[illegible]

[illegible] Sergeant Major Gordon in his letter. They have been in the same battle on several different occasions at the same time, but did not know it till later and did not meet.

From Camp Lewis.

The following is just in receipt of the following letter from Harry A. Miller, who writes from Camp Lewis, under date of November 16:

I'm on my way home in a day or so, but can say to my sorrow that I am the only Coquille soldier who will return for some time to come.

When the news reached here (both times) of the signing of the armistice you can hardly imagine what happened.

We started out after daylight, just a half a dozen strong. Brooms, guns, cups, trophy sticks, were our instrument sticks. Half an hour later we ended up at Green Park by giving a tin can concert. By this time we had increased our number into the thousands. Now each and every night since the great date we have had from four to ten midnight quartets in each barracks, singing, instead of war songs, the old home songs. It sure makes a fellow itch in his skin to get back home.

The revolutionists are playing havoc in Russia, Austria and to some extent in Germany; they will sure have to be corralled, because they represent a population of over three hundred million people, who in case the revolutionists win out, would render of no account all we have just accomplished. For this reason and many others I look for most of our boys to remain in Europe for the next year or two.

At times in my life I have been half ashamed of being born in Oregon, but now, after visiting Washington and knowing positively the winter starts the last day of August and never does end before the 30th of the same month, I begin to appreciate my home state.

Last night I dreamed I had a picture of Coquille under my pillow; every now and then I'd get up, light a match and take another look at it. I dropped one of these imaginary matches on my blanket and set my bed on fire; it tickled me to death, as then by the blaze from my burning bed I could see the picture more clearly. I expect to be in Coquille in the next few days. Loyally—Harry A. Miller.

Chinook Salmon By The Ton

J. E. Walstrom, of the Central Transfer Co., brought a truck load of Chinook salmon up from Elk river in Curry county, Thursday that numbered one hundred and weighed 2500 pounds, cleaned and with heads removed, says the Bandon World. They had been caught by R. McKenzie and were taken to the Coquille Cannery Co.'s plant at Parkersburg. Some of the finest Chinook salmon on the coast run into Elk river, but it is seldom that 100 in a lot will average 25 pounds each dressed.

Heavy Suit for Damages.

Reports have it that Engineer Broughton who was employed as engineer in charge of the bridge construction on the Coos Bay line and who was injured when run down by a train in one of the tunnels, is about to bring suit for $15,000 damages. Claim agents for the Southern Pacific have been here collecting evidence to be used to defend the company, if the suit is brought. It was reported that the company made a friendly offer of $7,500 to settle but this was refused.—Coos Bay Harbor.

[illegible]

The war has not touched this place where we now are, except all the able-bodied men are gone. It is quite a rich village. We are in barracks, except myself, as battalion commander. I have a room in town with a very nice French family. They can speak a little English and treat me like one of the family.

The Colonel and I took two days' leave in Paris this past week. It is a wonderful city. I think the like does not exist any where else in the world.

I am feeling as fine as ever now. My nerves do not seem to be affected at all. As ever, your brother—George T. Gorman.

Major Gorman is first cousin of Will G. Barrow, and is a Major in an Ohio Regiment of the Rainbow Division. Will G. Barrow was in Co. M., of the 23rd Regiment, and was through all the fighting described by Major Gorman in his letter. They have been in the same battle on several different occasions at the same time, but did not know it till later and did not meet.

Fyfe-Wilson Co. Fined $200

A fine of $200 has been imposed upon the Fyfe-Wilson company, of Bandon, for operating an unlighted raft at Coos Bay. The raft was to have been taken to Bandon by Victor Wittick, of North Bend, but lay in the bay waters for several days and still is there. This is the first fine of this kind to be imposed by the local custom office.—Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Before using this preparation for a cough or cold you may wish to know what it has done for others. Mrs. O. Cook, Macon, Ill., writes, "I have found it gives the quickest relief of any cough remedy I have ever used." Mrs. James A. Knott, Chillicothe, Mo., says "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cannot be beat for coughs and colds." H. J. Moore, Ovul, Pa., says "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on several occasions when I was suffering with a settled cold upon the chest and it has always brought about a cure."
