CHILDREN'S FARM HOME WILL GET LARGE SUM

Will of Mrs. Samantha Huddleston Held Valid

STIPULATION IS MADE

Attorney for Contestant and Executor Come to Agreement and Court Order Issued

Through a decision of Judge Skipworth of circuit court yesterday the W. C. T. U. children's farm home near Corvallis will receive a large share of the estate of the late Mrs. Samantha A. Huddleston, early Eugene pioneer. Several months ago a relative of Mrs. Huddleston living in California, brought suit to contest her will on the alleged ground that she was not competent to make a will at the time the instrument was executed and that she was acting under the influence of the beneficiaries of the will. Yesterday upon stipulation between the attorneys for the contestant and the executor a decree was given declaring the will to be valid.

Mrs. Huddleston made a number of comparatively small bequests to friends and gave the rest of the estate to the children's farm home. When the inventory of the property was made it was found that the property left to the home probably is valued somewhere around $35,000 or $40,000.

William Castleman was the contestant and brought suit against Mrs. Margaret A. Bilyeu, the executor. The beneficiaries of the will, aside from the children's farm home, are as follows: John W. Evans, Emma Lowry, Ella Williams, Edith Dickerson, Walter Dickerson and Wayne Dickerson, all of Eugene; Mat Geary of Grangeville, Idaho; May Riggs of Marcola; Mabel Walker, Edna Walker, Leasure Mullen and the Eugene lodge of Masons.

Thomas Mannix was attorney for Castleman and Carey and Kerr and Omar C. Spencer for the executor.

BANKER WRITES OF TRIP

R. C. MERRILL TELLS OF TOUR OF FARMS

Says Regrettable That Greater Number of Farmers and Business Men Did Not Attend

Whenever any of the officers or employes of the First National bank take part in a trip such as the one made by the bankers and farmers over the county a few days ago, under the direction of O. S. Fletcher, county agent, they make a written report of it. Following is the report in part of R. C. Merrill, who was a member of the party on the tour:

"It was Mr. Fletcher's contention in speaking after our dinner at the Willakenzie Grange—and I have heard him make the same remarks several times before—that if this is a dairy country or dairying is to be carried on here successfully, the first requisite is feed; that inasmuch as we are short now of the amount of leguminous feed necessary to support the cattle population of the county, additional leguminous crops must be successfully grown before the cattle population can be increased, and that when the amount of feed raised in the county justifies it logically the dairy herds will be in greater numbers and the units sufficiently larger to make probable profitable operations of dairy units.

"Mr. Laird had about seven acres of alfalfa, on which he cut a little better than six tons per acre last year. The field was in good shape and ready for the first cutting this year, and gave promise of doing as well as last season. The alfalfa on the Harlow place (formerly the McCornack place) showed a good stand, with a little over six tons per acre reported as last year's hay crop. Taking into consideration the superior feeding value of alfalfa, I would think this hay was worth $15 per ton on the farm for feed, and in each of the above cases between $7 and $8 was the estimated cost of raising the hay. In addition to this profit per acre is the very important consideration of the nitrogen which the alfalfa puts back into the soil, stimulating the growth of any subsequent crop raised on the land.

"The Edwards place was stopped at for the purpose of looking over a clover field which was to be threshed for seed. The father and his sons have been quite successful in growing clover seed, and Mr. Fletcher is making an effort to interest more farmers in this profitable crop where the character of the land justifies it.

"The first place where we stopped west of Junction City had a field of seven acres of Ladino clover which last year afforded abundant green pasture during the dry months, and on which a crop was cut for seed. This crop yielded 900 pounds of clover seed, which sold at $1 per pound, which is well over $100 an acre. Of course this condition will not continue after the clover is raised more generally, but the indications from this field were that where this species of clover could be irrigated it would be a wonderful pasture crop.

"It is very regrettable that a greater number of farmers and business men did not go on this tour. The projects which Mr. Fletcher is conducting are very important to the county as a whole, and his work and that of Mr. Collier with his 4-H clubs deserve the backing of the whole community."

lands lying south of Hawaii on the course to Suva, Fiji.

Fliers Scan Route Charts

Until 1 o'clock this morning the fliers questioned Bryan and examined all available photographs having a bearing on this stage of their journey, particularly those of the islets of Canton and Enderbury. These coral atolls dot the Pacific 1522 miles south of Honolulu and 1216 miles north of Suva. They are directly along the course of the Southern Cross and offer a haven in event of forced landings.

While no trouble is expected by the airmen they believe in being prepared—one indication of this is the care with which they are making every arrangement. Should they be forced down before reaching Suva, they will be able to erect with their radio equipment a land sending station with which to advise the world of their plight and their position. Their plane's engines were in excellent condition and "young" as engineers go said the aviators. Both Kingsford-Smith and Ulm asserted they were not worried about the take-off from the Barking Sands runway. They said that the 4500 foot runway there was more than twice the distance that the Southern Cross required for the hop-off at Oakland, where 2500 feet of the runway were used before the plane gained enough speed for flight.

Perfect Course Followed

While the radio beacon sent from San Francisco and Wheeler field, near Honolulu was intermittent, Navigator Harry W. Lyon and Pilot Kingsford-Smith asserted that a perfect course had been followed.

"I knew exactly where I was at all times," said Lyon. "Yesterday morning I took three shots at the sun. My position on each shot plotted the same. I was not exactly satisfied for the time being, but it was not long afterwards that we sighted the tip of Mannakea (13,800 foot peak on Hawaii island) above the clouds. Then I knew I was right.

"I skippered inter-island boats in these waters for a long while, but I was astonished to find how different the islands look from the air.

"It's good to be back in Hawaii after eleven years. I have a host of friends here and I want to see them all, but I doubt that the time I have will permit me to do that."

was discovered Tuesday morning. She had died a few hours after midnight.

Inspector L. B. Cahill left for Seattle tonight to return the prisoner to Portland. He expected to leave the Puget Sound city tomorrow morning.

The automatic pistol that is believed to have sent the bullet through Mrs. Stoy's body was found tucked in a hedge in front of a mortuary in Vancouver, Wash., today by police of Portland, acting on a tip from Seattle. The weapon is of .765 caliber and of German manufacture. The pistol was in a small leather pocket holster. Both the magazine and holster covering were encrusted with what appeared to be blood police said. There were five cartridges in the magazine which holds seven. Several clear prints were found on the gun.

LEE-DUKE FORMALLY OPENS NEW RESTAURANT

Spanish Atmosphere Pervades Dining Rooms: Fixtures of Very Latest

Several hundred persons attended the formal opening of the new Lee-Duke cafe on Willamette street yesterday and last night. The beautiful dining rooms and main salon were decorated with the many beautiful bouquets from Eugene business men and firms wishing the proprietors of the new cafe good luck.

Although it had been announced that serving would not begin until this morning many persons occupied the tables and booths yesterday afternoon and last evening until everything was sold out. Service will begin this morning at 7 o'clock.

The new restaurant is modern in every department. The woodwork, fixtures and walls are of the Spanish style. The entire place is one of charm from the Willamette street entrance to that on Park street. A dining room especially for large parties and clubs faces on Park street.

One of the features of the restaurant is the large room on the mezzanine floor. It is 30 by 48 feet, and has a spring floor of solid maple, which was especially constructed with consideration for those who wish to eat and dance, too. The room is finished in stained fir, the ceiling being of stained beams held secure with wrought iron.

PEGGY DAVIS IS CLEARED

CAMP COOK DID NOT INTENTIONALLY KILL FOWLER

SEATTLE, June 2.—(AP)—Peggy Davis, camp cook and roustabout of the town of Skykomish, stood virtually cleared today of suspicion that she had intentionally shot and killed George Fowler, 21, son of a Brooklyn surgeon. It was reported at the sheriff's office.

Two sheriff's deputies after an investigation of the case, during which they interviewed a large portion of the population of the mountain town, reported to Sheriff Clyde D. Bannick that they found nothing which could contradict the girl's story of accidental shooting.

Officials announced that an inquest would be asked in order to have on record the formal verdict of a coroner's jury. Miss Davis was being held for the county grand jury.

Auto Runs 59 Miles On Gallon of Gas

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E.
