The Retail Grocers and Merchants Association of Oregon had a splendid convention at Portland last week, and they adjourned to meet in Eugene in 1910, and this will be the largest meeting in their history because it is now the Retail Merchants' Association, and this means one of the most important gatherings of the year. The Manufacturers' Association, the Portland Commercial Club and individual manufacturers participated in the entertainment of delegates this week.

Six tons of advertising matter, and the highest possible grade of advertising matter at that, was forwarded to the East by the Portland Commercial Club last week. This remarkable addition to the enormous advertising Oregon is already receiving, tells of all the resources of the State in picture and in text, and comprises 5,040,000 full newspaper columns, certainly a great accomplishment, and one which five years ago would have been considered impossible.

Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of the "White Temple" at Portland, is absent on an extended Eastern trip including Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, and other cities, in behalf of the Northern Baptist Convention, which is to convene in Portland on June 25th and will bring from 2,000 to 5,000 prominent Baptist laymen and preachers. Dr. Brougher includes a description of Oregon and the Pacific Northwest in all his addresses.

We are rich and happy in this world only by comparison and contrast. For years Oregon has had ideal weather. For instance, during 1908, 25 degrees above zero was the coldest weather experienced at Portland and our little shiver of a few days, disagreeable as we may consider it, is from 20 to 50 degrees warmer than it has been at the same time in the sections that most of us came from.

The Peck-Judah Company, one of the foremost tourists bureaus in the United States, with the Pacific Coast as their exclusive field, have opened headquarters in Portland. This company handles many millions of pieces of advertising matter during the year, and they have in charge competent people thoroughly familiar with the attractions and resources of Oregon

There's a difference of opinion among trans continental railroads as to the rates to be made to Oregon during 1909, but there is assurance that the regular rate is to be cut so as to make travel very heavy, and every indication that the one-way colonist ticket will cost less than at any time during the past two years.

The Legislative Committee of the Oregon Good Roads Conference held their closing meeting last Saturday in Portland, and decided upon the bill they are to present to the Legislature.

Washington County has just issued a spleddid booklet emphasizing particularly their wonderful dairy advantages.

A REQUEST FOR THE OBSERVANCE OF OREGON DAY

A suggested program for Public Schools and Literary Societies for Oregon Day, February 14, the 50th anniversary of the admission of Oregon into the Union. The act admitting Oregon was passed Feb. 12th and signed by the President Feb. 14, 1859. In as much as the 14th falls on Sunday this year, it is suggested that the exercises be held on Friday, Feb. 12th, and that the centenary of Lincoln's birth be commemorated in the same exercises.

This program is suggested by the University of Oregon and was prepared by the departments of History and Education.

Order of Exercises

Song, "Oregon" (Oregon Teachers' Monthly, Sept. 1908)

Reading, Jefferson's Instructions to Lewis (for the exploration of the Columbia River. Coues' The History of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, 1 p. XXVI from middle of page to end of second line on p. XXVII)

Declamation, Baylies' Speech in Congress (justifying the expectation that Oregon would be settled by American. Annals of 17th Congress, 2nd Session, 1822-23. Selections pp. 681 and 682.)

Reading, Applegate's "A Day with the Cow Column" (Schafer's History of the Pacific Northwest, pp. 186-192.)

Recitation, "Camp-fires of the Pioneers." Simpson (5th and 6th stanzas) "Pilgrims of the Plain" Joaquin Miller (3rd stanza) (Both in Quarterly Oregon Historical Dec. 1900.)

Reading, Act for the Admission of Oregon (from Report Sec. State of Oregon, 1897-98, pp. 151-2)

Oration, Abraham Lincoln. (by a member of the school or some prominent citizen.)

Song, "America."

Note: Complete copies of the readings and recitations cited above may be secured free of charge by writing the Register, University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon.

Another Old Settler Gone

James Edward Crawford was born in Washington County, Arkansas, Oct. 17, 1843. Died Jan. 9, 1909.

Mr. Crawford came to the Pacific Coast in 1861 and settled in Clackamas Co., where he was married and lived until 1878 when he moved to Oakesdale, Wash. He came back to Clackamas Co. in 1892 and bought the old farm three miles Northeast of Estacada where he lived until the day of his death.

He was a member of the I. O. O. F. for over twenty years and was a charter member of Estacada Lodge 175. He leaves a wife and six children: five sons and one daughter. The children are G. R., F. O., D. P., Lester, Oscar and Louvena E. Crawford all of whom are at home. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Vesta Raney of Gresham, Oreg. Mr. Crawford was a kind husband and father and was one of the substantial men of Eastern Clackamas Co. The County has lost a useful and honored citizen and the Lodge at Estacada one of its best members in the true meaning of Oddfellowship. Thus passes another of the old settlers and one of Natures noble men.

P. R. Moak, formerly from here who, with his family went to Washington have concluded to return to Oregon and are now located in Portland.

Dr. O. S. Townsend, formerly of Fairmont, Neb., after spending some time with friends in Portland has concluded to become a citizen of Estacada. The doctor has been a regular practicing physician but at present does not intend to open up a practice, or office, here as he desires to do some out of door work such as planting an orchard if he can find the location to suit him and we believe he can.

Just as we go to press we learn that Miss Freda Dints, one of Estacada's well know young ladies, will be married on Sunday at noon to N. L. Kerchem of Logan.

DODGE

Mr. Dole Wilcox and T. Paulsen were practising some fancy steps in dogs-reels and jigs. It is the intention of these two talented artists to appear at the next entertainment of the Dodge Social Club in which they will demonstrate to the people of Dodge that as amateurs they don't have to take a back seat for anybody.

Bill Meyers' little boy is quite sick.

Ed. Young is buying more cows, which we suppose means more dairy business.

Mr. Gerald Wilcox who is taking a mechanical engineer course at the O. A. C. at Corvallis has added geometry to his long list of studies.

In giving a neighbor some reading matter the other day he told us he just read three years "Apperl-To-Reason," knew all the issues of the PROGRESS by heart and had just started on Sears-Roebuck catalogue. We think it would be a good idea where people like to read as well as they do here to find out where and how a traveling library can be obtained. Maybe the PROGRESS will be kind enough to tell us.

Miss Mabel Francis has been re-engaged for another four months school.

Mr. Fred Horner, teacher of violin has opened a studio and has several pupils.

August and Barnard Schuenberg have re-built on their homestead on the Clackamas. Their cabins were destroyed by fire.

Neils Christerson has returned from Iowa after being gone nearly a year.

We cordially extend an invitation to the editor to this part of the country. We'll admit we are bachelors but that don't hinder us from setting a good table. We think with a good feed we can, maybe, coax the editor into getting the Estacada people interested in A. R. F. D. out our way.

Anton Habet has taken his cattle out of the mountains to the Gensorososki place.

To our Dodge Correspondent we desire to say that a good square meal now and then is a part of our living and we will be glad to accept his invitation to visit the Dodge country. Also to further the interests of its residents in any manner that the PROGRESS can aid in. If the Dodge people favorable to a rural route from Estacada will get up a petition for this purpose or a sufficient number indicates to this paper that it is their desire to have a free delivery, we will do our part in trying to circulate such petition, as we believe the interests of the people interested should be the moving spirit.—Ed.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

AT THE SHORE.

Where the opals meet the blues
In a line of bleeding hues
Circles low a sea gull gray,
Rising, dipping, for hours.

Little swelling ripples run,
Racing onward to the sun,
Glinting where the boats are moored
On the billows, spray embossed.

On the drifting canals I lie,
Every now and then I sigh,
Wishing Polly 'd turn her head,
Wondering why her ear is red.

Polly sits and pouts at me,
Just as sweet as she can be,
But she will not make reply
When I question her and sigh.

So I gently take her hand,
Trusting she will understand,
Gazing on her burning cheek,
Waiting for the girl to speak.

Where the opals meet the blues
In a line of bleeding hues
Polly gazes far away—
And she doesn't answer nay.

SPRINGWATER

Snow twenty-two inches deep, six degrees above zero and the roads are getting fairly well broken thus making it fine sleighing.

Mrs. Ora Lewellen Zell, of Prineville, and formerly of Springwater, has been in poor health for some time has become so ill that they have taken her to a hospital at the Dalles. At last reports she is some better.

George Lewellen of Morrow, made his parents a flying visit last week.

Owing to the snow and cold weather school has been dismissed for an indefinite time.

During last weeks' storm Miss Erma Shibley got caught away from home and did not get back for two days.

Is Taft Right or Wrong?

This will be of interest to our business men, farmers, laborers, and in fact to every citizen in the community. Wm. H. Taft is certainly an authority and his utterances have much weight. At Augusta, Ga., he spoke concerning the influences that make for a good civilization. "In his experiences in the North and South and in the Philippines, he said, he had been able to study many different phases of civilization, especially in the matter of church influences." "The indispensable presence of church influence in the improvment of our civilization no one can be blind to, who has shared in the slightest the responsibility for Government and the responsibility for improvement of a people as I have." The Pres. elect continues in speaking of America in general and of the Phillippines in particular by saying: "Without the moral influence of the churches we could not accomplish anything. It is that sort of experience by which there is borne in upon us the importance of the maintainance of a church and its influences at all hazards." The bove is quoted from the "Morning Oregonian" of the 6th inst.

Evidently Mr. Taft is not speaking of any denominational church for he recognizes as all must recognize that he speaks of pure and undefiled religion. Certainly he does not mean mere financial support given, though that is included; surely he does not mean the mere erection of church edifices, for a church may have a furnace in the basement, pews in the auditorium, and a bell in the tower and still be as useless as an old deserted log cabin; and evidently he does not mean the mere name of a church. What Mr. Taft has in mind is the vitalizing power given civilization by Christianity as evidenced by the Pilgrim fathers and the Quaker Friends who though they are dead yet speak; that power which makes for truth and righteousness in the home, in business, and in civic affairs. Gov. Hanley of Indiana calls this power a "live wire" and warns those who would pull it down With all the short-comings of the church, she is still the best institution on the face of the earth and is deserving of our moral support. The best civilization is none too good for Estacada. To attain unto it, something remains yet to be done. In this work no time or energy should be wasted in breaking down the denominational fences, but all should give hearty, loyal, and constant support. Let us as a community, having each our various callings in life, give attention to "this one thing." The cause of Christ is deserving of our allegiance. Some times our favorite church is emphasized more than Christ, Himself. This is wrong for the church is merely organized to carry forward His work. No man should shirk his responsibility for this only adds to the burdens of those making some effort. So far as we know only Mormons, Greek Catholics and Roman Catholics hold that those outside of their folds are forever lost. In this community suspicions of that kind should not be entertained. Emphasis should be placed upon Christian character rather than upon denominations. Whether Jew or Gentile he that truly serves God, loving Him with all his heart and his neighbor as himself is a true Christian no matter what church he belongs to. On the other hand he that does not do these things is not a true Christian of the highest type no matter what church or how many churches he may be a member of. The love of Christ should have the right of way in all our doings, and even the prejudiced should for the sake of their own welfare, ally themselves with the cause of Christianity. We believe Mr. Taft is right when he says: "The indispensable presence of church influence in the improvement of our civilization no one can be blind to.....without the moral influence of the churches we cannot accomplish anything."
