The little lady lived with her grandparents here for some time and she has many former school mates who extend her a hearty welcome.

George Kleine's latest offering, "Bartered Lives," which visits the Levens Theatre on Wednesday the 30th is a story of adventure in the great capitols of Europe. The subject is in four parts and features that beautiful artiste, Miss Marie Hesperia, who in this picture does the best work of her extraordinary career. Miss Hesperia plays a dual role impersonating her sister and herself, an histrionic feat as difficult to the artist as it is interesting to the observer. In many of the scenes of the story she is seen conversing with herself in the guise of her sister. To do this properly, is to be thoroughly familiar with the possibilities and limitations of the motion picture camera. Throughout the entire four reels Miss Hesperia shows herself a master of the delicate intricacies of the double-exposure art.
