WHEN HE BECOMES VALUABLE.

I've been readin' in the papers of a feller in the East
Who was breakin' on the N. G. P. R. R.;
He got forty thousand dollars 'cause he got himself deceased,
Fallin' under a refrigerator car

He got forty thousand dollars! an' the more I think o' that,
Why, the more I get the idee in my head
That the av'rage livin' man who's worth about 3 dollars pat,
Gets a heap o' sight more value when he's dead!

You may go through life a-feelin' that you ain't worth 39 cents,—
Take your hat off to the meanest yaller pup;
But when Death comes ambulatin' 'long, collectin' of his rents,
Somehow seems to send your valuation up!

So I'm forced to the conclusion—and maintain it for a fact,
A-reiteratin' of the words I said,
If the av'rage man's desirin' for to do a noble act,
Why, he'll raise his market price by gettin' dead!

We are in receipt of a large wall map of the United States, together with a book entitled the Louisiana Purchase, prepared by Hon. Binger Hermann, and for which he has our hearty thanks. The map shows the different territory purchased from time to time by the United States, and the book corrects numerous errors regarding our title west of the Rocky mountains. The work of preparing both the book and map was done under the personal supervision of Mr. Hermann, and therefore can be depended upon as being correct. Mr. Hermann has many warm friends and supporters in Oregon, and when an opportunity presents itself he does not fail to show his appreciation of their friendship.

Girls are of few days and full of mischief, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When the fair young girl checketh her gum with greater haste and stampeth her dainty (?) foot, doth then look out. In the evening she goeth forth dressed to death—and the trunk empty, but in the morning she snoreth and her mother prepareth breakfast. When the springtime cometh she yearneth for a beau; when he cometh they go out riding, and it is so lovely she keepeth him out two hours late and the liveryman addeth $4 to his bill. In the evening he popeth the question, is accepted and repenteth all his days, and thus endeth the chapter on girls.—Ex.

The standard fuel of the poorer and middle classes of Germany consists of brown coal briquettes. The briquettes are made by reducing brown coal to powder and then moulding it into little bricks with the addition of a quantity of bitumen. The briquettes sell for from $2 to $2.75 a thousand in Berlin, and burn without smoke. Under a new process briquettes for use as fuel are being made from peat, of which there are nearly 5,000,000 acres available in the empire. It is expected that these peat briquettes will drive coal and other fuels out of the markets.

Venezuela's troubles are not ended yet. Another band of "revolutionists" is said to be collecting on that country's frontier, and a new set of orgies is probably in sight. Cuba will escape auctions of this sort, and for two reasons. First, its people have had some coaching in self government by the United States, and secondly, and chiefly, any disorder like that which Hayti and Santo Domingo have had recently, and which is threatened in Venezuela, would bring United States intervention. The Cubans are far more fortunate than most of their neighbors.

News, news, news! It's enough to give a man the blues. Nobody married and nobody dead; nobody broke an arm or head; nobody comes in to talk of the "crap," no one gets boozy and starts a scrap; no one run in for taking a horn; no one married and nobody born. Oh! for a racket, a riot a fuss, someone to come in and kick up a muss, someone to stir up the peace laden air, somebody's comments to give us a scare, somebody than ped in an inch of his life, someone run off with another men's wife, someone come in and pay up his dues, anything just so it's news.

Election day was a very quiet one in Scio. Everything passed off smoothly and not even a dog fight took place to mar the pleasures of the occasion. Some money was put up on the result, but all was done in a spirit of friendlyness, and the best of feeling evisted in all quarters. In South Scio precinct there was a slight rivalry between two candidates for the position of road supervisor, but all went off smoothly.

If all the land planted in corn in the United States this year were massed, the area would exceed the British isles, Holland and Belgium combined, or four-fifths of the area of France or Germany. In spite of drought the corn crop last year fell but little short of a billion dollars in value. The favorable reports from the corn fields is good news for the country.

In thirty-seven of the United States, a married woman has no legal right to her children. In sixteen a wife has no right to her earnings outside of the home. In eight, a woman has no right to her own property after marriage. In seven, there is no law to compel a man to support his family.

The island of Barbadoes, which is nearly a hundred miles from St. Vincent, received in twelve hours a coating of volcanic dust amounting to twenty-two tons to the acre, or 2,352,120 tons for the entire island. Barbadoes is anything but thankful for this sudden addition to its real estate.

Kitchener's dispatch, announcing the end of the war, was posted in front of the war office at 5 o'clock, and it was not until 6:30 o'clock that the evening papers had their extras out. In the United States the extras would have been out at 3:30.

The Oregonian will not suspend publication, although Gen. E. Chamberlain has been elected governor.

Oregon Odd Fellows.

The annual meeting of the Odd Fellows grand lodge, held at Newport last week, was a decided success. The attendance was large and the reports submitted show general progress. The following officers were elected:

P H Stewart, Portland, grand patriarch; T F Howard, Pendleton, grand high priest; W M Green, Eugene, grand senior warden; E E Sharron, Portland, grand scribe, re-elected; B E Miller, Portland, grand treasurer; Claude Gatch, Salem, grand junior warden; Thomas F Ryan, Oregon City, grand representative; O A Sinks, Portland, grand marshal; W R Cunnington, Canyon City, grand sentinel; J H Penn, grand outside sentinel.

Is It a New Railroad.

The Portland Telegram says: "A great deal of interest is evinced in the actions of two surveying parties which are operating between Oregon City and Eugene. They are supposed to be working in the interest of certain Eastern parties who are backing up the scheme. It is believed that the work is preliminary to one, and possibly two new railroad lines. The fact that the belief is so general that Eastern capitalists are back of the scheme leads some to think that the engineering corps is working under the direction, possibly, of the Gould interests."

Lord Pauncefote Dead.

Washington, May 24.—Lord Pauncefote, British ambassador to the United States, died here today. His wife and three daughters were at the bedside when the end came.

Julian Pauncefote was born at Munich, Bavaria, Sept. 13, 1828. Educated at Paris, Geneva, and at Marlborough college. Attorney-General at Hong Kong 1859; chief justice at the same place in 1869. Chief justice Leeward Islands 1873; under-secretary of state for colonies in 1874. Under-secretary of state for foreign affairs in 1884. Ambassador to Washington, a post of first rank in 1889. Lord Pauncefote was the dean of the diplomatic corps at Washington—the longest in service at that post.

The Election.

Complete returns of the county election are not yet obtainable, but from unofficial reports we are able to say that the state has elected republican officers and representatives to congress, with the exception of governor, Hon. Geo. E. Chamberlain being elected to that office by a small majority.

In this county the officers are equally divided, the democrats electing the senator and two representatives and the clerk, recorder and sheriff, the balance going to the republicans, unless the official canvas should change the figures now on hand. Millers' majority over Kelly however, is but one or two votes. The republicans also elected Hobson of Marion county for joint senator. Following is a list of the newly elected officers:

M. A. Miller, senator.
W. R. Bilyeu, S. R. Claypool, and F. D. Cornett, representatives.
R. M. Payne, clerk.
Worth Huston, sheriff.
S. P. Munkers, recorder.
James Elkins, treasurer.
Hugh G. Fisher, surveyor.
D. B. McKnight, assessor.
Wm. Fortmiller, coroner.
O. H. Russell, commissioner.

The majorities of Payne, Huston and Munkers were about 300. Gen. E. Chamberlain also had a majority of between 200 and 300. The others were very close and perhaps the official count will change the figures somewhat. The prohibition vote was about 200, and that of the socialists will probably run as high as 250.

Bound To Divide the Business.

The Linn county court has appropriated $800 toward building the Calapooia wagon road to Blue River. That county is bound to divide the business of the mines with Lane. The Lane county roads to the mines should be put in the best possible shape and kept that way until such time as a railroad is built to the gold center.—Eugene Register.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G W Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and Applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Bitters 50c. Salve 25c at Peery & Peery's.

Some Facts About Hay.

No part of farming is more uncertain than that which has to do with the quantity of hay given to stock. Personal inspection shows wide variation, dependant on greater or less success in curing, and also on the original constituents composing the hay.

Clover makes richer hay than does timothy or other grasses, but clover itself varies greatly. That which becomes dead ripe before cutting loses its leaves in curing, and its stalks become woody and hard.

The richest clover hay is that of the second growth, made when the weather is hot and the plant is obliged to reach down into the subsoil for moisture.

In a wet season all hay is comparatively innutritious, even when it is not still further injured in curing.

Hay on land subsoiled and drained is richer than that grown on soil where the roots of the plant find stagnant water a foot below the surface, says Home and Farm.

Happy Time in Old Town.

"We felt very happy," writes R. N. Bevill, Old Town, Va., when Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured our daughter of a bad case of scald head. It delights all who use it for cuts, corns, burns, bruises, bolts, ulcers, eruptions. Infallible for piles. Only 25c at Peery & Peery's.

The Shasta Route.

In going over the famous "Shasta Route" of the Southern Pacific Co., the traveler ever finds something new to excite his admiration and interest. Starting at Portland one traverses the whole length of the Willamette Valley, the gem of the Northwest. Mt. Hood, Mt. Jefferson, and the Three Sisters and other snow-capped peaks are kept in sight for hours. The prunes, peaches, apples and other fruits are a delight in themselves. The crossing of the great mountain barrier between Oregon and California reveals the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. The wonderful array of towering mountains, and gorges into which we gaze from dizzy heights, forest clad mountain slopes stretching up to the line of perpetual snow, and the foaming mountain streams dashing fiercely down deep canons, now and then stopping for a short rest in some quiet pool. After a days enjoyment of old Mt. Shasta, the finest peak on the continent, we drop quickly down the canon of the Sacramento to the broad plains of the Sacramento Valley in California, and thence through vineyards and orchards to San Francisco.

SHEARED

W. W. Westenhouse made application at Albany Tuesday to register 158 acres of land in this county under the Torrens law. John Bayne of Salem, is the attorney. This is the first case filed in this county. In order to secure the registration Mr. Westenhouse employs a lawyer and advertises the registration for five weeks, when if there is no objection the decree will be entered, upon proper abstract being presented.

A Texas physician who has given a great deal of thought to the subject says that he is convinced that a person suffering from spring fever can overcome the ailment in a short time by digging post-holes. Here is a hint for some people.

It is reported at Eugene that Dr Thomas Condon, professor of geology in the State University, will retire after this year. His advanced age and feeble health is his reason for resigning. It is probable the regents will elect him professor emeritus on a salary.

The Booth-Kelly Lumber Co. has acquired control of the Oregon Central Military Wagon Road grant. Originally the grant extended from Eugene to the eastern border of the state to a point in Malheur county. It embraces every alternate section for three miles on each side of the road, and includes nearly a million acres of land.

Ex-Governor Moody received a telegram this morning advising him that Mrs. Pennoyer desired his presence as honorary pall bearer at the funeral of her husband tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Mr. Moody has attended the funeral of four ex-governors of Oregon previous to this, and also that of Smith, who was his opponent the year he was elected. There are three ex-governors of the state still living—Whiteaker, Lord and Moody.—The Dalles Chronicle.

Ice Cream Made Easy.

Anybody, says an exchange, can freeze their own ice cream in five minutes, and for a expenditure of a few cents. If the preparation to be frozen is placed in a tin bucket or other receptacle, it can be readily congealed by putting it in a pail containing a weak solution of sulphuric acid water. Into this throw a handful of Clabour's salts, and the resulting cold is so great that ice cream or ices will be frozen in a few minutes.

THE INDIAN SERVICE

Requirements That Must Be Met by Those Employed.

Examinations In Writing Twice a Year for Teachers and Instructors in the Various Departments—Agency Employes.

Charles McNichols, formerly a newspaper publisher in Kankakee county, Ill., now agent for the Colorado Indian reservation, with headquarters at Parker, Ariz., writes the following concerning the requirements for positions in the Indian service, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Occasionally I get a letter from some one inquiring for a position in the Indian service. Such positions, with the exception of agents and inspectors, are all in the classified civil service, and one must take the examination in order to be appointed. I will say, however, that for most places in the Indian service one is much surer of securing an appointment after he has passed the examination than in any other branch of the civil service. This is especially true of carpenters, blacksmiths, farmers, industrial teachers, laundresses, cooks and seamstresses. For these positions one is almost sure to get an appointment after passing a good examination. Teachers and matrons do not stand so good a show unless they pass high. One stands almost no show of being appointed superintendent, as most superintendents are appointed by promoting teachers who make good records.

"Wages are good, but in no case are they high. Mechanics get from $600 to $900 a year, room, fuel and lights furnished. Their hours are shorter and they usually do not have to work as hard as if working in the usual way.

"Farmers, industrial teachers, seamstresses, nurses, matrons and teachers have to take a written examination. These examinations are held twice a year, in April and October, on the same day in two or three principal cities of each state, like Chicago, Springfield and Peoria. The teachers' examination is a little stiffer than the ordinary county examination. Besides the usual branches they are examined in drawing and the elements of plane geometry. The other examinations do not so much require special education as common sense.

"There is no written examination for carpenters, blacksmiths, cooks and laundresses. They simply fill out a 'trades blank' with vouchers from those who know of their ability as workmen and are willing to swear to the same. These examinations can be taken at home at any time. All you need is to write to the civil service commission at Washington, telling them what position (trade) you wish to be examined in, and they will send you the necessary blanks and vouchers to be filled.

"The cook need not think that she has to cook alone for a hundred or more school children, nor the laundress that she has to bend over a washtub six days in a week. They are expected to direct and teach this work in the school and see that it is done properly. There is a regular detail of the larger girls to do the laundry work and a detail of boys to run the washing machines where they do not have a steam laundry. The laundress merely oversees and inspects the work, sees that each pupil does his share and that all work is properly done. The same is true of the cook. The wages for these positions is from $480 to $720 per year.

"All the clothing, sheets, curtains, etc., used in the school (except boys' suits) are made in the sewing room. The seamstress rarely sits down to a sewing machine, but she usually has to do the more particular cutting and fitting and to see that all the work is properly done.

"The industrial teacher looks after the boys' out-of-door work, such as gardening, care of the stock, teaming, cleaning grounds, etc. The carpenter makes repairs, makes tables, closets and does such building and repairing as may be required, with such boy assistants as he can use profitably.

"The matrons look after the children when not in school—see that they are properly bathed, dressed, etc., look after the dormitory work, and oversee the cook, laundress, seamstress, etc.

"The farmers and blacksmiths are usually agency employes, and they do all the necessary work in their lines. The farmer instructs the Indians in their farming, and sees that they plant, cultivate and harvest properly.

"Altogether there are about 4,000 employes in the Indian service. A letter of inquiry addressed to the civil service commission, Washington, together with a statement of the examination you wish to take, will bring the necessary information."

A Monster Chimney.

At Constable Hook, N. J., there is being built a chimney, which when completed will be the tallest on the American continent. In laying the foundations for this monster an excavation of 30 feet deep and 45 feet square was made to hard gravel. This area was filled with piles closely driven, and upon the platform a base of fireproof brick 30 feet square by 30 feet in height was built. On the base a round chimney of brick is to be built up to a total height of 300 feet. The stack is to be 16 feet in diameter at the top, and will weigh 20,000 tons. The cost of erection is in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Force of Habit.

Miss Waltzer—Let us have another round before the music stops.

Young Dancer (generously, but absent-mindedly) — Er—certainly — on me, this time."—Town and Country.

Building in Stockholm, Sweden.

Only two-thirds of the area of the lot can be covered in Stockholm, Sweden, except on street corners, where three-fourths is allowed. The remainder of the lot must be reserved for courts, for light and ventilation. All chimney flues must be 12 or 15 inches and must be swept once a month from October to April by official chimney sweepers.—Chicago Inter Ocean.
