FARM POINTERS.

Late plantings of small grains as wheat, oats and barley usually results in poor yields in Oregon, the experiment station reports. Under irrigated conditions other crops do better after the first of May. Late planted crops that give good results are corn, rape, alfalfa, buckwheat and root crops.

Oregon rose bushes infested with aphids or their eggs are saved by use of nicotine sulphate applied with a fine sprayer, says the experiment station. Slugs are controlled by dusting the foliage of the plants attracted and the surrounding soil by dry bordeaux which is shaken through a loosely woven sack or if the plot is a large one applied with a dust gun.

HOME POINTERS.

A device to save flour and lighten work for the cook is to keep a large salt cellar full of flour on a shelf with which to flour meats, cake tins and bread boards.

Too much fat on the top of meat extracts is skimmed off by using brown paper to absorb the fat from the top of the fluid.

An ordinary board eraser is an aid in cleaning a wood stove. It is convenient to keep it in the warming oven or any place near the stove.

A boiled icing too soft to frost a cake is made suitable for use by setting it in a pan of boiling water and cooking until it is grainy around the edge.

Crumbs are kept from working into the frosting when icing a cake by piling a good deal of frosting on a spatula for spreading and keeping enough on it so the spatula never touches the cake.

In frosting the cut side of a cake the cut side is spread first with a thick paste of powdered sugar and water. When this is dry it is frosted over to make the icing smooth.

When a cake frosting is too thin powdered sugar is added to thicken it. When it is too thick boiling water is added until the frosting is of the proper consistency.

An orange is placed in the oven for one minute before peeling to make it easier to remove all of the white membrane.

Oranges for slicing are peeled slowly, removing all of the white membrane at the first peeling. The orange is cut in half through the sections and the core removed. The half, cut side down, is placed on a small cutting board and sliced thinly, holding the orange together. A knife is slid under the cut half, which is lifted to the plate. The knife is withdrawn and the orange gently pressed on the top slice. The slices are then in an even row.
