At St. Louis, Mo., the grand jury returned an indictment against Wm. Garlenback, charging him accedting a bribe while a member of the house of delegates. This was the only true bill returned against a long list of alledged boodlers, whose cases were investigated by the jury.

C. L. Paton, a nice looking young man, successfully swindled the banks of Knoxville, Tenn., and Middleborough, Ky., of amounts aggregating nearly $20,000. His plan was to deposit $2000 with a lot of forged checks, getting bona fide certificates of deposit which he would cash at another bank. He escaped arrest.

Five hundred miners are out at the John and Adgers slopes of the Blue creek mines. The miners want various improvements in their surroundings. It is not a question of wages. The company has spared no expense in making these miners comfortable and has put up good houses for the workmen and arranged for schools and churches.

M. A. Teasdell, a well known merchant of Franklin, O., while suffering from aberration of the mind, fastened himself in an outhouse and touched a match to a can of gun powder. The explosion blew open the door and aroused the neighbors, but aside from a stunning and the singeing of his hair, no serious injury was produced.

La Grippe remedy: Sir C. De Lacy Evins, one of the most eminent physicians of England, suggests orange juice as the best remedy for la grippe. The acid, citrate of potash, prepared from the juice by simple chemical action, decreases the amount of fibrin in the blood to an extent which prevents the developement of pneumonia.

Word comes from Guthrie, Ind. Ter., that the disorder prevailing there during the preceding week was effectually quelled on January 31st, upon receipt by the United States marshal of the following telegram from Attorney General Miller: "You will permit no more lot jumping nor lot ejectments. Let matters remain as they are." This telegram was supplemented by one from Secretary Noble to Mayor Dooley to the same effect, assuring him also that a territorial government would soon be established.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 25, Hon. Wm. Churchfield, who was a member of congress in 1873–4 from the Third district of Tennessee, and who was noted for his excentricities, died after an illness of several months. It is expected that another strike of the London dock laborers is impending with the promise of a long and bitter contest for supremacy between the dock companies and the laborers which will be followed by all the distress and misery attendant upon such occasions.

A London dispatch Feb. 7, says: An explosion occurred to-day in a colliery at Abersycham, in Monmouthshire, ten miles northwest of Newport. Three hundred miners were imprisoned, and for several hours no communication could be had with them. An opening was finally effected at noon. Two hundred of them have been rescued. A number of those taken out were seriously injured. Rescuing parties are still searching for those remaining in the mine. Later news report that sixty dead have been taken out. Latest estimates place the loss of life at not less than 150. Physicians in attendance pronounce half of the number dead to have been killed by fire and concussion, and the other half by suffocation. Several of those taken out have since died. It is ascertained that the mine has been in a dangerous condition for some time past; that long ago an explosion occurred in an adjoining pit by which five men were killed. The damaged pit was flooded, and water gradually forced the gas into the pit which was the scene of to-day's disaster. Upon this information it is already suggested that the owners of the mine be prosecuted for criminal negligence.

A DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Ex-Governor Richard J. Oglesby, of Ill., when he was in New York several years ago, was invited by a friend to dine at Delmonico's. This was before his election for governor five years ago, and while he was a candidate for the nomination. He had never been in Delmonico's and accepted with pleasure. The dinner over, cigars were proposed, and, as both gentlemen were due at an appointment, they went to the cigar stand to be served. The attendant, knowing the governor's entertainer, took a box of fine Havanas from under the counter and opened it to serve them.

"What are these?" asked the governor.

"Cigars," replied the host.

"But how much are they?" he persisted in asking, and the man at the counter replied: "Four for $1."

A look something like holy horror stole over Uncle Dick's face as he put up his hand with a deprecating motion and gasped out half tragically, "Put 'em back; put 'em right back. Why, if they knew out in Illinoy that I smoked a 25 cent cigar it would ruin me socially, financially, religiously, politically and every other way. No, sir; a 5-cent cigar is good enough for me in Illinoy, and a 10-center in New York."

VALUABLE WOOL STATISTICS.

Below will be found much valuable information relative to the statistics of the wool supply Jan. 1st, 1890, as well as to the probable demand. This information is furnished the Rural Spirit by parties in Boston, who are regarded as the very best authority:

BOSTON, Jan. 11, 1890.

Dullness continues in the wool market, although signs of life are daily growing more apparent among the manufacturers, and as soon as some substantial cassimere orders are taken we may confidently expect a more active business. The stocks of wool in the various markets have finally been made up and carefully revised with the following result:

	Jan. 1, 1890.	Jan 1, 1889.
Boston,	29,700,000, Domestic.	18,318,000
	6,000,000, Foreign.	3,088,000
Total,	35,700,000	21,406,000
New York,	4,100,000, Domestic.	4,065,000
	6,900,000, Foreign.	4,580,000
Total	10,500,000	8,645,000
Philadelphia,	8,000,000 Domestic.
	3,500,000 Foreign.
Total,	11,000,000	8,000,000
St. Louis,	6,000,000	2,000,000
Chicago	4,300,000	2,750,000
Hartford,	2,500,000	3,000,000
San Francisco	4,250,000	2,000,000
Troy and Albany	1,400,000

It will thus be seen that in all the principal markets of the country except Hartford, the stock is somewhat larger than a year ago, but still not large compared with the decrease in the stocks held by manufacturers as compared with the same date last year, and considerable smaller than it was Jan. 1, 1888. If the mills get some orders for cassimeres, and keep running as they did in 1889, there will not be any surplus of stock when the summer opens. The stock of domestic in Boston is divided about as follows:

1890.	Lbs.	1889.	Lbs.
Domestic fleeces about	7,000,000		4,057,000
California,	1,800,000		1,375,000
Texas	1,200,000		900,000
Territory	9,000,000		3,600,000
Oregon	3,600,000		2,750,000
Kentucky, Mo., etc.	1,400,000		995,000
Georgia and Lake	150,000		120,000
Pulled	2,850,000		2,182,000
Scoured	2,300,000		1,658,000
Sundries	600,000		625,000

From abroad we hear of steady markets and very little coming to the United States. Probably not over one-fifth as much Australasian and no Montevedio has been bought for us and is on its way to this country as compared with a year ago. Of course this will also be naturally felt in the wool supply when those mills which have been in the habit of using largely of foreign come into the market.

Sales for the past week foot up about 2,250,000 pounds against about 3,680,000 pounds for the corresponding week of last year, and about 2,900,000 for the preceding week of this year. The principal sales have been of California and Oregon about 425,000 pounds; of Territory about 300,000 pounds, and of Foreign about 300,000 pounds.

CALIFORNIA AND OREGON WOOLS.

some good sales of Eastern Oregon wool have been made, but at some sacrifice to the views of the holders. The best of it will not sell at over 19c, and other sales as low as 14c are reported. On a scoured basis 58c is the outside price for XXX, and the principal sales for the week were at a cent or two under that figure. In Valley Oregon there is a small sale at from 25 to 26c per pound, which are extreme prices. California wools have been dull, and there is nothing of interest to report.—Rural Spirit and W. Farmer.

EQUESTRIENNES.

Much has been said on the subject of riding and the way to sit a horse, but however much may be read the firm equable seat under all circumstances comes of a clear head combined with practice, nevertheless precept is always valuable. As to how a lady should sit a horse is well expressed by Mr. William A. McGibben, in the New York Herald as follows:

The body should be balanced exactly in the middle of the saddle, and far enough back to grasp the second pommel with the right knee comfortably, while the left one is just spanned by the third pommel or leaping-horn.

The rider is now sitting upon that part of the animal which is the center of motion; the head erect, turning easily without involving the body; eyes looking over the horse's head in the direction he is going; shoulders well thrown back so as to expand the chest, taking care to keep them in line and not to raise one higher than the other; the small of the back slightly bent forward, upper part of the arms hanging straight down from the shoulders and held loosely, but close to the sides; the fore arm straight out from the elbows; wrists rounded inward on a level with the elbows; each hand holding a rein, fingers closed, knuckles to the front, thumbs extended on the end of the reins and pointed across the body; hands held five to six inches apart, according to the width of the horse's neck in front of the body.

From the knee to the foot the right leg must be held close to the forelap of the saddle, the heel raised and inclined backward a little. The right side of the upper part of the right leg from the knee to the hip joint should be turned on its outer side and held close to the saddle, and the inside of the upper part of the left leg should be in contact with the saddle. The left knee should be placed just below the third pommel, and the lower part of the leg should hang straight down from the knee and close to the side flap of the saddle, the upper part of the legs only to leave the saddle at the rising trot.

The toot should be placed evenly in the stirrup as far as the ball, the heel being held a little lower and pointed toward the shoulders of the horse. The body should be pliant and accompany the movement of the horse.

A Negro Statesman.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31.—C. H. J. Taylor, a colored politician and recently United States minister to Liberia, went into a restaurant to-day and asked for coffee and pie. The proprietor told him the price would be $1. Taylor replied "all right." After eating he walded up to the counter, threw down 10 cents and said: "Now sue me for the rest." He walked out of the place before the astonished proprietor could reply. The man says he will sue Taylor.
