Reflection on Woman Suffragists Resented.

WOMEN'S CLUB HAS DEBATE

One of Those Who Want to Vote Admits They Can't Get Along Without Men-Need of Improvement in City Jail.

Twentieth century problems for women occupied the attention of the Portland Woman's Club yesterday afternoon, and many clever addresses were made and bright ideas exchanged. A number of five-minute talks were scheduled for club members, and several visitors were also $1700.

sked to speak. Equal suffrage was unanimously agreed upon as the principal question of the day where women are concerned. Dr. Thompoclaimed that women only wanted the same privileges as men-that they al-ready had the same rights. Others ex-pressed similar sentiment, and it is evi-werking with this end in view.

Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway was first called to the floor by the president, but she preferred to hear other speakers first and called out Mrs. Henry W. Coe. When Mrs. Coe stood on the platform Mrs. Coe stood on the platform Mrs. Duniway announced that she wished to prove by Mrs. Coe that all believers in man's suffrage were not old and ugly "old Mrs. Duniway," as she styled self. This caused much amusement. Mrs. Coe spoke of the days when the night of a woman in a short skirt or riding a wheel caused a commotion upon the streets, and the changes since then; of the necessity of women in church and schools and their future in politics. That a woman's home life need not be neglected by such work was flustrated by a refer-ence to the fine family Mrs. Duniway had raised while interested in public life.
"I want it understood," said Mrs. Coe in conclusion "that I am not on the fence in this movement, but a woman suffragis on the ground up!" Can't Dispense With Men.

Dr. Thompson in her brief remarks de-ciared that the women liked the men and could not get along without them, but also said:

The salvation of a nation depends upon s women." Mrs. Millie Trumble spoke of the future of our children as a problem now con fronting us, their present care being a matter which she considers should have more attention. Conditions in the city jail were touched upon and the necessity for arters outside the regular jail for the ent of boys and girls was discussed in full. 'We can't vote, but we can create entiment which will do the work and ring about reforms," she declared. Miss Isom, the public librarian, gave a most interesting and well-delivered ad dress upon the present condition and work of the library and the plans for its im-provement. Miss isom said that the inration for a public library came from the Woman's Club, and that she felt the club would be interested in what it was accomplishing. The Art Association is to vacate its present quarters in the build ing to make more room for the books, but the pictures will be missed. The edu-cational value of art was elaborated upon, especially in connection with the chil-

Needs Whitewash Inside, Too.

Miss Gertrude Metcalfe read extracts from two unpublished reports of health officers, and made several suggestions whereby the individual members of a woman's club could assist in keeping up the standard of the city's appearance. Conditions in the city jail were also in-cluded in Miss Metcalfe's remarks. The new coat of clean white paint on the out-side of this jail was referred to as a satire, inasmuch as the inside is anything but The utter lack of ing facilities, even so much as a basin for the face and hands, brought up many expressions from determined women who intend to make some movement against Mrs. R. L. Sabin's address on the 20th ntury haby and his education was one of the best heard in the club for some time, and was listened to with an inter-est that could not be otherwise than flat-fering to the speaker. Mrs. Sabin has been teacher in Eastern schools and knew subject well. She understood just what schools here needed and how to tell it, and her address was most heartfly ap-

Others who spoke were: Mrs. E. P. Prazier, Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. Rose Hoyt and Mrs. Duniway. After the various city officials who are held to blame for the objectionable features in the city's man-agement including Chief Hunt, had been scored rather soundly. Mrs. Duniway told a very appropriate and amusing story of a lot of mice trying to put a bell on a cat which was causing them trouble and annoyance. The question was, "how are we going to get the bell on him." Mrs. Duniway thought the question applied to these city officials.

Vocal music was furnished by Mesdames McMann and Grimes. The next meeting of the club, which occurs February 12, will be a musicale.

Stock Stand the Winter Well.

LA GRANDEL Or., Jan. 22.—(Special.)— The third beavy snow of the season fell here yesterday, and is general over the Valley, with several feet of snow in the moustains. Last year there was a very prudent and thrifty reverend gentleman living in Southern Oregon. He procured from us two of our certificates of deposit, payable on 90 days' call, with interest at 4 per cent per annum. A short time ago one of these certificates came back to us from New York City. The reverend gentleman had made an investment, and he found that his certificate was as good as cash to make payment for the same.

It is always good to have your money for the same.

It is always good to have your money drawing interest until you find a permanent investment. Call on us and let us give you further examples of how these certificates

White is Fast Improving BAKER CITY, Or., Jan. 22—(Special.)— Jerry C. White, who was shot by Colonel
W. F. Butcher last week, is fast recovering from his wounds. The ball that entered his neck, inflicting the most serious wound, has not been located, but as it'is not giving the patient any trouble, the physicians have concluded not to hunt for it.

Mr. White will be able to be certified.

ANGRY WIVES ON THE TRAIL OF "JANE"=

husband in the Chamber of Com-merce building yesterday. "I got it in the m merce building yesterday. "I don't know who this Jane is."

"And," stormed his indignant wife, as she waved a dainty and be-monogramed letter beneath the nose of her shrinking spouse. "I don't know who knows if you don't."

Then she wept. "How could you? Oh, how could you don't."

"I didn't; honest, I didn't," repeated the anxious husband, conscious that this time at least he was absolutely innocent.

"Then," snapped the injured lady in a wice which savored of cracked lee, "how "Oh, joy!" interrupted the first victim. "Did she write to you, too?"

anxious husband, conscious that this time at least he was absolutely innocent. "Then," snapped the injured lady in a voice which savored of cracked ice, "how did she come to write you such a loving letter? It speaks for itself." It did. Indeed it did. Silent and con-demnatory, eloquent of previous transession it lay on the desk before them: My Dear-As it has been quite a while since we last met. I am cortainly rather diffident about writing, but I know from the way you so theroughly enjoyed those few short hours—or at least most cleverly pre-tended to—that when you recall them—and me—you will not then think me bold or tended to—that when you recall them—and me—rou will not then think me bold or unladylike. Remember you called me "a real good felider." Hut said you wouldn't healtate to introduce your wife or sister, and, in fact, would be glad to.

66B UT." expositulated a bewildered Now I am going to be in the city all week, and would be more than charmed to renew old friendships.

"Oh, joy!" Interrupted the first victim.
"Did she write to you, too?"

"Then you know her?" said the friend.
"No, but I'd like to right away," cried victim No. 1, and after much cogitation and investigation they found that "Jane" was purely impersonal, merely the name of a play to be produced at a local theater next week, and the letters nothing more serious than a clever advertising idea of "the man in a glass house." Thousands of them had been mailed. Every second man on the street had received one.
