Miss Nora Bilyeu, of Albany, came over last Saturday on a visit to the family of her uncle, J. A. Bilyeu.

Gene Pomeroy is reported to be greatly improved since last week, and is now considered well on the road to recovery.

M. C. Gaines is building a neat and commodious farm residence on his Crabtree farm. John Sims, of this city, is the leading builder.

Mr Willard Warwick, one of the large wheat growers of Harrington, Wash., was visiting his brother, J. S. of this city, during the first part of the week.

Warned,—At this office the address of J. L. Calavan, formerly of Mohlar, Wash. Any one knowing his whereabouts will confer a favor by giving us the information.

M. V. Bilyeu is having great trouble to secure cloth with which to make his hops. Even at the exorbitant price of 17 to 18 cents per yard cloth seems to be as scarce as the proverbial hens teeth.

George Rogers and family returned from their Kansas trip the first of the week. Mr. Rogers expressed himself as being delighted with the state that matured "Long Whiskered" Pfeffer and "Sockless" Jerry Simpson.

Art Shelton and Thomas Phillips, returned the first of the week from a visit to Klamath Falls. Mr. Shelton states that the prospects of that section are bright. Two railroads are building in addition to the big irrigation ditch.

G. B. Hansard and Luke Jennings, of Lebanon, were indicted at the session of the grand jury, last week, for violating the local option. For the purpose of bringing a test case before the supreme court, certain alleged facts were admitted.

Russia's troubles have just commenced. If the war with Japan results in religious and political freedom, real bona fide constitutional government for the people and abolishment of exiling political prisoners to Siberia it will have been a blessing in disguise to the Russian people.

At the literary last Friday night Messrs Anderson and Cain assisted by Messrs Peery and Gill, (behind the curtains) were billed for a duet. Well, they succeeded with the third attempt in rendering the same very nicely. A grave yard groan from either Peery or Gill, from behind the curtains, set the audience, singers and all to laughing so immoderately, that as before stated, a one-two-three, go! proposition was required to pull off the event.

Jimmie Garland's Death.

From the Drain Nonpareil, we gleam the following particulars of Jimmie Garland's sudden death:

"A frightful accident happened Saturday evening about 5 o'clock at the home of Frank Wells, 4 miles south of Elkton. James Garland, a young man aged 25 years, arrived here about two weeks ago with Amos Rhodes from Prineville, where they had been at work. Garland secured work at the Wells ranch and on Saturday evening he rode out to the pasture a short distance away and drove the cows up to the barn to be milked. Mr. and Mrs. Wells had just arrived home from Elkton when Garland arrived at the corral with the cattle, riding a horse belonging to Rev. W. B. Pepper, our new minister. Hearing a noise in the corral, like a horse in distress, Mr. Wells came out of the barn and was horror-struck at seeing Garland and the horse both lying on the ground in the agonies of death. The young man was at once carried to the house and Dr. Gray, of Elkton, hastily summoned, Mr. Wells making the ride of 4 miles in 20 minutes. Everything possible was done to save his life, but he never regained consciousness and died Monday morning. It was plainly evident that the horse had fallen and caught the young man under, crushing his life out, although no bones were fractured. In order to ascertain the sudden death of the horse he was cut open and it was found that a blood vessel of the heart had bursted, causing him to drop as suddenly as if shot through the heart with a bullet. The parents of the unfortunate young man were notified at once at Scio, Linn county, and the grief-stricken father and a brother came on the first train, and on Tuesday took the body to the old home for burial. W. H. Stark, the Elkton undertaker prepared the body for shipment and he and Mr. Wells took it to Drain Tuesday morning."

Halloween Pranks.

Tuesday night was Halloween and somebody was quite busy mixing things up generally. Show windows were made to say some very ridiculous things, such as Wesely Bros. announced themselves as having second-hand goods; H. Phillips had plenty of bread made of bricks; Hibler & Gill Co's windows were well ornamented; a legend was placed on Dr. Browne,s office door; the Richardson hotel was closed in fact by having a huge telephone pole placed across the door; a buggie with two dummies labeled "Joe" and "Nellie" was found in front of the old livery stable, and E. C. Peery was gravely announced as headquarters for the Albany Brewing Co., with a wagon load of empty beer kegs as evidence.

However, all of the pranks were of a harmless nature and only caused our merchants to wash their windows somewhat earlier than they had intended.

The News for only $1.00 for one year if you will subscribe for it before December first.

Fat Your Poultry.

Last year a great deal of Poultry, especially turkeys, were brought to market in the condition in which Jon's turkey is said to have been. This caused our dealers to lose money on the goods; for Portland dealers would not buy poor stuff except at reduced rate. The difference in the value is about three cents per pound. In addition to the loss by the lesser price, the poultry raiser loses the added weight from what good feeding would bring. It pays well to bring whatever you have to sell in good condition to market.

NOTICE OF FINAL ACCOUNT.

Notice is hereby given that the final account of W. M. Malone as Administrator of the estate of Hester Wisner deceased, has been filed in the County Court of Linn County, State of Oregon, and that the 6th day of November, 1905 at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., has been duly appointed by such Court for the hearing of objections to such final account and the settlement thereof, at which time any person interested in such estate may appear and file objections thereto in writing and contest the same.

County Assessor.

A Wretched Railroad Service

Perhaps there does not exist a more wretched railroad service anywhere than is supplied by the Woodburn-Springfield branch of the Southern Pacific railroad. Incompetency and inefficiency seems to prevail in the handling of the freight, express matter and the mails. Freight is oftentimes nearly a week in transit from Portland to this city. Frequently it is carried by West Scio and returned a day or two thereafter. Perishable freight sometimes is so long in transit that it is unsaleable when it reaches our merchants. Now this is simply unbearable and if we could help ourselves, the S. P. would very quickly lose its patronage from this locality. The passenger service is so inferior, that four-fifths of it goes either to Albany or Jefferson to reach the main line. Just why the S. P. officials provide such inferior service on this line when it could be, just as well, efficient and up-to-date, is not easily understood. Our merchants and others who have freight to move, pay first-class freight rates and are justly entitled to first-class service.

If the talked of electric line that is said will be built up the valley, should come through this section, the S. P. railroad will lose a large portion of its freight traffic and all of its passenger business along the Woodburn-Springfield line.
