EXAMINING MANY CLAIMS

Soil Experts and Foresters in the Sisters Country.

(The Sisters Herald.)

J. Roy Harvey, formerly forest supervisor of this district, and Adolph Nilson arrived in Sisters last Friday with a crew of men and after outfitting went to the head of the Metolius where they were met by four soil experts from the O. A. C. at Corvallis and took up the task of making a thorough examination of the soils in that locality for the purpose of determining their value for agricultural purposes.

The first work to be done will be the examination and testing of the soil on the 50 or more claims that applications were made for last fall. The timber will also be cruised on these claims as there is a difference in figures between the applicants and the forestry service as to the amount of timber on them. The work as mapped out will last all summer and will cover all of the land of an agricultural nature in that part of the reserve as well as a cruise of all timber that did not come under the cruise made last summer.
