificed him to third and scored on a Texas League by Ralphy, and once more the game was tied in a knot. Loukas' call to the firing line was no sudden thing, but he seemed to have nothing that the Oaklanders could not find.

Another thing that handicapped the Browns was the absence of Phil Nadeau. When it came to counting noses Manager Ely found that Nadeau was missing. He hunted up Blake and as near as he could lured Nadeau was not stick at 12:30. Ely delayed starting the game for 15 minutes hoping that the hard-bitten left-fielder would show up, but he didn't, and he was forced to send Thielman into the left garden. Jake looked after his garden all right, but he was helpless when it came to landing on Graham safely. Twice he had a chance to distinguish himself and twice he failed. Had Nadeau been on hand the game of the day would have been different. Just why Nadeau did not appear is not known, and it is rather surprising that a ball player of his ability and knowledge should absent himself from the game without the sending word to the management. Unless he can show good reasons for not playing he should be severely dealt with.

With the exception of the error by Freeman and Blake in the game one of the best seen on the local diamond for some time. Blake is charged with two errors, while Van Buren, for his interference, should be censured for nine. Both of Blake's errors came in the ninth inning and were responsible for Oakland tying the score. With two men out, Mainman drove home fly that journeyed along the diving line of center and right field. Both Van Buren and Blake started after it. Van Buren should have let Blake take it, but he came on with such a rush that Blake's glove was enough, enough for him to lose the ball by reaching for it and having it kiss off the tip of his glove. Schwartz followed with a single that Blake allowed to romp through his glove, coupled with a bad-throw to first by Francis, who fell while fielding O'Hara's dinky infield hit, and a single by Murdock, brought about the first tie. It was Portland's game up to this inning, but things went they when they should not.

While the game was in progress there was some exceedingly clever fielding done. In three consecutive innings the Browns pulled off three double plays. Francis, Hollingsworth and Freeman worked the first one, and Van Buren and Hollingsworth the second one. Ralphy took a lead into the atmosphere and dragged down a hot liner from Murdock's bat and whipped the ball to second in time to kill off Kruger as he raced into second. Ralphy also did another clever stunt when he threw Murdock out to Freeman in the seventh inning. The ball was hit hard and when Ralphy fielded it he fell prone on his back and from that difficult position shot the ball over to Freeman in time to put Murdock out. The score:

Morris Returns to School. Sam Morris, the Nez Perce Indian, who was released by Manager Ely yesterday, packed up his belongings and returned to the Chemawa Indian School. He remained at the club house until almost train time and then said farewell to the players. Ely will endeavor to have Harris take Loukas for the rest of this season, providing he can still keep a string on him for next season.

Seattle Wins From Sacramento. SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6.—Seattle took the first game from Sacramento by better bunching of hits. St. Vrain was effective with men on bases. The grounds were slippery, making fast fielding impossible. Score:

HOLMES COLLEGE TEAM. Football Players Practice for Match With Bishop Scott Academy.

Holmes Business College football players are practicing daily, and expect to have a strong team. Of the '22 boys, Shively, as left half, shows much improved form, and plays with great dash and determination. Haynes, '22, will probably play right end. Cooper, '22, as fullback, is a reliable kick and good tackler. Douglas will make a speedy quarter, and is always there when wanted. He punts well, and is fast on his feet. The other positions have not been filled, but Mike Shively, right tackle, Anderson, who played for his college in Quincy, Ill.; right guard, Shattuck or Broughton; center, Newlands, of Chehalis; left guard, Barr or Bagley; left end, Justus, who played for Heppner High School; right half, Swope, of the Bishop Scott Academy team. The other candidates are Ormandy, Dutton, Babbs and a lot of new players, who will be tried out in the practice game Saturday against Bishop Scott Academy. The Holmes boys are enthusiastic in their practice, and are eagerly looking for scalps.

CAPTAIN AND MANAGER ELECTED. Mount Angel College Expects to Put Out a Good Team.

MOUNT ANGEL COLLEGE, Oct. 6.—(Special).—At a meeting last night, comprised of the football men of the institution, John Hunt was elected manager and A. B. Hermann captain. There has been much enthusiasm among the students this year and every effort will be made to put out a winning team. The class captain, David M. Waddell, member of the Oregon eleven, which defeated Berkeley a few years ago, is coach, and is confident of turning out a team that can deliver the goods. Hunt has been for many years identified with college sports and last year was captain of the baseball team, which won the intercollegiate championship of the Northwest.

There are about 125 students at the college now, and there is no doubt but that the attendance will pass the 200 mark this year. Greek is a marked feature of school work this year, over the usual course electing that study in their courses.

Meets Champion Woman Golfer. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The invitation golf tournament tendered by Mrs. Clement A. Griscom to Miss Rhoda Adair, the champion of England and Scotland, began today on the links of the Merion Golf Club at Havard, a suburb. Miss Adair was paired with Miss Maude Adams of this city. The British champion played a splendid game, but suffered through a mishap in the clubhouse. Miss Adair took 47 for the outward journey, which equaled the men's bogie.

BRIDGE CONTRACT SIGNED. City Agrees With Car Company, and Is Ready to Advertise.

The new Morrison-street bridge took on an aspect of reality yesterday afternoon, when Mayor Williams attached his signature to the articles of agreement between the city and the City & Suburban Railway Company. Nothing now stands in the way of calling for bids except a few strokes of the pen which City Engineer Elliott must make to complete the plans and specifications governing the contract award. Mr. Elliott and his assistants are rushing this work through and will have it ready within a short time. Mayor Williams believes that within 30 days the contract for building will have been let, and then active work will be inaugurated as soon as the necessary apparatus and appliances can be gotten on the scene.

The contract, or articles of agreement, as signed by Mayor Williams and President Tyler Woodward and Secretary C. F. Swigert of the City & Suburban Railway Company, includes one important addition to the original contract. This provides that the City & Suburban Company shall provide means to control and effectually confine the electric currents so as to prevent electricity from being a part in the construction of phrases where any ambiguity might appear. The operation of street cars is not to be delayed for a period of more than 30 days and should a longer delay be necessary, the street-car company will be entitled to demurrage. It is to have the use of the old bridge until the new one is ready for use, paying for it at the rate of $150 per month. For the new bridge the company will pay 5 cents for every 36-foot car passing over. For every car more than 36 feet in length a proportionate increase will be charged. At no time must the charges amount to less than $12000 a year, to be paid in monthly installments of $1000 each into the treasury. In the event any other company should be allowed a franchise across the bridge, it is to be taxed 5 cents per car for standard cars, and a proportionate increase for larger cars.

BRITAIN IS INCONSISTENT. American Counsel in Alaskan Case Discusses Canal Line.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—On entering this morning on his third day's argument before the Alaska Boundary Commission, John M. Dickinson, counsel for the United States, summed up the question of the Portland Canal line, declaring that the American contention was the usual simple, natural and consistent method of determining the boundary, while Great Britain's contention arbitrarily changed the direction of the line through the canal to the 56th parallel and introduced a new direction in the boundary line provided for in the treaty, and which, instead of carrying the line direct to the 56th parallel, only seven miles distant, brought the line 90 miles nearer to the coast before reaching the parallel. Counsel denied Attorney-General Finlay's and Solicitor-General Carson's arguments, that

"No More Aches and Pains."

No. 826 Perdido Street, NEW ORLEANS, LA., March 27, 1903. For over nine years I had been troubled with leucorrhoea. The discharge was yellowish at times but after the menstrual period it would become reddish, acid and excoriating. This exhausted my system. I was continually tired while my appetite was poor, my digestion very bad and my sleep fitful and feverish. Wine of Cardui was the one remedy which helped me in my distress. I soon found that it relieved the pain and imbued me with new strength and after the use of 22 bottles I was well. No more discharge. No more aches and pains and oh, what relief, only those who have had my experience can appreciate the value of such a fine medicine as Wine of Cardui.

Anna D. Moore, Vice-President, UNITED DAUGHTERS' INDUSTRIAL CLUB.

WINE OF CARDUI

Does not this letter convince the most skeptical sufferer that Wine of Cardui will bring her health? It is difficult to imagine a case where there are more discouraging features than this before Mrs. Moore began taking Wine of Cardui. Leucorrhoea is an inflammation of the vagina. It is really decay in the vital organs of womanhood. This inflammation often drives women into the direst stages of nervous excitement. At the menstrual period the continual itching is accompanied by the utmost agony. The life of the woman who lets this trouble run on as Mrs. Moore did is one of misery. But Mrs. Moore did not know what medicine to take to cure it. When she had Wine of Cardui brought to her attention she took it and continued the treatment until she was cured. The case was a chronic one and it took persistent effort to bring a permanent cure. This cure can be secured by any woman who takes Wine of Cardui. Mrs. Moore tried everything else and continued to suffer. She tried Wine of Cardui and was cured. You can treat your case successfully in your own home and nobody need know anything about it. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today and begin the treatment.
