THE CATTLE & HORSE RAISERS' ASSOCIATION

Secretary Suggests Holding The Next Meeting of Executive Committee In Burns June 14, Provided Local Stockmen Show Encouragement. It is a State Wide Organization

The manager of The Times-Herald had occasion to write to S. O. Correll, secretary of the Cattle & Horse Raisers' Association, recently and upon receipt of his reply found the executive committee of the Association has this city under consideration for its next meeting place on June 14. Mr. Correll states in his letter that he had written members in this vicinity relative to this matter to ascertain the feeling of local stockmen.

The Times-Herald knows of but few members of the association in this immediate vicinity, but it has followed the workings of the organization since its inception and has urged the benefit upon local stockmen. It feels, without consulting with the stock growers of the county, that it is safe in extending a hearty invitation to the executive committee of the Cattle & Horse Raisers' Association of Oregon to hold their meeting here on June 14 and assure them a hearty welcome from stockmen. Such a meeting would bring about a greater membership in the organization by bringing the benefits of the association directly to the attention of the stockmen who have so far been unable to acquaint themselves with its aims.

Following is a portion of Mr. Correll's letter:

At our last meeting the place for holding the next meeting of the executive committee on June 14, was left open; the majority of the committee being in favor of holding the meeting at Burns if the stockmen of that vicinity cared to have it held there and are sufficiently interested to attend the meeting.

I have written some of our members in your vicinity relative to this matter but so far have not had time to hear from them.

Our association was organized and is being conducted for the protection of the cattle and horse growers and the general advancement of the industry. No grower can afford to be without its protection. Local organizations can, and do, oftentimes accomplish much good, but they are not able to maintain inspectors in such yards as Portland where the greatest amount of good is accomplished.

The inspector that we have employed in the Portland yard continuously since January 1914, has recovered enough cattle and horses for the members of the association to many times pay the expenses of the association.

Do not understand that the executive committee requires that it have any promises of membership in order to hold this meeting in Burns, but it does desire to have some assurance that a goodly number of the stockmen of that vicinity will attend the meeting.

The members of the committee work without compensation and pay their own expenses, hence you can readily see, do not care to make a long trip into a vicinity where the growing of livestock is one of the principal industries, if the growers do not care to meet them.

We shall be pleased to hear from you and have your views as to whether or not this meeting is desired.

ANOTHER DISASTROUS FIRE VISITS THIS CITY

Origin of Conflagration Thought to be Incendiary. Loss Estimated About $35,000. G. W. Clevenger, J. C. Welcome & Son, Dr. J. W. Geary, Dr. Brown, Paul Locher Losers

Fire was discovered in the back part of G. W. Clevenger's furniture store last Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. The flames were breaking through the roof when discovered and the blaze spread so rapidly that before the firemen could get the apparatus in work it was beyond control with the result that the entire block adjoining The Times-Herald building was destroyed, the flames communicating to building across the street where three others were destoyed and others injured. In all it is estimated that between $32,000 and $35,000 worth of property was destroyed, partially covered with insurance.

Several are confident the fire was of an incendiary origin as there had been no fire in the building during the day and no one had been in the back part for several hours. To some of those who were first on the scene it appeared the back window was open with a ladder leaning against the outside wall. Of course there is always more or less excitement at such a time and people may be mistaken. Mrs. Clevenger was returning home from church when the alarm was turned in, Mr. Clevenger being at home sick. She did not have any keys but upon reaching the front door she found two young men trying to get in to save what they could and she told them to break the door in. Upon entering she turned on the lights and went at once to a drawer where she had left her purse in which was $30 in currency, two small checks and a little silver. She found the purse empty and therefore believes the back of the store was entered through the window, which had been seen open, and her purse robbed. It is possible the robber lighted a match to see his way out and threw it down in some excelsior or other rubbish that was in the back part. There had been no fire in that part of the store for over two weeks according to Mr. Clevenger.

They had an immense stock of furniture, carpets, wall paper, caskets, paints, roofing, graniteware, etc., and there was but little saved. The loss is estimated by Mr. Clevenger at about $23,000 and was covered by $15,000 insurance.

The fire spread rapidly to the J. C. Welcome & Son harness shop and it was by heroic effort that anything was saved from this building, although considerable stock was gotten out, some of it was stolen. The loss to the Welcomes is estimated at something like $5,000 and $3,000 insurance.

Dr. J. W. Geary's office was next and right against The Times-Herald building. They succeeded in getting out most of his office equipment, his account books and other valuable books but the building and considerable furniture and such equipment as was not gotten out could not be replaced for $1200 which is a total loss.

The only damage to The Times-Herald building is glass and casings. Some rather expensive plate glass was broken, but the loss and damage will not likely exceed $600 which is fully covered by insurauce.

The greatest individual loss on the opposite side of the street was sustained by Paul Locher who lost three buildings and others damaged. One building was occupied by a restaurant, a Chinaman who was burned out in the fire last August had it rented. He succeeded in getting out considerable of his furniture but lost some. Besides the three buildings Mr. Locher had other places injured and estimates his loss at about $2,000 with $600.

Dr. W. C. Brown's dwelling and office suffered considerable damage, the roof of the building and the furniture. This portion of his property was covered by insurance but his most serious loss was out buildings, a store house, woodshed, chicken house, etc. In his store house he had considerable provisions besides extra clothing, carpenter tools and other material. This is a total loss but the furniture, bedding, etc. in the dwelling and office were covered by insurance.

In addition to the losses enumerated there was considerable damage such as telephone poles and lines, many phones being put out of commission and the cost of replacing the wire, poles, etc. will amount to considerable. The same with the Electric light plant, although the latter not nearly so great as in the fire last August. The Electric Light system was so far repaired that it furnished light Thursday night and the Telephone lines were put in order just as rapidly as it was possible for workmen to do it.

It was certainly great the way everyone took hold of the situation and fought to save property

Chamber of Commerce Representative to Tour

(From Our Portland Correspondent)

The work of consolidating the commercial and civic bodies of Portland having been completed, the New Chamber of Commerce is preparing to have a representative visit every city in the state where there is a commercial organization for the purpose of offering every assistance to make its work more effective. Any organization which desires the co-operation of this body in any matter pertaining to the development of its own town or its particular section of the state, is requested to immediately notify the Chamber of Commerce and we will co-operate with them in every possible way. We are preparing to send out a man, not for the purpose of securing more members for our own organization, but to make an effort to bring about closer relations between Portland and the cities and counties of the state. The plan is being developed and dates will be arranged in accordance with the demands of the cities desiring the co-operation of this organization.

From Washington comes the welcome tidings that the rivers and harbors of the Pacific Northwest have received an unexpectedly generous share of the $30,000,000 appropriated for work of that class. The total sum set aside for this section is $9,927,175, of which $1,500,000 is to be devoted to completing the improvements at the mouth of the Columbia. With the Celilo Canal open to traffic and a clear deep channal across the Columbia Bar, the entire Columbia Valley is certainly in line for a long period of prosperity.

After the formal opening of the Celilo Canal, the steamers Bailey Gatzert and Dalles City will maintain a regular service between Portland and The Dalles, while a through service to the head of navigation will be given by the steamers State of Washington, J. N. Teal, Twin Cities and Inland Empire.

Teachers' Reading Circle Course

To Teachers: If you wish to teach school next year, you should read one of the following books during this school year. The law requires that any teacher who registers her certificate between the third Monday in June, 1914, and the third Monday in June, 1915, must satisfy the county superintendent that she has read one of these books. See Section 24, School Laws of Oregon, 1913. Teachers who read one of these books last year, should read a different book this year. The Oregon State Library, Salem, has a limited number of copies of each book. These will be loaned to teachers, the only expense being the postage, which would amount to from 22 to 26 cents. The books may be secured, postpaid, from the J. K. Gill Co., Portland, or from the publishers.

RABIES CAUSES ORDER FOR QUARANTINING

State Board Declares Prevalence of Disease Demands Special Precautions. Now Confined to Central and Eastern Sections of State but Spread is Feared Unless Resistance is Active

A late dispatch from Salem says: To prevent the spreading of rabies, the State Livestock Sanitary Board, at a meeting held here today, issued an order placing 11 counties under quarantine. It was announced that the disease had been communicated by coyotes to horses, dogs cats and other animals in the eight counties in the eastern part of the state. The counties included in the quarantine are Lake, Harney, Crook, Baker, Umatilla, Malheur, Wheeler and Union, where rabies prevails, and Multnomah, Clackamas and Jackson, to which it is feared the disease may spread.

The order requires that all dogs, unless used in herding livestock, be muzzled. State Veterinarian Lytle, who attended the meeting, said that all violations of the quarantine would be punished to the fullest extent of the law, the penalties being fines from $50 to $100 for each offense. Mr. Lytle announced that all peace officers would be called upon for assistance in enforcing the order.

The veterinarian declared that conditions were especially alarming in Lake County, rabid coyotes and dogs running the range in large numbers. He said that many cattle and a number of persons had been bitten there.

"We shall try to get the city authorities of Portland to enforce the order there," continued Dr. Lytle. "It will require that dogs be muzzled, and, when on the street, in leash. The board will see that it is enforced in Multnomah County outside the city.

"Stock owners have suffered severely in eastern counties. The situation is especially hard for the poor homesteaders, where some of them have lost their only cow through being bitten by a hydrophobic coyote or dog. Even cats are becoming afflicted with the diseased and they are being killed by fear stricken owners."

May 10, the anniversary of the discovery of the Columbia River by Capt. Gray, has been set aside by the management of the Panama-Pacific Exposition as "Columbia River Day." The observance of this anniversary will come as a fitting climax to the week-long celebration of the opening of the Celilo Canal.

Unless present plans are materially changed, the new Portland Postoffice building, to cost $1,000,000, will be in course of construction within the next 60 days and the architect has promised that it will be completed within fourteen months. It will take the form of a big, fine office building, every part of which will be occupied by the Government, the first building of its kind in the United States.
