FOR THE FARMER

A lot of horses sold at Island City Oregon, a few days ago at $4.00 per head.

The corn crop of the United States has turned out to be much smaller than was expected.

A. B. Conley, the wheat farmer of Union county, Oregon, has sowed 2000 acres of winter wheat.

The price of butter has advanced at San Francisco and fancy creamery is quoted at 26 to 28 cents per pound.

Mr. H West of Scappoose, Oregon sold a lot of apples last week to a Portland commission house at a dollar a box.

"New potatoes have already made their appearance in Portland. This seems to be rather crowding the season of 1899.

Clover, cut fine, and soaked over night is highly recommended as an addition to the ration of hens at this time of the year.

Prof. Jno. A. Craig will bring out a car load of Shropshire sheep to Oregon early next season. These sheep will be exhibited at the Wool Grower's Convention at Pendleton.

This is the time of year when ganders and roosters are "eating their heads off". In fact the sooner the heads are off all the surplus males in flock the better the flock will pay.

More profit can be had from cheap structures for the poultry, and then the hens will be just as happy and just as busy in them. Costly houses are not a necessary part of the poultry business.

Mr. M. O. Lownsdale of Lafayette, Oregon, is said to have on hand 10,000 boxes choice winter apples, for which he has refused an offer of $1 per box. It is also said that 98 per cent of his apples this year were free from worms.

One of the editors of the Rural New Yorker has concluded from personal observations that a hen can make 90 per cent of her living out of a good field of crimson clover. Hens are also very fond of fresh tender blue grass.

More food of the same kind, given at long and irregular intervals, will not give fowels the same vigor or size as when it is doled out to them at regular stated times of feeding. Haphazard ways will bring poor results always.

The McMinnville Telephone-Register reports that Chas. Belatt of Whiteson, has this year made 17,000 gallons of cider; 600 gallons of jelly and 1200 gallons of boiled cider. His run this year was considerably less than that of last year.

The Benton County Prune Company is distributing among friends of the members of the company in the east ten pound boxes of the choicest prunes grown and cured by it during the past season. This is an excellent method of advertising its product.

A pound of poultry can be produced as cheaply as can a pound of beef, mutton, or pork, and there is no reason why it should not be an every day article of diet. There is no reason in considering it one of the luxuries to be reserved for special occasions in the farmers family.

One very serious obstacle to progress in agriculture is a tendency to follow blindly the method of the past. A not less fatal but less common obstacle to progress is a tendency to take up any method which promises marvelous results. The remedy for both of these tendencies is an increase of knowledge.

Gov. Lord has reappointed Dr. J. R. Cardwell of Portland as member of the State Board of Horticulture at large; Mr. Henry E. Dosch as member for the first district, and Mr. J. R. Casey as member for the third district. Gov. Lord's action in this matter is very satisfactory to the fruit growers of the state.

There ought to be a large attendance at the "Short Course" of the Oregon Agricultural College this winter. As we have before said, this course is open to all. There is no entrance examination and no fee is charged for tuition. Board can be obtained for $2.50 per week. The course begins Jan. 10, and closes Feb. 4. No one is too old to attend this course and it is especially helpful to young people on the farm who are ambitious to keep up with the times in agriculture knowledge. We can think of no better way for a person on a farm to take a vacation than in attending one of these short courses.

Represenative Flagg, of Marion county, says the Telegram, will introduce a bill at the next session of the state legislature requiring all executions of criminals to be made at the state penitentiary at Salem. Flagg is of the opinion that public executions have a demoralizing effect upon a community, and while under the present law executions are not public, they are usually witnessed by from 100 to 500 people. If all executions were conducted at the state penitentiary he contends this influence would in a large measure be abated, while a most salutary effect might be wrought upon the convicts at the same time.

Those of our merchants who had a stock of holiday goods are now just about "all up". The holiday trade this year has been exceptionally good.

Gentlemen: Take your shirts collars, and cuffs, to the express office, where they will be sent to the Salem Steam Laundry, every Monday morning: First class work guaranteed.

There are several of our subscribers whom we should be pleased to make a Christmas present of a receipt of a years subscription to THE NEWS, in exchange for three four bit pieces.

There is going to be a blue rock shoot by a number of Scio's crack shots tomorrow, Saturday, for chickens and turkeys. It will be under the management of the Scio Rod and Gun club, and promises to be a lively affair.

There will be a joint meeting of the Woodmen lodge and Ladies circle on Thursday evening of next week and all members of both organizations are asked to be present. A very interesting program will be arranged.

The many friends of Eugene Miller of Shelburn will regret to learn that he has been committed to the asylum at Salem. It is probable that with good treatment he will soon be sufficiently recovered as to be returned home.

The people of Monterey county Calif., have petitioned the governor for help. Their appeal is a pitiful one. No rain for months. And every hing destroyed and nothing to eat. How can a sensible Oregonian kick at our rain.

Landlord Beard, of the Farmer's Hotel, has been busy this week refitting the house recently purchased and moved along side of his hotel. The lower story will be fitted up for a sample room, and the upper story will be used for sleeping rooms.

The M E church at Harrisburg was dedicated last Sunday. The sermon in the morning was preached by Rev. Gue, of Portland, and the sermon in the evening by Senator Driver. The church is quite an addition to Harrisburg's institutions.

Johnson and Phillips have purchased the property back of the Scio Hotel, on which the old livery barn stands. They are going to erect a new warehouse on the adjoing property and by moving the old barn they do away with a fire exposure.

The state poultry show to be held in Albany from January 9 to 16th inclusive, will be in the Vance brick at the corner of 2nd and Ellsworth streets. It is expected there will be 2,500 birds on exhibition, from all parts of the state, and there will be premiums amounting to $500

The Lebanon lodge, A. O. U. W. through the efforts of "Jack" Warner, has added 16 new members to its rolls during the last couple of weeks. "Jack" done some good work over this way, too, and as a result the lodge here has taken in several new members, and has "work" on hand for sometime to come.

Our merchants are just now enjoying a fine trade. Farm produce is being marketed from all directions and much of it coming from near other towns but our merchants have established a reputation of paying more for produce than the farmers can get for it in any of the surrounding towns, hence it comes to Scio in large quantities.

At a meeting of the directors of the state horticultural society held in Salem this week, A. J. Johnson, of this city, was elected president of the society. This is an honor fittingly bestowed, as Mr. Johnson is fully capable of filling the position with credit to himself and the society.

We were this week shown twelve pictures and a very interesting letter sent by Edmund Cyrus to his mother, Mrs John Cyrus, of this city. The pictures are views of Manila and the surrounding country and some showing the effective work by Dewey and the land forces at that island. Mr. Cyrus speaks as though Manila would be a pretty good place to live.

The federal grand jury at Portland last Saturday brought in an indictment against W. H. Donaca, postmaster at Sweet Home, who is accused of having embezzled in October last $1259.50 postoffice funds. Donaca is a young man who seems to have teken every thing in sight as several citizens of Sweet Home who had money in his safe assert that in each instance he embezzled the funds.

The initiation of six members into the A O U W was made an extra occasion, and the famous Jefferson team was sent for. The initiation was held in the Odd Fellow's hall, and was conducted by the Jefferson team, assisted by the stereopticon. The initiation was followed by a banquet in the A O U W hall, gotton up by the members of the Degree of Honor and a season of sociability. —Democrat.

Another carload of household goods, farm implements and stock arrived from Nebraska last Saturday for the new residents of "Bohemian Valley." There were five head of fine horses in the car. There are now 62 of these people here, and they have all arrived within the past six months. There are several more families ready to come as soon as they can dispose of their interests in the east.

The mask ball to be given by the Ivy Leaf dancing club on Friday evening, December 30, promises to be the social event of the season. No pains are being spared to make the occasion a success. Chas. Devine, of Waterloo, has been engaged to furnish the music, and this is sufficient to insure first-class service in this line. Supper will be served by G. W. Morrow, proprietor of the Scio hotel, and it is safe to say that the table will be supplied with the best the market can produce.

The Elks of Albany had some great fun with S. A. D. Hamilton of this city, one night recently. "Doug" was over at Albany on a sort of a pleasure trip, and as the Elks were having a meeting he went up to the hall and said he wanted to join the Albany Woodmen, as the Scio Woodmen had twice refused to take him in. He was told to come back in an hour. The lodge adjourned, and several men from different lodges gathered together on the street, awaited Doug's arrival, when he was given the "Oriental" and a great deal of fun had for an hour or two.

It is a fact worthy of notice that business men seeking a new location are looking toward Scio. THE NEWS is in receipt of a letter form a business man in a neighboring city asking for information regarding the possibility of securing a suitable building for business purposes. It is a fact within the past six months Scio has added one hotel, a furniture store, a racket store, a notion store, a first class meat market, a fruit evaporator, a lawyer and a doctor to her business enterprises, and aside from these we have been put in reach of the outside world by the establishment of a telephone system. Verilly the old town do move.

The Scio Mineral Paint company was awarded a diploma of honorable mention for its exhibit of Oxide of Iron at the Omaha exposition, and A. Briggs, who lives a few miles north of Scio was awarded a similar diploma for an exhibit of Griggs raspberries in liquid. It will be seen that Scio was not unknown at this exposition, and also that the Mineral Paint company have received an advertisement worthy of more than passing notice. Inasmuch as the machinery of the company is all here and could easily be put in working order it would be a good plan to make some move in that direction. The supply of paint on hand is just about exhausted, and more could have been sold with little exertion. The stockholders should get together and make an effort to again establish the paint factory in our city, this time as a permanent institution.

The Big Poultry Show at Albany.

A treat to the citizens of Linn County. The Oregon State Poultry Association will hold their fourth annual exhibition in Albany, January 9 to 14 (inclusive.) The manager has made all necessary arrangements for the coming show. S. L. Roberts, of San Diego, Cal., and G. W. Downs, Sr., of Portland, Ore., have been selected as judges. Committees have been appointed for the various departments and all are working with a will to get up a magnificent display

Every breeder on the Pacific Coast should and we think will, make it a point to exhibit at this show. Great interest is manifested throughout the state in this exhibition and it bids fair to eclipse any former effort.

We must bear in mind the great importance our exhibitions are to the up-building of our poultry interests, and all we can do should be done; work for and sustain all our poultry shows, and their success will mean our success.

Every farmer in Linn county sould become personally interested in, and attend this poultry show. The citizens and business houses of Albany have been very liberal in supporting this exhibition and their guarantee fund now stands at $350 If we as farmers wish this show a success we should make preparations now to attend and keep in mind that right in the heart of Albany, which is the best town in the Willamette valley, there is going to be a rousing big Poultry Show.

From our regular correspondent

Postmaster Price was in Albany over Sunday.

Prof. Ray Baker is getting along fine with his school at Munkers.

Prof. Henry Eby has been engaged to teach in district no. 10, his contract to run as long as he desires the school.

G. H. Goin is preparing for a trip east, soon. He will visit several states, and may be absent three or four months.

Mrs R. L. DeVaney was taken quite ill last week. Her friends are hoping that her illness is not of a serious nature.

All are interested in good roads, and any movement in that direction is commendable, and the method now being aquited desires a fair trial.

Last Friday ended the term of school here, but Miss Alda Parish was given an extension of two months, so we will have a couple of months more school this winter.

The chicken pie supper at this place last week netted about $9. The program was very good and well rendered. There were quite a number of people present from a distance among whom we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith, of Munkers, Misses Jones, of Jefferson. Miss Edna Parish, of Sodaville and Wm. Bilyeu, of Lebanon.

Notes from Shelburn.

From our regular correspondent.

The property which goes to the widow, consists of real estate valued at $29,940, notes of this face value of $62,707.49, and over $30,000 in cash besides incidentals, a total estate of $133,097.31. The estate was administered upon in seven months.

The Irish Fair.

There is to be an Irish Fair in Portland from January 21st to February 4th, 1899. It comes in the merry month of January, after the holiday festivities are all evaporated and faded. There will be excursions and all the surrounding country can take advantage of this occasion and be happy. It is for a most worthy charity—the Home for the Aged—but it will not be conducted on the order of church fairs. In all way the Irish Fair will be an exposition, and a most attractive one at that. It is an elaboration of the industrial exhibition, carried out on new ideas. Most of the booths will be illustrative of Irish architecture and will be minature productions, on a sufficiently large and massive scale to be beautiful, of the celebrated structures of the "green little isle."

The management of the fair has been vested in Mr. L. W. Buckley, who conducted the Golden Jubilee Mining Fair and the Irish Fair in San Francisco, the Mechanics' Institute Fair for one year, besides expositians in the East and in Seattle, Los Angles and other places in the West.

There will be an exposition of the only silk looms this side of Salt Lake City, brought from Berkeley to Mr. William Hilton. There will be flax spinning and the preperation of flax for linen weaving. There will be an exhibition of wood-carving nickel and silver plating, and the manufacture of pottery.

In addition to these features and various side attractions, there will be on different evenings cooking lectures, bread-baking contests, and not only an American baby show, but a Chinese baby show, little children in fancy dances, etc. In the evening, during the 13 nights of the exposition, there will be cake walks' drill contests, United States volunteer's night a peace jubilee and Irish dancing-school night, and the engagement of the most famous acrobats ever brought to the North-West.
