N. H. Club Entertains.

One of the most pleasant parties given in Coquille occurred on the evening of the thirteenth when the N. H. Club entertained about seventy-five of their friends in Woodman Hall.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with ferns and apple blossoms and the club colors, black and white, were used effectively.

One corner of the room was devoted to a punch table, presided over by Emily Harlocker and Gretchen Sherwood.

Ten hands of progressive whist were played during the first part of the evening, and while the games were progressing selections of music were rendered by Gage's orchestra. The score cards were decorated with club emblem, skull and cross bones. Miss. Bessie Walker and Mr. A. N. Gould received the first prizes, a cut glass vase, and a fishing rod. Mrs. Chas. Baxter received one of the boobies, a small broom, and Mr. J. W. Leneve made much merriment with the large trumpet he was fortunate enough to secure.

A dainty lunch was served in the banquet room, after which the tables were cleared away and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

A delightful evening was enjoyed by all and the ladies of the N. H. Club are to be congratulated on their pleasing manner of entertaining.

M. C. Bingham has returned from Portland and is interviewing our people in regard to putting a steamer on the Coquille-Portland route. He finds the Portland people enthusiastically interested in the matter, and ready to take a large interest in a boat to take that run. They are of the opinion that the machinery can be put up by Portland, in case the hull can be furnished by the Coquille, a thing which seems to us would be an easy matter. Owing to the crowded conditions of our columns, we are unable to go into details this week, but in later issues we will give full information cencerning the project.
