OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

FRIDAY, MARCH 3 1899.

Two batalions of the 2d Ore have been placed on the firing line at Manila,

The island of Negros, one of the Philippines, come voluntarily under the United States flag and asked the protection of American soldiers.

Since the first battle with the Philippino insurgesants Feb. 4th, there have been 83 Americans killed and 362 wounded. The Washington reg iment has lost most among the volunteers, 14 having been killed and 59 wounded. The fourteenth Infantry suffered most among the regulars, losing 14 killed and 35 wounded.

The Filipinos are striving for the recognition by some European government. Without such recognition the shipment of military supplies is somewhat dangerous. A captured expedition would apt to be treated as pirates. It is to be seen whether any of the European governments will be more disposed to recognize Aguinaldo now than when he was fighting Spain.

Admiral Dewey has asked for the battleship Oregon to be sent to Manila for political reasons. The big ship has been started on the way and is expected to be at Manila by the 10th inst. But why the department let that bit of news out is past comprehension, unless it is one of those "Grant dispatches" put out to fall purposely into the hands of the enemy. The Iowa will not be sent to the Philippines. She is in the repair shop at San Francisco, and will not be ready for sea under two months.

Eastern papers speak of the enmity growing up between Speaker Reed and the Adminisiration. It is really unfortunate that Mr. Reed allows anything of the kind to happen. He is a big man, but he will find that he is not big enough to antagonize the people of the United States. There are some measures receiving support of the administration that come from the people. If Mr. Reed antagonizes them he will have the real power of this government to contend against. He must remember that the people make men or at least give them their opportunity.

The democratic congressmen and senators had a war caucus in Washington this week. Gen. Wheeler who commanded at San Juan is said to have made a speech which differed from the prevailing view. He urged that nothing should be done which could be construed as a lack of support to our soldiers. The hands of the president should be upheld, he said, when fighting was going on. As a matter of expediency, also, he urged the party should not oppose the war. Wars were popular, he declared, and at the present time the spirit of the people is shown by the fact that every boy has his drum and sword, while the mothers are proud of his patriotic spirit.

Officials of the Burlington railroad are jubilant over the performance of that company's fast mail train between Chicago and Council Bluffs during the unprecedent cold weather of the first two weeks of February. The new schedule of the trans-continental mail is fastest on the 250-mile stretch between Lake Michigan and the Missouri River, where the Burlington mail trains cover nearly fifty miles an hour, including stops, or run at the rate of over a mile a minute with stops deducted. Despite the severity of the weather, which was the worst the West has ever known, the Burlington engineers landed the overland mail from the east at the Council Bluffs transfer on time every day save two, from February 1st to 17th, inclusive.

In a recent issue of "Kuhlow's German Trade Review and Exporter" this bit of testimony touches the excellence of American manufacturers was unwillingly given: "To make a good bottom to fine shoes not only machines but good leather is required which is scarce here; many of the German shoe manufacturers who have served their time in factories in the States say that our sole leather is not to be compared with the best grades of America, the scoured oak leather. I judge this is true; the shoe dealers who handle American shoes express themselves to this effect. If the duty of the 36 cents per 100 kilos should be abolished American oak sole leather would find a ready sale in this market and be gladly taken up by shoe manufacturers. By the use of quebracho the tanners in this country have learned to make a cheap pound of sole leather, but not suitable for better class shoes. The leather of this tannage is of specific heavy weight, hard, not flexible, buffs poorly and does not finish nearly as well as the American leather which is noticeable on the shoes imported."

EMBALMED BEEF.

Within the last decade the canning business has grown to great proportions. First it was fruit that was canned but afterward meats, especially beef was put in cans by the ton.

There are few of us who have not eaten of canned corn beef. We relish it too. But the experience in the army at Cuba and Porto Rico has not tendered to greatly promote the industry. Indeed the testimony before some of the military commissioners is very damaging. There may have been frauds in the packing houses, but it will take positive evidence to establish it. On the other hand there is good reasons for believing that the canned goods were honestly put up. The canneries were installed as commercial ventures, the product to be put on the general market where excellence alone can create a demand. The concerns are immense and built at a time when war with Spain was not expected. They were in operation and turning out their product before war was declared. The strife commenced late in April. No army of any magnitude was in camp till May. The Santiago campaign started in June. Its supplies had to be bought in May. They were bought then. The canneries did not put them up specially for the army. There was not time to do it. The commisary went into the open market, and bought canned beef that was put up for the trade before war was declared. It was canned to hold its place in the open market. Capitalists cannot afford to pile up millions of dollars for the purpose of putting a product on the market to defraud the consumer.

The meat canning business was a business venture undertaken after exhaustive experiments. What went to the army was honestly put up. If it proved to be bad it was due to causes other than fraud at the canneries. The investigations will probably show that a tropical climate is no place for canned meats. That experiment had not been before tried. It has proven to be an expensive one as most experiences are.

To prevent heartburnings and humiliations, Gen. Miles and the department should acknowledge the facts and say that meats canned and desirable for temperate and frigid climes completely failed in the tropics. Further, but little time should be given to those acknowledgements but let all energies be directed to devise a method for preparing meats that will endure the heats of the torrid zone. Now there is jerked venison and beef that is so sought after on the plains. It stands the summer temperatures of Colorado and Arizona, which are as high as the heats of Cuba. The unknown element is the humidity of the islands. Will jerked beef keep in a hot damp climate? We know it will remain stable in a hot dry climate. Who will try it in Cuba and the Philippines?

THE TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

That is a striking sentence in one of the President's speeches at Boston in which he says, referring more particularly to the Philippines: "We may regard the situation before us as a burden or an opportunity, but whether the one or the other, it is here, and conscience and civilization require us to meet it bravely." The words cover the vital bearing and demands of the question. A few persons are ready to give up the islands because they consider their possessions undesirable. The reason is unsound. It is, for one thing, the reverse of courageous. Running away from proper responsibility is not manly and is not likely to lighten it. All that has been done in the Philippines up to this time is bound together by a chain of absolute necessity. Dewey's achievements preserved our safety on the Pacific and struck Spain a fearful territorial blow. He held on to Manila because it demoralized the enemy, divided his forces and intensified the Spanish desire for peace. We demanded all the group because none could be turned back to Spain without inhumanity and speedy international complications. We are now at war with the Filipinos in self defense. They assaulted our lines in order to influence action on the treaty which is still incomplete.

Every step taken in the Philippines having been imperative and the fact being assured that we shall assert our rightful authority at every cost there is little to differ about except as to whether the cession presents an opportunity or imposes a burden. Several events there are substantially certain. We shall put down the armed opposition of the inhabitants. Whatever re-inforcement is needed to accomplish this will be promptly sent forward. Fresh troops and additional war ships are already near at hand. Another certainty is that no independent government will be set up. No basis exists for it. Those clamoring and fighting for it are mainly Spaniards and hybrid Spaniards. The native tribes are totally unfit to carry on a republic. What Aguinaldo and his chieftans are fighting for is power, not freedom. As much of civilized liberty as they can bear is tendered by the United States. There is a turbulent, revolutionary element near Manila that must be disciplined. Left to itself it would quickly bring about civil war and anarchy. The disgrace of such a condition would rest upon us unless we bravely fulfill the duties resulting from war and the acceptance of the treaty.

No doubt the great majority of the people will enforce the full performance of all obligations. And in cheerfully bearing the burden they will make the most of the opportunity. This country is expanding immensely in other directions than the colonies Spain has lost. We produce two-thirds more than we can consume. Our merchandise exports last year amounted to $1,254,925,000. In ten years our exports have grown 51 per cent and imports only 6 per cent. One fourth of our exports are of manufactured articles. We have passed England, Germany and France in the total of domestic goods exported. Entirely regardless of the war with Spain the laws of expansion have compelled us to look well to the Pacific as a great arena of coming commerce; and we have been subject to these same laws of growth, indeed, throughout our entire history. It is absurd to falter at the Philippines. We are there by the just operations of war and treaty, and the opportunities are fairly ours as well as the burdens. It is a poor sort of American who grows over a national duty and would throw away, at the same time, the legitimate advantages of victory.

THREE POWERS TO HUMILIATE THE UNITED STATES.

The San Francisco Post that first published the statement that the first Manila Expedition would capture the Ladrone Islands long before the event was known, and has printed several other forecasts of news that afterward proved true, has this remarkable paragraph. While it may be true and would cause us some anxiety, it does not disturb us greatly:

"Germany is planning a great coup d'etat that not only mens the aquisition of the Philippine islands by that government, but the defeat of the American policy of territorial expansion. A German officer told me that Russia and France had been drawn into a combination of the three powers, and that Russia is getting all the ships possible into the Pacific without exciting attention; that Germany is negotiating with Argentine and Chile for the purchase of three war vessels from each government. The last vessels will be manned by German officers and men, and will rendezvous at the Marshal Islands,

"When the proper time comes, the combined fleets of Germany, Russia and France will take possession of the Philippines under the pretext of restoring order and protecting the citizens and interests of those countries. The only feature to operate against this plan, it is argued, will be the action of England, and to combat this the attention of Great Britain will be taken up elsewhere."

Germany has ordered all her war ships away from the Philippines and entrusted the protection of her subjects to the United States. It is a proper thing to do.

The compromise army reorganization bill has been passed by both House and Senate. It provides for a standing army of 35,000 men and a volunteer force of 65,000 till 1901.

After-Effects of the GRIP

Grip is a treacherous disease. You think it is cured and the slightest cold brings on a relapse.

Its victims are always left in a weakened condition—blood impure and impoverished; nerves shattered. Pneumonia, heart disease and nervous prostration are often the result.

Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will drive every trace of the poisonous germs from the system, build up and enrich the blood and strengthen the nerves. A trial will prove this. Read the evidence:

When the grip last visited this section Herman H. Eveler, of 31 W. Main St., Jefferson, Mo., a well-known contractor and builder, was one of the victims, and he has since been troubled with the after-effects of the disease. A year ago his health began to fail, and he was obliged to discontinue work. That he lives to-day is almost a miracle. He says:

"I was troubled with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and a general debility. My back also pained me severely.

"I tried one doctor after another and numerous remedies suggested by my friends, but without apparent benefit, and began to give up hope. Then I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People extolled in a St. Louis paper, and after investigation decided to give them a trial.

"After using the first box I felt wonderfully relieved and was satisfied that the pills were putting me on the road to recovery. I bought two more boxes and continued taking them.

"After taking four boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People I am restored to good health. I feel like a new man, and having the will and energy of my former days returned, I am capable of transacting my business with increased ambition.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a wonderful medicine and any one suffering from the after-effects of the grip will find that these pills are the specific." H. H. EVELER.

Mr. Eveler will gladly answer any inquiry regarding this if stamp is enclosed.—From Chic Co. Democrat, Jefferson City, Mo.
