The county court is making a move in the right direction on the road proposition. If their plan is carried out this county may see better roads in the near future. There is a decided move in all parts of the state toward better roads, and it is high time that the move is made, too. While the condition of Oregon's roads are no worse than those of other states still they are bad enough, and each year there is work enough done—if it was only done right—to make much better roads than we now have. Many counties in this state have adopted the money tax system—that is, the road tax is paid in money the same as other taxes—and the road work is paid for by the county in cash. Thus all the roads of the county are under the supervision of one man, and what work is done on the roads is done in a systematic way, and better and more substantial work is sure to be the result. There is no subject at the present time receiving more attention than that of better roads, and Linn county should at once make a decided effort to construct and maintain better roads. With the present prospects of a greatly increased population we can ill afford to do otherwise.

It is now definately settled that the Oregon boys at Manila will be the first to arrive home. Troops are now on the way to relieve them. They have filled honorably a very important position at those far away islands, and many of them gave up their lives in the performance of their duty, and those of them who still remain should be the first to be relieved and sent home. It is a settled fact than when they again trod webfoot soil they will be tendered a reception that will surpass anything seen in our state for some time. They deserve it, and should have it. Let it be a rouser.

In all propability the Oregon legislature will be asked to enact a law providing for a bounty of $1 per ton on all the sugar beets raised in the state for the next five years. Such a bill was introduced at the special session by a member who was elected on the union ticket last June, and the platform of that ticket advocated retrenchment and legislative economy. What kind of economy would they call the payment of from twenty-five to thirty thousand dollars per year for the benefit of a wealthy corporation.

W. H. Magers who was convicted at Dallas last week of the crime of murder, has been sentenced to hang on February 3, 1899. Thus the counties of Lane, Linn and Polk, all three have a condemed man within the walls of their county jails, awaiting the hour to arrive when they will give up their lives in payment for a crime committed against the laws of the land and of the creator.

There is some talk of Hon. Binger Hermann being tendered a place in McKinley's cabinet. The people of Oregon as a whole would delight in such a state of affairs because of the fact that Hermann is a staunch friend to Oregon and its people, and the appointment would simply be a recognition of his qualifications and fitness for so high a position.

The Senator, the official organ of the Knights of Pythias, of this state and the Pacific Odd Fellow an advocate of the principals of the three linkers did us the honor to reproduce our article on the benefits of fraternal orders, in which we cited the death of J. B. Yarbrough, in this city, as a fitting example.

Lebanon is going to ask the legislature to allow it to levy a six mill tax instead of three as at the present time. Lebanon tried Prohibition, but there was not sufficient revenue to keep the wheels going, and the last election resulted in the defeat of the Prohibition ticket.

Albany is going to ask the legislature to amend its charter so that its taxes will be collected by the county officials the same as the other cities in the state. Its a good move and one that should have been in vogue long ago.

Over one million pounds of freight was received at the West Scio station, during the month of October. This is not slow for a small shipping point on a branch road.

Linn county received a total of twenty-one out of 127 premiums awarded this state by the Omaha exposition.

Now the treaty is signed the United States and Spain can be assigned adjoining seats at the Czar's peace congress.

The Archbishop of Manila will be recalled to Rome on account of his opposition to Americans in the Philippines.

Mrs. Petrulla Durham has won a verdict for $155,000 in Chicago, and says she will give $75,000 to the Salvation Army.

Senators voting against the ratification of the treaty will be accused of wanting to reopen the war and take in the Canaries.

Our new possessions will quickly be put in shape to pay their way. The Nicaragua Canal also may be expected to do that.

Senator Vest thinks there is a limit to the spread of the American eagle but the Senator may have some other game in mind.

Aguinaldo's name is not in the message and if he is sensible he will conduct himself so as not to need presidential mention.

The air ship has been sighted again, which warrants the inference that Spain is making preperations to recruit another navy.

There are many indications that Weyler and Don Carlos will come to blows before a devision of that $20,000,000 can be agreed upon.

Havana is ready and anxious for the American occupation. It is looking forward with pleasure to getting its money's worth in dealing with a public officer.

There is no longer an impression at Madrid that the chief Yankee characteristic is commercialism, Sevesal other points worth considering have been discovered.

Senator Lodge says "Isolation in the United States has been a habit, not a policy." It may be added that expansion also has been a habit, and frequently illustrated.

Many members of the volunteer regiments sent to Cuba have re-enlisted in the regular army. The fault finders are more numerous in political than in army circles.

Spain is distrustful now of the intentions of Engisnd. Its Minister at London should be advised to keep cool, neither dodging communications nor asking for his passport.

Gum chewing is undoubtly one of the greatest sins of the age. A Minnesota bandit insists that it is responsible for all of his crimes, and his catalogue shows that he is right up to date.

In a hundred years in the United States has grown from thirteen states to forty-five. The expansion of the past is by no means a slight thing to contemplate, and everybody is satisfied that it was right and advisable.

Of 750 food and drug samples analyzed by the state authorities in New Jersey 208 were found to be adulterated. The people of the United States are far behind the English in protecting themselves from this dangerous form of fraud.

A unique will just probated in Washington, Pa., is that of Jerome Plummer. His entire estate, valued at $75,000, after the death of his wife, is to be sold and the income used exclusively for the cause of temperance in Washington County.

Secretary Long, of the navy, has written a letter to Capt. Whitney, who commanded the Monadnock on the voyage from San Francisco to Manila, in which he praises the courage of all on board the iron-clad. Capt. Whitney's report of the voyage has been received by the Navy Department.

Two Pointed Questions Answered.

What is the use of making a better article than your competitor if you can not get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better, so that while our profits may be smaller on a single sale they will be much greater in the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

This explains the large sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The people have been using it for years and have found that it can always be depended upon. They may occasionally take up with some fashionable novelty put forth with exaggerated claims, but are certain to return to the one remedy that they know to be reliable, and for coughs, colds and croup there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by Peery & Peery.

One of the most difficult problems confronting Spain in the last days of her occupation of Cuba is that of return of bonds given by civil officials and employs upon ceasing to hold office. All such moneys have been appropriated and expended.

Miss Lucy Withers, a pretty school teacher of Golden, Kan., made a wager with Harold Owens, a young ranchman, of 1000 kisses against $1000 worth of live stock that Jerry Simpson would be returned to Congress. Mr. Owen is going to receive the kisses at the rate of twenty a week.

Score of match between Jaunawshy and Showalter is, Jaunawshy, 4; Showalter, 2; draws, 3.

Numbers of the Portland chess club are not yet through with their tournament; scores will be given as soon as possible.

The French Government is reported to have resolved to take up the case of the French holders of Cuban bonds, and it is believed France will declare that the repudiation of the bonds is the result of the treaty which the victorious nation imposed upon Spain. They argue that through the treaty, responsibility has been shifted on America, and therefore the French Government will endeavor to exact some pledge for the payment or guarantee of the bonds.

HOME EDUCATION.

The Influences Which Make Men and Women Well Bred or Otherwise.

"What is born and bred in a man sticks to him," is a saying more wise than elegant. We have all met the woman, costly attired, flowery of speech, genial of manner, yet lacking the essential charm of a lady—that charm which can no more be analyzed and described than can the scent of the rose, but which we feel through all our being when we are in the presence of its owner, be she talking or silent, grave or gay. It is born and bred in her. It is not put on with her evening gown or laid aside with the same. It is the manly tenderness of her father and the womanly grace and virtue of her mother blended with the daughter's life current—it is her home education.

The smile, the graceful inclination, the quick solicitude of another's comfort, the quick eye and the firm, gentle hand are all part of herself, seen by her with baby eyes, learned unconsciously, and therefore never to be forgotten. She is as different from her neighbor Lady Show as the rose is from the dandelion. Some like dandelions. All love the roses.

Lady Show is lovable, too, but she shows her early training. She is lovable because she does not try to conceal her early training, thereby becoming stiff and unnatural and didactic and horrid.

As with women, so with men. We all know the self-important little man with the large visiting card and the still larger display of "good form, don't you know." He tells us that he is "self-made." He is wealthy and at the top of the ladder, else be sure we would not tolerate him for one minute. This energy is to be commended. "Nothing succeeds like success." Yet we shrink from him. We remember the poor fellows, the good fellows, whom he jostled and crushed down and stamped on before he reached the top of the ladder. We do not want our sons to be like the little man in aught save his success. This little man has had a selfish, brutal father and a patient, hard-working mother. Selfishness and patient toiling were born and bred in him. His early education at home was rude and incomplete. He is not to be blamed too much that he has no fine feeling now.

Next comes Lord Show, stout, florid, good-natured and good-hearted, all except a gentleman. He is lovable, too, but he shows his early training. His father was a country gentleman of easy-going habits who married a third-rate actress while he was under the influence of wine. He knew none of the sweetness of a refined home life. He is not to be blamed too much.

Along comes a gentleman. He has not walwed over anyone to get on faster himself, and he shows it in the easy grace and dignity of his bearing. In the kind glance of his eyes as well as in the pleasant voice and reverence for women, be they worthy or not. The gentleman was born and bred among sweet, good women. He cannot bear to think that they are not all angels. His father was a man of noble aim in life—his mother, well, she was your and my ideal lady. "What is born and bred in a man sticks to him." The education of the home is indelibly stamped on the children of the home. The home may not be rich in costly furniture, but it should be immaculately clean, and beauty of manners and beautiful thoughts and words and actions and beautiful daily living should all be there.

If the best china is not used every day, how can you expect your sons and daughters to handle china gracefully by and by? If the parlors are not used every day how can you expect your children to be easy in the parlors by and by? "Men are only boys grown tall." They keep their boyhood manners. The finest things of earth are not too fine for home use. The sweetest behavior in the world is not too good for home use—for father, mother, son and daughter, wife and child. They are the ones we love best. Let us give them our best behavior.—N. Y. Times.
