Architect Uses Buildings From Vanport In Apt.

Buildings salvaged from the Vanport flood will be used in construction of a planned 442 unit apartment project now under construction on Canyon road at Mulberry Lane, near Lambert's restaurant, declares Robert Warren of North Portland, architect and supervisor of the job.

"If you know how to take them down," Warren states, "you can salvage at least 85% from Vanport buildings. Celotex and sheet rock are high in recovery as are windows and doors. The lumber is of first quality."

Present goal in construction, Warren relates, is for 16 one-bedroom units. Each will include a living room, kitchen, breakfast nook ,bedroom, bath and closet. Provision is made for entrance in the front and at the rear. Both living room and bed room will be finished in hardwood.

Warren points out that as soon as the state okays specifications he intends to begin installation of a septic tank to handle a 3500 gallon system.

Although plans still call for 42 apartment units, Warren intimates there might be changes made to permit the inclusion of certain commercial facilities to serve the neighborhood.

Lewis And Clark Adds Course For Teacher Training

LEWIS AND CLARK COLLEGE, Portland, March 31—With Oregon school officials facing a teacher shortage of some 8000 teachers during the next ten years, college officials this week announced plans to add a four-year elementary education course to its present teacher-training program beginning next fall.

Anticipatng the recent approval by the state legislature and the governor of a bill to permit liberal arts colleges to offer elementary teacher training, the college this semester has already set up new courses on an experimental basis to give better preparation to young teachers, some of whom have already found employment in Portland elementary schools for next fall.

Plans to expand faculty, library and laboratory facilities and curriculum designed to meet the standards to be adopted by the state board of education should assure Lewis and Clark of full accreditation in this field, according to Dr. Morgan S. Odell, president.

Norblad Would Exempt Some in Admission Taxes

Washington, D. C.—Rep. Water Norblad (R-Ore) has introduced legislation to exempt religious, school, and charitable entertainments from payment of admission tax.

"Church and school programs provide their only method of raising money for many worthy causes and we should encourage rather than discourage this type of entertainment," Norblad said.

"The revenue raised from this source is trivial while the burden this tax places on these non-commercial entertainments is very material to most of them. '

Late Report News

The Oregon City—Beaverton baseball game, announced on the sports page as postponed to April 28, suffered another schedule change, according to announcement from Beaverton high school that the game would be played at Sherwood on Wednesday, April 6.

Originally scheduled for April 5, the game was first postponed because of the unavailability of the Oregon City ball diamond, where it was to have been played.

Thrift idea:
LET'S HAVE CORNED BEEF & CABBAGE

3 to 4-lb. boneless corned beef
½ clove of garlic (optional)
1 medium size head of cabbage
4 onions
4 carrots
4 medium size potatoes (optional)

Wipe corned beef with a damp cloth and tie to keep it in shape. Place it in cold water to cover. Add garlic, salt and pepper. Bring it to the boiling point, remove the scum, reduce the heat, cover the pot and simmer the meat for 3 to 4 hours or until it is tender. Peel, quarter and add for the last hour of cooking the carrots, onions and potatoes. Cut cabbage into wedges and add for the last 10 to 15 minutes of cooking. Serve beef on platter surrounded by the vegetables. Serves 4 to 6.
