Russians Hemmed In

London, April 28—Reuters' Chee Foo correspondent wires that the Japanese have occupied Kuliencheng on the right bank of the Yalu river, to the south of Antung. Such a move is highly important from a strategical standpoint, as it would mean that they have the Russian forces on the Yalu hemmed in on three sides. In front would be the main force of the Japanese, to the east and northeast forces of the Japanese are known to have crossed the Yalu Monday and Tuesday, and on the west is the force now reported to have occupied Kuliengcheng.

Japanese Repulse

London, April 28—The Central News' Lio Yang correspondent says there has been no fighting on the Yalu since Tuesday. Supplementing the dispatch regarding the engagement of that day, he says: "The Japanese advancing on Turen Cheng encountered the Russian forces.

"The Japanese received a hot fire from a Russian battery, and gave but slight resistance. They then retreated in disorder upon the next village, where the men dispersed, taking refuge in the houses."

Scouts Exchanging Shots

London, Apr. 28—The Central News Tokio correspondent states that the latest news from the Wiju is to the effect that the Russian and Japanese scouts are constantly exchanging shots, the Russians attempting without success to draw the Japanese from the position the latter have taken. The inclement weather delays Japanese operations.

Sunk With the Transport

St Petrsburg, Apr. 28—An official dispatch reports that on the twenty-fifth two Russian torpedo boats blew up a Japanese transport at Gensan, Korea. The transport carried a cargo of four hundred tons of rice and military stores, fifteen hundred tons of coal four Hotchkiss guns, seventeen officers and twenty men and eighty-five coolies. Sixty five sailors were captured. The other Japanese officers and men resisting were sunk with the transport.

Kishiu Maru Sunk

St. Petersburg, April 28—The transport sunk was Kishiu Maru, four thousand tons. Admiral Yezzen's official report fails to number the drowned. The ship may have carried troops, in which event several hundred must have been lost.

Wonderful Combustable

St Petersburg, Apr. 28—The Port Arthur correspondent of the Russki Invalid says the Japanese have invented a new combustable which is inextinguishable. They tried to burn the battleship Retvizan by setting adrift rafts loaded with the burning material. The battleship sank with rafts of the combustable which continued to burn under water.

A force of the enemy on an island in mid stream fled. Tuesday a hundred Russian cavalrymen attacked a Japanese launch. A torpedo boad replied and the enemy fled to the mountains.

Havana, Apr. 28—An Anarchist today attempted to assassinate Civil Governor Nunez. He is a Cuban named Villalonga and is believed to be insane. He claimed that he had orders from Roosevelt to intervene in the government of Cuba.
